WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT

Better Health Through Knowledge

Morning Sickness

- Hospital Medicine
- Missed Period

Q. I had dreadful morning nausea with my first child. Is there anything new about this? I am pregnant again.

A. The basic principles of management of nausea and vomiting in early pregnancy have changed very little in recent years. Doctors prescribe mild sedatives, encourage a diet rich in carbohydrates and low in fats, and suggest taking frequent small, dry, meals. Fluids should be taken separately. Certain drugs are also employed, not always with success.

Q. I was recently a patient in our local hospital. One night I had a splitting headache but the nurse wouldn't even give me an aspirin tablet. I think it was just plain laziness on her part. Do you agree?

A. Sorry, but we don't agree. Hospital nurses give patients only what the doctor has ordered. The reason? He must know that only the drugs he feels will help the patient have been administered. If others are given, even such simple drugs as aspirin, he may mistakenly attribute the effects to the prescribed drugs, with possible hampering of his treatment of the case.

Q. In a pamphlet for expectant mothers, mention is made of increased danger of miscarriage at the first missed period. Women are warned against travel and other activity at this time. What is your opinion?

A. We will refer to an Ohio physician who wrote a medical article, "The Myth of the Missed Menstrual Period." According to this doctor, there is no proof that the time of the missed menses is in any way different than other times during the pregnancy. In other words, miscarriage is no more likely to occur at the time of the missed period than at any other time during pregnancy.

Note to readers: Thanks for all the nice letters. As many questions as possible will be answered in this column, but for obvious reasons replies must be brief.

Little Girl Dies In Terra Alta Fire

A three-year-old Terra Alta girl was burned to death at 1 a. m. Tuesday, following a kerosene explosion which burned her home to the ground on the Preston road, four miles south of Hagemount.

Marilyn Kirk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kirk was trapped in a raging inferno and died when her father was unable to answer her screams for help.

The 26-year-old father of the child dragged his wife, Ethel, 19, and their other daughter Helen, 4, and a sister-in-law, Dorothy, 22, from the flaming house, but was unable to return for Marilyn as the house collapsed before him.

Mr. Kirk was a former resident of the Deer Park area a number of years ago.

The Terra Alta Volunteer Fire department answered the call but the three-room house was almost burned to ashes when they arrived.

Mrs. Kirk was taken to the Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland where she was reported in "fair condition". She was suffering from a burned arm, cuts about the face and badly seared hair and head. The fire ignited when Mrs. Kirk attempted to fix a fire in the family's Burnside stove, located in the bedroom, and a bottle of kerosene she was holding blew up in her hands.

Mr. Kirk gave this account:

"We went to bed about 9 p. m., and the first thing I knew is when I woke up, my wife was calling. I started grabbing the girls and went outside. My wife was in the house when I got Helen and Ethel out and started back into the house, but the whole place was afire.

"I could not get to Marilyn. When I came out with the first two girls my wife was afire. She must have rolled in the snow to get the fire out. A couple of boys took my wife to the Oakland hospital."

Robert Lewis and Wayne Glotfelty, both of Corinth, were in the hills hunting when they saw the sky light up from the blazing home.

"We were nearby hunting," Lewis said, "and I saw the light from the fire. We went to a neighbors house as soon as we saw the blaze and Mrs. Kirk was there burned pretty badly. Her arm was burned, she had cuts over her eyes and her hair was burned. We took her to the hospital about 1:30 a. m. or 2."

Aside from Mrs. Kirk the family was treated and released from the hospital.

Sixteen Questions On Ballot Pass

Maryland voters approved a new compact with Virginia which will place the Potomac River's once-controversial fishery under joint control of an agency of the two states. They also apparently approved the fifteen other questions appearing on the ballot on Tuesday.

Unofficial returns showed 229,882 in favor of ratification and 196,914 against.

The compact, designed to restore peace and promote development of the Potomac, had become a campaign issue. Southern Marylanders opposed the compact. The compact is an effort to settle differences between Maryland and Virginia which have existed since 1785 when Maryland gave Virginia equal fishing rights in the Potomac in return for free passage of Maryland ships through the Virginia capes.

On the other fifteen questions it was nip and tuck for a while. There was a strong vote against the five additional circuit judges in Baltimore City, as well as against the Potomac compact. Two more judges for Prince Georges county were sanctioned by a margin of only about 58,000 out 250,000 votes.

On the question of a new judge for Montgomery and Kent counties and another for the circuit of Washington, Garrett and Allegany counties the tally was approximately 115,000 to 75,000 with some 486 polling places not in.

Opposition to the new judges stemmed from the accompanying removal of a constitutional prohibition against present legislators being eligible for the posts.

The way was paved to increasing the number of judges on the Court of Appeals from five to seven.

The path also was cleared for the legislature to provide for tax assessment of farm property below that of adjacent land that has been subdivided into lots for development as homes.

Counties and municipal corporations were granted authority to carry out urban renewal projects limited to slum clearance.

Two other property questions relating to condemnation of land by county councils of Baltimore and Montgomery also were sanctioned by lopsided majorities.

A proposal to reduce the machinery required before a county may grant public funds to corporations trying to attract industry raised quite a bit of objection but passed 162,240 to 103,649.

Christmas Savings Checks Are $50,000

Christmas Savings club checks from the two Oakland banks will total around $50,000 this year, a figure some $5,000 higher than that of previous years, it was announced this week.

Departing from the usual procedure again this year, checks are being mailed out prior to December 1 to the depositors. In fact, the Garrett National Bank in Oakland mailed out some $20,000 to its 300 Christmas club depositors last week. The First National Bank of Oakland will mail checks to its 339 or more club depositors about the 15th.

This $50,000 is being sent to over 600 depositors of the two banks. Both banks are planning Christmas Savings clubs again next year and may be started at any time. The first payment will be due when started. Depositors may make as little as 25-cent payments each week. They may be accepted for as much as $10 per week.

Both banks have shown some increase almost every year since the custom started quite a few years ago. Distribution throughout the nation will be over one billion dollars. While most of the money goes for Christmas presents, it is estimated that a percentage will go into savings accounts, insurance premiums and savings bonds. Many club members save for specific purposes, for winter vacations, to pay taxes, to meet insurance installments, to finance home modernization and for tuition for college students.

Wed October 29th At Cove Church

The St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Cove, was the scene on Saturday October 29, of the marriage of Miss Joanne Elizabeth Collier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Playford Collier, Accident, to Elmer Dean Durst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Clark Durst, Grantsville.

The Rev. William E. Carlson, pastor, performed the ceremony against a backgronnd of palms, chrysanthemums and candelabra.

Mrs. June Harvey, organist played the traditional wedding music before the ceremony, and accompanied soloist, Mrs. Lucille Sines, who sang, "O Perfect Love" and "Lord Bless This Hour."

Miss Collier escorted to the altar by her father, wore a chapel length peau de soie and Chantilly lace gown designed with a sabrina neckline, fitted bodice, and long pointed sleeves. A crown, fashioned with orange blossoms and iridescent sequins held a fingertip veil of French illusion. Her only jewelry was a necklace of crystals.

The cascade bouquet she carried was of white roses and pinochi chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Gerald Glotfelty McHenry, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Leah Brenneman, Accident, sister of the bride, Mrs. Patricia Pope, Frostburg, sister of the groom and Miss Sara Jane Ebert, Piedmont, friend of the bride, were bridesmaids.

They were all attired in street length velveteen dresses of American beauty, fashioned with scooped necklines and three-quarter length sleeves. Their headpieces were illusion veils attached to a band of matching velveteen leaves. They carried cascade bouquets of white pinochi chrysanthemums with white streamers.

Miss Connie Pope, niece of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a white velveteen dress with a matching headband of assorted flowers and carried a basket of white pinochi chrysanthemums. Master Johnny Glotfelty, nephew of the bride was ring bearer.

Joseph Durst, Grantsville, brother of the groom, served as best man.

Ushers were Gerald Glotfelty, McHenry, John Brenneman, Accident, Harry Pope, Frostburg, Junior ushers were Daniel Brenneman, Accident and Thomas Durst, Grantsville.

The mother of the bride selected a wine red wool dress, matching hat, with black accessories and wore a corsage of white rosebuds. The groom's mother was attired in a blue lace dress with black accessories and wore a corsage of white rosebuds.

A reception was held in the Accident Fire Hall which was decorated in white streamers and wedding bells. The bride's table had a five tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom, which was baked and served by Mrs. Harland Bowman, McHenry. Others assisting in serving were Mrs. Ervin Georg, Accident, Mrs. Bernard Merrill, Grantsville, Mrs. Glenn Durst, Frostburg, Mrs. Paul Durst, Grantsville, and Mrs. Gideon Durst, Grantsville.

The bride is a graduate of Northern High School and Catherman's Business School and was previously employed as a private secretary at West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co., Luke.

The groom is a graduate of Northern High School and attended Catherman's Business School and is sales credit manager for Goodyear at New Bedford, Massachusetts.

For going away the bride wore a tan suit, feather hat, and brown accessories. A corsage of white roses completed her costume.

Fred Besley Dies In Laurel Hospital

Maryland's first state forester, Fred W. Besley, aged 87, died Tuesday, November 8, at the Laurel General hospital, near Baltimore.

Mr. Besley was the state's only or chief forestry official from 1906 until his retirement in 1942. He was an official of three forestry groups at one time or another and held an honorary doctorate from the University of Maryland.

At his retirement the department consisted of some 50 fulltime employes, and in a busy season would be increased to triple strength.

Mr. Besley was born in Vienna, Va., February 16, 1873. He attended public schools in Maryland and then Maryland Agricultural college, now University of Maryland, where he was one of the oldest alumni at his death.

He was married to the late Bertha Simonds Besley in 1900.

In 1901 Mr. Besley was graduated from the Yale School of Forestry and worked for several years in the United States Forest service. In 1906 he was chosen as the only employe of the newly created Maryland Board of Forestry. In 1922 his department was put under the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland.

The year before Mr. Besley's retirment the department was separated from the University again.

In 1914 he was awarded an honorary degree as a doctor of science by the University of Maryland. He was the author of a number of books, reports, pamphlets and articles on Maryland forest subjects. His administration spanned the adoption of most of the forestry programs and laws of the state.

He was an elder in the First Presbyterian church, Baltimore, and a boy scout official. A resident of Laurel since his retirement Mr. Besley is survived by two sisters, a brother, two daughters, two sons, ten grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Funeral services are set for 2 p. m., today from the First Presbyterian church.

For a number of years, Mr. Besley spent quite a lot of time in Garrett county, surveying and inspecting forests and in managing them during the early days of the development of state lands. During the summer months he was a frequent visitor to this county.

Pictures Out Of The Past

Various industries, which have flourished over the years in this section, have been shown from time to time in the old picture series, but the activity seen today, at one time provided an economic boost in more ways than most.

Although it is fast becoming a lost art so far as small operators are concerned, the tanning of hides into leather, at one time provided employment and livelihood to many persons engaged in cattle raising, timbering and other activities as well as the tanning process itself.

Today's photograph shows workmen stacking bark at the tannery once operated at Gormania, W. Va., by the I. G. Hoffman Sons Co., and was taken about 1889 or 1890, according to Richard Miller, of Oakland, who owns the photo.

The company also operated tanneries at Moorefield, Petersburg and other points in West Virginia continuing some operations until fairly recent years, although the Gormania plant ceased about 1930 following a devastating fire.

Probably the largest tannery in Garrett county was at Hutton, which was started in 1893 and gave employment to as many as 50 men during its 32 years of existence.

A strong second half offensive splurge for Petersburg High school last Friday afternoon gave the Vikings a 26 to 0 victory over the Southern Highlanders in a Potomac Valley conference contest played at Petersburg.

The Vikings had lost its first game of the season last week at the hands of Keyser (19-7) and for awhile it appeared as if the Vikings were in for a rough time of it again.

Neither team was able to score in the first half, but it was the Highlanders who staged the biggest threat in the first two periods, driving to the Petersburg 11-yard line before losing the ball on downs.

Viking quarterback Jack Boor cranked up his passing arm in the second half and connected twice with Ernie Nelson in the end zone, and halfback Steve Bruce also got a pair of touchdowns. Three of the four Petersburg scores came in the final period.

Bruce went over from 12 yards out in the third quarter for the Viking TC. Then early in the fourth stanza Boor hit Nelson on a 16-yard toss good for touchdown number two.

A Southern fumble at the Petersburg 45 was grabbed by Bruce, who picked up good blocking and went all the way. The 25-yard Boor to Nelsen passes on the final scoring drive moved the Vikings down to the Southern five. Louie Alt gained two yards to the three, then Boor on a quickie pass, found Nelson in the end zone.

Credited with the key defensive play for Petersburg was Jim Junkins who crashed through to dump Jim Craig on a two-yard loss when Southern had the ball on a fourth and one situation at the Viking 11.

The loss gave Southern a 4-4 record for the season with a 2-3 record in the Potomac Valley conference. Southern won games from Moorefield, Kingwood, Northern, and Romney School for the Deaf. It lost games to Beall, Keyser, St. Francis of Morgantown, and Petersburg.

Beall High copped the Potomac Valley conference title Friday night by defeating Keyser 20 to 13 under the lights of the Beall field. They had a 4-0 record in the conference.

Vindex Boy Ill, Lonely in Hospital

Ten-year old James Kent, of Vindex, is ill, lonesome, and quite a ways from home and home folks.

He lies on a bed in Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, where he is undergoing tests and treatment for a lung condition.

His mother, Mrs. Christine Kent, is unable to stay with her son, in Baltimore, but must remain at home with her husband and four other children.

Misfortune has stalked the Kent family in recent months. The father, a miner, underwent surgery last winter for stomach ulcers and returned to work, but ruptured incisions made in the surgery. Since then, the family has been existing on welfare funds.

One of the children is a cerebral palsy victim.

Jimmy fell victim to pneumonia when he was eight months old. The experience has hindered the development of his lungs and he is a victim of asthma.

A card sent to James Kent, 6601 N. Broadway, Baltimore 5, will help lift the load of loneliness that burdens him.

Oak and hemlock bark furnished most of the material from which tannin was extracted to cure the hides, which were obtained from slaughter houses as far away as Chicago. The Hutton operation ceased work in 1925.

Mr. Roth was graduated from Southern High School in 1956, attended West Virginia University, and at present is a Dental student at the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, University of Maryland. No date has been set for the wedding.

Sometimes a face is striking. It isn't the sort of face you're accustomed to. It's a face you wouldn't have expected to see. But you have seen it! That's why you call it striking.

The Face of Faith is like that . . .

The eyes seem lifted toward the hills, to a source of strength. The lips are firm with a courage that rests neither on prowess nor weapon. The countenance shines with a joyous light . . . a light that seems to reflect some mystic Sun though the world around is cast in shadow and gloom.

I see the Face of Faith each Sunday . . . the face of a child . . . perhaps your child!

I am her Sunday School teacher—and the joyous light of that striking face inspires me to seek more faithfully in the worship and work of my Church the help of God.

You are her parents. How that confident, expectant radiance must inspire you!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

By Dr. Kenneth J. Foreman

Bible Material: Psalms 116; 117, 118.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 27.

God In My Life

Lesson for November 13, 1960

DOES anything happen when God comes into a human life? —"Comes in"—not intending to say he is never there. God is in all places and at all times, there is no escaping him. But as we were thinking last week, there is a difference in the way he is present. Some men never are aware of God, just as a blind man is unaware of light. Others are painfully aware, as a man may writhe under fear of the wrath of God. But what God wants of every man is to be his Father and his Friend. This comes (as we know) only after sin has been confessed and forgiven. But when this comes to pass, whether we say "God in my life" or "my life in God" or "my life with God," such life has a treasure, the "pearl of great price."

Dr. Foreman

"I Love the Lord, Because . . ."

From the many things that can be said about living in the joyful presence of God, let us select three. One is: It is a life of thankfulness. The man of faith does not simply take what comes, as a dull matter of course. He is aware of God's gifts and is grateful. The Psalms numbered 116, 117 and 118 are like musical compositions with interwoven themes; one of these is in the words "I love the Lord because . . ." Because he has heard my voice . . . because he inclined his ear to me . . . the Lord has dealt bountifully . . . Thou hast delivered my soul from death . . . We may well be grateful to other people, our parents, our friends, the uncounted persons who make life livable for us. We may well be thankful to church and state and school, to inventors and artists and poets; what would life be without them? But when we push our thinking still farther, we realize that in the long run all good things come from the Father who created heaven and earth. Whatever good life may bring, it is God who sends each gift-laden day upon its way.

Much In Little

The 117th Psalm is the shortest chapter in the entire Bible. (Oddly enough, it is next-but-one to the longest chapter.) Short though it is, it says much in its few words. The Psalmist scarcely begins his psalm before he comes to the end of it. But even in these few words we can see that the life with God is a life of testimony. The Psalmist lets every one know he worships God, the God of all. He does not hide his happiness, he does not think of religion as a strictly private affair. He gives testimony to his faith. Let it always be understood that testimony by words is worth little if there is no testimony in life. But the true religious life is not a silent one. The person who has discovered God as the Great Companion cannot be silent about it. This Psalmist sings of a God who is not his own private deity, but the Lord of nations, the Lord of the whole earth. The true God is not a tribal god, tied to one nation or church or race. He is Lord of all.

"Give Us Success!"

In Psalm 118 the bright thread of life and the dark strand of Death are intertwined. (This like 116 and 117 were among the hymns sung at Jesus' Last Supper.) But in the end, Life is the stronger. Life with God is Power and Joy; "The Lord is my strength and my song." The Psalmist is not an unrealistic dreamer. Life even for those who live in God and with God has its dark times. Look at the harsh words in this Psalm: "distress," "those who hate me," "they surrounded me," "I was pushed hard so that I was falling . . ." Victory is still to be won, joy is not complete, as we can see from that cry, "Give us success!" The life with God is not a life without struggle, seldom a life without defeat. Troubles, temptations, tasks, trials and tears there will be. Success in the worldly sense may never come. But success against the same forces that fight against God, we may expect in the end. The Christian is not like a ship on a calm summer voyage; rather, he is a ship battered by winter's storms, making port at last.

Pontiac tailors body design to a new Wide-Track

Better balance and roadability! Control that can't be copied!

We've built more room and greater roadability into this sleek new '61 Pontiac. There's more headroom, legroom and footroom. Doors are wider and they're designed to open farther for greater convenience.

By trimming side overhang, we balanced more weight directly between the wheels. The '61 Pontiac gives you greater stability. It gives you a greater sense of control for every mile, every maneuver.

Isn't now the time to try the Wide-Track way to travel?

THE ONLY WIDE-TRACK CAR! Pontiac has a wider tread than any car in its field. Its 61-inch rear width is 3 inches wider than the side overhang. More weight balanced between the wheels for surer-footed driving stability.

If you don't think scrapping the front axle has made a world of difference, you haven't driven a Chevy in a while. A few minutes behind the wheel and you can feel why drivers are happier and breakable loads are better protected. But the biggest advantage of all, you'll realize, is that the truck itself (sheet metal, tires, chassis components, everything) takes less abuse. With independent front suspension soaking up road shock and vibration, the truck lasts longer, goes extra thousands of miles before trade-in time. Add that to what everybody's always known about Chevy dependability and you find yourself looking at the soundest truck investment you could bet your business on. CHEVROLET

A Plan to Evade . . .

Have you looked into the economic philosophy of one John Galbraith, Harvard professor, one of president-elect Kennedy's prime consultants and one whose ideas are likely to be enmatched up by the new Democratic regime?

One of these ideas was printed in a recent Sunday newspaper. We reprint it here to emphasize why we felt so after voting for Nixon. We can only hope that Mr. Kenaedy will see the error of his ways before this fellow Galbraith passes on his socialistic schemes. Here it is:

"As a practicing economist of great originality Galbraith sees the United States as a wealthy nation doggedly dedicated to an economic philosophy that was valid only in a world of grinding poverty. In our worship of full production as an answer to mass employment, he insists, we wind up satisfying frivolous wants, created on Madison Avenue, and ignore the public services that would make us happier, healthier and better educated.

"The resulting social imbalance", Galbraith argues, "gives us flashier automobiles and decrepit highways, better vacuum cleaners and dirtier city streets, bigger TV sets and violence-ridden public parks, better beer and safer deodorants at the expense of better schools and better hospitals.

"The scientist or engineer or advertising man who devotes himself to developing a new carburetor, cleanser or depilatory for which the public recognizes no need and will feel none until an advertising campaign arouses it is one of the valued members of our society. A politician or public servant who dreams up a new public service is a wastrel."

There you have it, gentlemen. We must not advertise any products to induce people to buy the thing we admire and want. We must channel all our money into the public trough and let people like Galbraith who knows what is best for us, spend it for us, and give us only what we should have. The ordinary person has no idea what he needs. Just give your money to the "Great White Father," and let him distribute it on roads, public parks, welfare, education, public? servants.

Then all our worries will be over. . . . but, at the sacrifice of our freedom of choice. Just what are we up against?

Few Changes In Official Returns

Absentee Ballots Go Heavily For Nixon And Mathias

Official returns which were completed last Thursday evening by the Board of Election Supervisors showed no appreciable changes in the votes for the candidates. There were nine minor changes in figures from the unofficial count which appeared in last week's issue.

End of Pollution In Yough Depends On West Va. Action

Promise of cooperation from Maryland authorities has brought the project for ending pollution in the Youghiogheny river one step nearer to realization, but it will not be made final until an appropriation is approved by the West Virginia Legislature which does not meet until 1961.

A meeting to further discuss the plans to end pollution was held recently at the Deep Creek Lake home of Delegate Leslie E. Savage.

Heads of the following departments from Maryland and West Virginia were present, West Virginia Geological and Economic Survey, West Virginia Water Resources Commission, West Virginia Department of Mines, Maryland Bureau of Mines, Maryland Water Pollution Control commission; Maryland Game and Inland Fish commission. Also attending were State Senator Bernard I. Gonder, Delegates Savage and Elza Bray.

Frank Powers, director of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, reported that the Board of Public Works had agreed to furnish $10,000 towards purifying the Youghiogheny river to make it possible to supply it with fish.

The West Virginia departments have agreed that their state should furnish $20,000 toward the project, but this cannot be officially designated until the legislature meets. Since a major portion of the pollution comes from the state of West Virginia, it was agreed that their share of pollution control funds should come from that state.

Maryland authorities agreed at a previous meeting that it would start its part of the program by clearing up the area around the Banner mine of the Stanley Coal company, near Crellin. The job of the West Virginia departments is to seal off mine openings that are at present allowing sulphur water to enter Laurel run which empties into the Youghiogheny river. Mine pollution for the past forty to fifty years has completely eliminated the Yough from its once important position as an ideal trout stream.

Senator Gonder said he was hopeful that the West Virginia legislature would agree to allocating the $20,000 for this project.

MATHIAS SAYS "THANKS!"—Charles Mc.C. Mathias, newly elected to Congress, made another canvass of the Sixth District last week, but instead of asking for votes he was thanking the citizens for them. Mr. Mathias, who is shown here with his wife, ran successfully as the Republican candidate to defeat John Foley, Democratic incumbent, who was seeking reelection. The Mathias "thank you" caravan toured Garrett county Saturday.

The company is being incorporated with a capital of $24,000, which is estimated to be the cost of construction of the station. This would include $3,000 for a transmitter, $3,500 for antenna system; $1,320 for frequency and modulating monitors; $1,500 for studio, technical equipment, etc.; $5,000 to acquire land; $6,000 for building; $3,000 for legal, engineering and miscellaneous, for a total of $23,320.

In the application it was estimated that the cost of operation for the first year would be $32,000 and that the estimated revenue for the first year would be $48,000.

"Back to School" Will Feature P-TA Program at Southern

Southern's annual "Back to School" program will feature the next regular P-T. A. meeting on Monday evening, Willard Elliott, president stated.

The program which has met with repeated success was postponed to the second meeting of the school year following the speaking engagement of Dr. Albin Kuhn at the first meeting of the school year.

Mr. Elliott pointed out that parents visiting school next Monday evening would follow a typical schedule of classes. "Each class will meet for twelve minutes. During that time teachers will explain the subject matter being taught and answer questions parents may have regarding the curriculum."

Mrs. Robert Ault, chairman of the Refreshment Committee, indicated that coffee and cookies would be served immediately after the last class.

"It is hoped that many parents will be present for this meeting," Kenneth Johns, principal, said. "By attending school next Monday night, parents can gain a better understanding of the curriculum being offered to their sons and daughters."

New Organ Purchase Made by Episcopals

The Vestry of St. Matthews Episcopal church, the Gifts and Memorials committee and the Music committee of the parish recently authorized the purchase of a new organ, which was placed in the church recently for approval.

It will replace the old instrument which has been in the church for many years. The new organ is a Westminster Kimball consisting of two manuals and twenty-five note pedalboard. It operates on the photo-electric cell principle which makes it possible to reproduce actual pipe organ tones originally produced by selected ranks of organ pipes.

The organ was purchased locally through the Music Shop operated by Louis T. Michael. Money for the organ was through gifts and memorials to the church by local church members and friends. A special service of dedication is planned for the near future.

Thanksgiving Service

The church will observe Thanksgiving Day with a service of Holy Communion at 10:30 a. m., with The Rev. W. Shelby Walthall, rector, celebrating the communion and preaching.

All persons of the community are invited. Persons are asked to bring a gift of canned goods to be made up into baskets for Thanksgiving Day distribution.

Seven Properties Sold At Tax Sale

Only seven pieces of property went on the auction block Saturday from a group of 28 which had been offered originally at treasurer's tax sales by Joseph Welch, county treasurer.

The other twenty-one property owners had redeemed their properties prior to the day of sale by paying the back taxes owing for prior years.

Most of the sales were for more than the taxes owing at the time of sale, indicating spirited bidding.

The Mary and Charles Konick property in district 1 was purchased by John Adams, Oakland for $600. Taxes and costs as of day of sale were $51.46.

The Harry F. and C. R. Sausman property in district 2 was purchased by Edward Fitzwater for $500. Taxes and costs as of day of sale were $53.86.

The Jacob and James Fazenbaker property in district 5 was purchased by Kenneth Resh for $375. Taxes and costs as of day of sale were $37.04.

The Alvey Ray Cassidy property in district 8 was purchased by Clifford Friend, Accident, for $175. Taxes and costs as of day of sale were $45.94.

The Ira D. Mason property in district 12 was purchased by William F. Copley, Deer Park, for $295. Taxes and costs as of day of sale were $27.74.

The J. J. and R. T. Ashby property, district 14, went for the taxes and costs of $23.46. It had an assessed value of $50. It was purchased by Charles E. Spicer, Jr., of Baltimore.

The Chauncey F. Kimmell property in district 14, was purchased by Ernest Mayles for $450. Taxes and costs as day of sale were $28.50.

Former owners have a period of one year and a day to redeem their properties sold at tax sale before purchasers are given a final deed.

Lions Club Reports Hallowe'en Receipts

Officials of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions club reported net receipts of $305 as a result of the recent Hallowe'en celebration.

Fifty or more prizes were awarded to mummers who paraded. The prizes were contributed by individuals and business concerns.

The Lions club also held its annual fruit cake sale Monday night for the sixth year and it was estimated the organization would clear $375 or more on this event.

Proceeds from both events go into an activity fund to be used for various community projects and for supporting the local scout troop.

Collision Occurs About 9:15 O'Clock At Crellin

A woman was fatally injured in an automobile collision on state route 7, at Crellin this morning about 9:15 o'clock, and her husband and two children injured.

The woman, identified as Mrs. Bernadine Neal, of Evans City, Pa., was pronounced dead on arrival at Garrett County Memorial hospital where she was taken in the Minnich ambulance.

Beef Producers Have Election of Leaders

The Garrett County Beef Producers association elected officers and board of directors and discussed plans for the coming year at its annual membership meeting on Tuesday evening at the Accident Fire hall.

Foster Yost, Accident, was named president of the association. Virgil Jones, Oakland, was named vice president; Merrill Wilburn, Accident, secretary; and Curtis Savage, McHenry, treasurer.

Named to the board of directors were Robert Schmidt and Parland Bowman. Holdover members of the board are Arthur Fitzwater and Wilbur Myers.

The group made plans to promote a high quality feeder calf sale in 1961 and discussed other plans for the year. John Beckner, vo-ag instructor for Northern High school, gave a detailed report on the baby beef project of the past year and the cost for each boy in his department.

Roberta Cogley's Brother Is New Congressman

A brother of Miss Roberta Cogley, instructor in Southern High school, is a new Republican congressman from Indiana, but one would never know it from the name of the candidate.

He is Donald Cogley Bruce. The story connected with his name is an unusual one. Mr. Cogley was a radio commentator for an Indianapolis station and for various reasons he went under the assumed name of Bruce. He became widely known as Donald Bruce and his popularity as a radio commentator increased to huge proportions.

So when he decided to run for Congress he was in a dilemma. If he ran as Donald Cogley no one would know him. So he changed his name legally and became Donald Corley Bruce, entered the race for Congress and was elected last Tuesday, November 8.

Next Week's Issue To Be Published On Wednesday

Next week's issue of The Republican will be published and distributed on Wednesday, November 23rd, in order that members of the staff may properly observe Thanksgiving day next Thursday, November 24. The office will remain closed all day on Thanksgiving.

The publication will be one day earlier than usual so that distribution may be made within the town of Oakland and sent to many other towns that same afternoon, which will mean no change in the time that subscribers received their weekly digest of the local news.

Local correspondents and advertisers are urged to send in their material one day earlier than usual. All others who desire to have news items published are requested to do the same in order to insure publication in the week's issue.

Annual Christmas Treat Is Arranged

The annual Christmas treat for all children in Oakland and nearby towns will be distributed on Saturday, December 17, at 1 o'clock, it was announced this week by a committee of the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce. Distribution will be in charge of Charles L. Bener and will take place as usual, at the corner of Second and Liberty streets, adjacent to the Episcopal church lawn.

Usually the treat is held a few days closer to Christmas, but since the 24th fall on Saturday, it was determined that it should be the Saturday preceding.

The treat is made possible each year through contributions from business people, individuals and organizations. Letters are to be mailed right after Thanksgiving to these people and organizations seeking their contributions.

Each year some 2,500 treats or more are distributed and it was estimated that the number this year would be equaled or bettered.

Additional activities of the Christmas season are being planned by the Board of Directors of the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce which will include Christmas lighting.

"Thank You" Visit Made by Mathias

Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., Republican victor in the November election for representative from the Sixth Congressional district contest, paid a "thank you" visit to Western Maryland last Saturday.

The 38-year-old Frederick County attorney who defeated Democratic Rep. John R. Foley in a hard-fought battle, reached Allegany county sometime Saturday morning. He visited in Cumberland at noon, in Frostburg shortly thereafter and arrived in Grantsville about 2 o'clock. He arrived in Oakland about 2 o'clock and after greeting Republican leaders, he continued to Kitzmiller and Bloomington for brief stops at those places.

For his "thank you" visit Mathias had his station wagon painted with large "Thank Yous." He was accompanied to this area by his wife.

Enthusiastic support by Garrett and Allegany county voters contributed to the decisive victory. Garrett county gave him over 2,000 majority while Allegany county gave him almost 6,000 majority.

Mr. Mathias also won support from voters in his own Frederick county and held Rep. Foley to slim leads in Washington and Montgomery counties.

Women's Club Has Scholarship Project

The Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club met Thursday night at the William-James Hotel at 6:15. A steak dinner was served.

The National Security Committee, Mrs. Margaret Feather, Chairman, Mrs. Ben Saiver, and Miss Mary Louise Helbig led a program on Communism. A patriotic theme was used.

The club has a new project. Beginning next year, it will award to a worthy girl of Southern High School a complete four year scholarship to Frostburg State Teachers College. The girl should meet four requirements, a sincere desire to become a teacher, worthy and unable to receive financial help from home, agree to teach in the state of Maryland for two years, and be in the upper fourth of her class.

Coral McRobie presented the club with a gavel which has the club emblem on it.

On Friday, November 18, at 8:00, a Shrimp dinner will be served to the members of the Moose Club by the members of the B. & P. W. Club.

The next meeting of the club will be December 3, at 6:00 at the William James Hotel. This will be the annual Christmas party. An exchange of gifts will be held.

Letter to The Editor

Here is a copy of a letter sent to former president Harry S. Truman, regarding one of his many thoughtless and ill advised statements in the political field.

Mr. Harry S. Truman,
Independence, Missouri.
Dear Mr. Truman:

In the Pittburgh Press last Sunday, I read the following news dispatch, and I quote: "former President Harry S. Truman said today he does not care what happens to the farmers because they all voted the Republicn ticket."

I am a Republican, a farmer's wife, and live in a small rural community in Maryland. I wish to make a public statement concerning that remark.

First of all, farmers like everyone else are citizens, guaranteed their right to vote as they choose. A strong two-party system, as you well know helps to keep us free and vital as a nation.

I can only speak for myself as to why I voted the way I did. I assume many farmers voted the way they did for the same reasons. The Republican platform seemed to me to be more realistic, more in keeping with the encouragement of personal initiative, and more apt to succeed in the long run. Their chosen leader had more training for this most important job, in my opinion. Their foreign policy seemed to me more likely to keep us at peace with the rest of the world.

The farmer in the nation is the most efficient in the world. He produces healthful, nutritious food in enormous quantities at a low cost. He works hand in hand with specialists of all kinds to produce our life-giving food. Long, hard hours of work, heavy investments in livestock and machinery are required. He has no guaranteed hourly wage, indeed few guarantees of any kind. Sudden storms, drought or other accidents of nature can wipe out a year's work and profit. Yet, he keeps on, sometimes forced to sell his produce for less than its cost. At a time, when wages are at an all-time high, his income is dropping. Due in large part to the political power of the big labor unions, he is caught in a cost-price squeeze, and the price of one tractor today is more than a small farm's value twenty years ago.

The farmer, and his family make a great contribution to our nation's welfare and stability. From the land in the past, we have seen come some of our great national leaders in business, the professions and in government.

Nearly all of my life, I have lived on a farm. They have been years of hard work, sometimes even of discouragement. Yet, they have been years of opportunity and fulfillment, too, and I would not wish to change them. Here, on the land is freedom, and a high sense of duty.

In our Lord's prayer, He taught us to say, "Give us this day our daily bread". The farmer, working with the laws of God's universe are helping to answer this prayer, not only for the millions in our own land, but for the millions in many other lands.

As a national spokesman for the Democratic party, I think your statement was unfair and unjust to our patriotic and hard working rural people. The welfare of the rest of the nation is closely bound up with the welfare of the farmer, as I am sure you well know.

My chosen political party has made great contributions to our national progress and well-ebing in the past and I am sure will do so again in the future.

You have held the highest office in the land and are well aware of the many and complex problems facing us as a nation and in the world. We need unity of purpose for the tasks that lie ahead of us.

We have accepted our defeat with a good grace, and will do our best to have harmony and unity in facing our nation's problems. You, on the winning side, have not done nearly so well. I base this judgment on the statement to which I have made a public reply.

A farmer's wife,
Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty

Seal Sale Campaign Launched Last Week

The annual sale is conducted to raise funds to support the year-round program of the T. B. association. The program includes free chest X-rays, free clothing for patients, mental therapy, physical therapy, medical research and education.

About one tenth of the letters came to this county, the balance being distributed in Allegany county.

Two Thanksgiving Services Planned By Area Churches

Two Thanksgiving services are scheduled for the Oakland and Mt. Lake Park areas, it was announced this week.

One service will be held at St. Mark's Lutheran church in Oakland on Thanksgiving morning Thursday, November 24, at 10 o'clock. Three choirs will participate with special music, and the sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Wm. Ernest Fox, pastor.

The other service will be held at the Bethel Methodist church in Mt. Lake Park with the Rev. Edward Wenger, pastor of the Oak Park Church of the Brethren preaching the sermon. This will also be at 10 o'clock on Thanksgiving morning.

Journalism Session Held at Northern Hi

Professor W. R. Summers, acting dean of the West Virginia University school of journalism, conducted a journalism workshop for the members of the Viking and North Star staffs at Northern High School on Nov. 11.

Professor Summers has been at West Virginia University since 1952. Prior to that he was with the Kansas City Star.

During this three hour workshop he pointed out ways in which the school paper and yearbook could be improved. He suggested ways of taking more attractive pictures and how to make a simple cropping device. He outlined new ideas for advertising and counting headlines.

Later in the day Professor Summers addressed the twelfth grade "problems of Democracy" classes on advertising. He said that the fields of advertising and journalism have many open positions and great opportunity for promotion.

house on Liberty street. The corporation was authorized by C. S. Trump, Ralph E. Pritts, Jr., and C. W. Englander.

There would be $24,000 of preferred stock of 240 shares of par value of $100, and 960 shares of common stock without par value. In the event of liquidation or dissolution, the holders of preferred stock would be entitled to receive par value for each share. The articles of incorporation were completed August 31.

Prior to granting any permit a hearing will be held before the Federal Communications commission in Washington. If such a permit would be granted it would be a year or more before any station would be constructed here, it was believed.

The proposed station would operate Monday through Saturday, from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m., and on Sunday, from 7:30 to 7, a total of 89½ hours per week.

The station plans to divide its time with entertainment, 74 percent, religious, 3.6 percent; agricultural 5.7; educational 1.1, news, 9.1, discussion, .6, and talks 5.9. Fifty-two percent will be commercial and 48 percent sustaining.

There are radio stations already operating at Frostburg, Morgantown, Keyser, Fairmont, Clarksburg, Cumberland and Fisher.

State Parks Are Being Outgrown

Maryland's park system was declared to be greatly "overtaxed" by Joseph F. Kaylor, director of forests and parks.

Kaylor said the park system, which can accommodate a maximum of about a million and a half people was visited by 4,344,965 during the 1960 season.

Kaylor said that this represented an increase of almost three million persons over five years ago. He said the 1955 parks attendance totaled 1,557,956. He estimated that up to nine million persons may visit Maryland's 14 parks next year.

He termed present facilities grossly inadequate. "We've got about one third of the land we need for the future, and existing facilities plus those in development and others planned would take care of about two million persons." He pointed out that the park service took care of four million people last season but very unsatisfactorily.

Local Future Farmer Group Gets Superior Chapter Award

The Oakland F.F.A. Chapter received the National F. F. A. award of Superior Chapter at the National Convention, October 14, it was announced.

The award is based on three major phases of work in Vocational Agriculture and F. F. A., up-to-date study, comprehensive program of work, and quality of the supervised farming program.

The Oakland chapter was one of seven chapters in the North Atlantic Region to receive this award.

The Oakland chapter initiated twenty-nine Greenhands into the Chapter on November 3rd.

Applications from seven students have been received for the Chapter Farmer degree. Last year there were nine Chapter Farmers.

Applications for State Farmer have been submitted by five members. Last year one State Farmer degree was conferred upon a member.

This year one application will be submitted for the degree of American Farmer.

Chapter officer elected this year are Wolford Perando, President; Joe Mattthews, Vice President; James Gower, Secretary; Brooks Hamilton, Treasurer; Willard Roth, Reporter; and Ken Sanders, sentinel.

Commissioners Will Attend Two Sessions

The Garrett County Commissioners will attend two meetings today and tomorrow.

The one today is a meeting of the Western Maryland association of County Commissioners, scheduled for Hagerstown with the counties of Garrett, Allegany, Carroll, Frederick and Washington counties participating.

Then they will attend a meeting Friday in Frederick with representatives of the State roads commission. The question there will be one of coordination with public utilities and with planning and zoning officials insofar as highway construction is concerned. The object is to make an effective liaison which will hold construction and planning delays to a minimum.

The Frederick meeting is one of four scheduled around the state by the State Roads commission. Attending this will be representatives from Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties.

Police Recapture Penna. Fugitive

One of five inmates who escaped this week from the State Correctional institution at Huntingdon, Pa., was recaptured about noon yesterday by state authorities.

The man was apprehended as he crossed Dimer Bell road about 14 miles east of Uniontown, Pa. He was wearing clothes reported stolen Tuesday night from a country store operated by Howard Glisan in Markleysburg, Pa. He and two others were seen by Glisan.

Maryland State Police operating from the LaVale barracks, had a roadblock set up at the Pennsylvania State line Tuesday night.

Two of the fugitives are presumed to be in a car stolen in Uniontown Tuesday. They indicated that the men were probably traveling toward Maryland in the stolen vehicle.

All five escapees were spotted in Markleysburg Tuesday night. At least 20 state troopers from Uniontown, Washington, Waynesburg and Somerset barracks set up roadblocks. They began to scour the woods yesterday.

The fugitives, who were serving time for crimes ranging from armed robbery to forgery, were reportedly carrying knives and were described as "dangerous and desperate."

Twenty-eight U. S. governors and wives arrived in Argentina for a celebration of 150th anniversary of country's independence.

"Thank you for employing such wonderful people"

The above words, which we value highly, are in a letter received from a young college coed. The letter goes on to say that she lost her wallet while running an errand for her family. She rushed back to the store, looked everywhere, but had no luck in finding it. Finally, sure that she would never get the wallet back, she started home feeling pretty down in the dumps.

But at almost that very minute the doorbell rang at her house and a voice said "Excuse me, I think this wallet I found belongs to someone who lives here." The voice belonged to a C & P installer, and the result was a greatly relieved young lady.

In itself this is a small thing—what any good neighbor would do. And we're glad the desire to be of help is so natural with telephone people. Whether it's a service representative taking a real interest in your problem, an operator making an extra effort, or an installer returning a lost wallet—the spirit of service is the same.

Plans Made For Polio Fund Drive

With Garrett county having experienced the worst epidemic of polio in 1959 that it ever had, the county March of Dimes committee made preparations this week to conduct an intensive campaign within the next few weeks.

Charles L. Briner, member of the committee, said he had mailed out letters to all community chairmen, telling them of the need for funds in the coming campaign.

Garrett county had thirteen cases of infantile paralysis, two of whom died. Failure to have the Salk vaccine can be blamed for twelve of these victims, Briner said. "Much as we feel like being critical at the apathy of parents in taking advantage of this vaccine, we still have a job to do in financing the way back to health for those who need help," Briner said.

Briner will be campaign director for the county drive, scheduled from January 2 through January 31. Community chairmen include Mrs. E. C. Clatterbuck, Deer Park; Mrs. Mary June Harvey, Swanton; Mrs. Ruth Hershberger, Grantsville; Mrs. Ivan Humberson, Friendsville; Mrs. Wilmer Macgroff, Accident; Mrs. Charlotte Barnard, Bloomington; W. LeBurn Meyers, Crellin; Ralph Buckel, Buttinger; Kathleen B. Layman, Finzel; William Smith, Red House and vicinity; Mrs. Betty Taylor, Oakland; Mrs. Marvin Jones, Mt. Lake Park.

Teen age activities for Southern High will be in charge of Bernard Stuck, and at Northern High in charge of Vonda McKenzie.

Willard Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, has advised that the schools would support the March of Dimes this year. The Mothers' march will be held in the various communities on January 30.

No definite quota has been set but Briner said it was well known that more than $5,000 would be needed for patient aid alone. One bill on hand at present amounts to $1,000.

A film on polio will be available. There will be mailers, containers, and other aids. Collections will be taken at the movies, and at various athletic events.

Temperature Varies From 16 to 68

The temperature varied widely during the week, but there were several days when it was considered fall weather, thermometer drops to 16 degrees on Saturday morning to 68 degrees on Tuesday.

A weekend rain-downpour of the weather showers Friday, settled in the morning, but clear and moderating during the day. Saturday was another clear and warm day. Monday continued warm but cloudy. Tuesday was warm and clear but it turned cloudy on Wednesday and rain began falling. This was heard during late afternoon. Thursday was clear and cool.

State Will Obtain Another House Seat

Maryland is due to obtain an additional Congressional seat as a result of population gains since the last census. It will be the eighth congressional district.

Considerable attention probably will be focused on the area comprising the 5th district which is the 12th largest in the United States and Maryland's most populous with more than a million person.

The 5th district include Prince Georges, Anne Arundel, Charles, St. Marys, Calvert and Howard counties and part of Baltimore City's 25th ward.

Maryland is one of eight states that will gain a seat in the House of Representatives as a result of increased population during the last decade. Sixteen states will lose seats.

Gov. Lewis said the General Assembly which meets in January would handle the redistricting of the State.

The final 1960 census count gave Maryland a total population of 3,100,689, nearly a million more than 1950's total of 2,343,001. Maryland moved from 24th position among the states in 1950 to 21st in 1960.

Pennsylvania was due to lose three house seats as a result of the 1960 census.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT

Better Health Through Knowledge

Auto Seat Belts

- Eye Pain
- Breast Surgery

Q. What is the medical view regarding auto seat belts?

A. Based on information gathered by the automotive crash injury research program conducted at Cornell University, about 5,000 lives could have been saved in the U.S. by use of seat belts during 1957. During the past year, the Public Health Service joined hands with the National Safety Council and the American Medical Association in a campaign to educate the public with respect to the value of such belts and to encourage their widespread use. Results of the educational program, so far, have been discouraging.

Q. I occasionally have a shooting pain in my left eye. What causes this?

A. This seems to happen in normal persons, and for no known reason. It may be a bit more frequent in highstrung individuals and is often only one of many minor complaints.

Q. Is there any way to get rid of swelling in the hand and arm after breast surgery? Lots of women would like to know about this.

A. Removal of the breast is not a simple operation. The surgeon may have to remove much underlying tissue and the arm is usually sore and stiff. In addition, the arm may swell and it may take several months for the swelling to go down. Patients are encouraged to keep using the arm. Baby it too much and recovery will be unduly prolonged. Doctors often recommend exercise and the use of elastic strapping of the arm to help overcome this condition.

It's wise to become associated with a family physician before illness strikes. When you move to a new neighborhood, it's wise to make yourself known to the doctor of your choice. Then, if an emergency arises, you will not be a stranger to him. And remember, our friendly and competent staff stands ready to serve your prescription needs.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. White, Corinth, W. Va., announce the engagement and coming marriage of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Joseph J. Wiemann, Jr., son of Joseph Wiemann, Reading, Pa.

Miss White is now employed at Ward's restaurant in Oakland. Mr. Wiemann is a graduate of Wilson High school, West Towa, Reading, Pa., attended Williamsport Technical Institute, served four years in the U. S. Air force as H. Absentee Vote Gives Nixon California

Vice President Richard M. Nixon captured California's 32 electoral votes Wednesday night on unofficial returns from a wave of more than 2,000,000 absentee ballots. Nixon led in California by 13,10 votes.

Democratic Sen. John F. Kennedy was elected president-elect, based on national electoral vote totals in the closest race in modern times.

The latest figures showed Absentee — Nixon, 1,52,186, Kennedy, 814,58. State-wide resident and absentee — Nixon 3,219,211; Kennedy, 3,206,031. About 20,000 remaining absentee votes were mainly in Republican strongholds of San Diego and Orange counties.

Kennedy carried 22 states with 303 electoral votes. Nixon has now carried 27 states with an electoral vote of 223. Mississippi with 8 electoral votes, was uncommitted.

It would take a reversal in both Illinois and Michigan to turn the tide to Nixon. Kennedy carried Illinois by 5,786 votes and Michigan by 65,134. Illinois has 27 electoral votes and Michigan has 20. Had Nixon carried these he would have 270 electoral votes to 259 for Kennedy.

THE MARXENS moved into their All-Gas home in Pittsburgh in June of '57. All of the major household jobs are done by modern, automatic gas appliances . . . cooling, heating, cooking, clothes drying, water heating, and the Marxens are enjoying the low fuel bills typical of All-Gas Homes.

"WE SAVE OVER $350* A YEAR IN OUR ALL-GAS HOUSE OF SAVINGS," SAY THE MARXENS

Amazed at low cost of central GAS cooling and heating

MRS. MARXEN PREFERS GAS COOKING [illegible] as she puts it. "You don't get the extras combined with electric that you do with gas." Mrs. Marxen is always sure of perfect results with her modern built-in gas range with the Burner with a Brain. Her kitchen walls and curtains stay bright and new because gas cookery is clean.

During three of the hottest summers and coldest winters in recent years, cooling and heating their entire 5 level, 6 room house with gas cost the Marxens only an average of $25 a month. "That's one good reason why we like our gas system best," says Mr. Marxen.

"And what comfort we've had!" adds Mrs. Marxen. "Every room is just the way we like it—without drafts. The house stays cleaner, too."

The Marxens are sold on gas appliances not only because they're economical, but because they assure safe, dependable operation with low upkeep. "What little service we've needed has been handled quickly, efficiently and courteously by the Gas Company," says Mr. Marxen.

You, too, can enjoy modern living with convenience and comfort as well as economy—by installing all gas appliances in your home.

One of the "ghost towns" included in a recent tour arranged by the Garrett County Historical society was Kempton, pictured here at the height of its growth in 1914.

This year's visitors saw little to resemble the photograph, however, for the mines which once accounted for its prosperity are closed and practically all of the buildings pictured have been demolished or moved to other locations. Scars dotting the hillside give most evidence of the town that once was among the most prosperous in the county, giving employment to several hundred miners and providing a livelihood for their families.

Like most mining towns Kempton in its day had considerable community spirit and long supported a top-notch baseball team and a community band, which was organized and taught by Harry Mickey.

And like many other communities, it had its share of trouble. One of the worst mine accidents in the area occurred at Kempton on February 29, 1916, just two years after this photograph was taken. Then, 16 miners lost their lives in an explosion at No. 42 mine, the force of the blast being reported as far away as Oakland.

In addition to those killed outright, 72 other miners were entombed but later rescued. Special trains carrying doctors, surgeons and emergency equipment were sent from Cumberland and Thomas, W. Va., to care for the injured.

Planned In 1913

The town's construction was still in the planning stage in 1913 when the following announcement was issued:

"A new town will soon be built on the border line of West Virginia and Maryland, in the vicinity of the Fairfax stone. The name of the new town will be Kempton, and it will have railroad connections with the Western Maryland at the place known as Wilsonia, which in years gone by was a thriving lumber town.

"Kempton will be built by the Davis Coal and Coke company, which will put down two or three shafts to the lower seam of coal which is now worked by the company at Henry, but because of water and gas is not being produced profitably.

"A strip of ground several hundred feet wide and about three-quarters of a mile long has already been cleared, and houses for tools and horses erected. Work on dwelling houses and a store will soon be started, and at no distant date another town will be added to the map."

By 1918, the town had grown to include 106 houses, with a population of 850. There was a motion picture theatre, school, large playground and electric lights and natural gas were available to those living there.

No Nagging Backache Means a Good Night's Sleep

Nagging backache, headache, or muscular aches and pains may come on with over-exertion, emotional upsets or day to day stress and strain. And folks who eat and drink unwisely sometimes suffer mild bladder irritation...with that restless, uncomfortable feeling.

If you are miserable and worn out because of these discomforts, Doan's Pills often help by their pain relieving action, by their soothing effect to ease bladder irritation, and by their mild diuretic action through the kidneys—leading to increase the output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

So if nagging backache makes you feel dragged-out, miserable, with restless, sleepless nights, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, get the same happy relief millions have enjoyed for over 60 years. Ask for new, large, economy size and save money. Get Doan's Pills today!

Yes, faces are different the world over. But hearts have a common hunger. For Hope . . . Life . . . Truth.

Therefore, expressing the fervor of the citizens and churches of this brave, free land, the American Bible Society has sought for 144 years to translate and distribute the Scriptures for every nation and tribe.

Many local congregations, directly or through their denominations, are supporting this vital work. In addition, the suggested readings which appear regularly in these advertisements are provided by the American Bible Society, and reach you as another contribution of American citizens and churches to this important cause.

You see, worldwide Bible reading is the simple, practical expression of one of our fundamental convictions: The Bible IS the Book for Everyone.

Tonight—at the dinner table or in a quiet moment—millions of American homes will put that conviction into earnest, reverent, daily practice! Will yours?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

- and GENERAL TRUCK TIRE RUBBER

Here's What We Do . . .

We carefully inspect every tire both inside and out to check for injuries and hidden bruises to be sure the carcass is sound for recapping. Only a tire that passes this inspection is accepted for Kraft System Recapping. Our factory-trained Kraftsmen use precision buffing to accurately buff the tire to the proper contour.

Every tire is scientifically balanced by factory methods to give new tire performance.

Our Time Temperature and Pressure Curing is constantly accurate.

The end result is a tire, recapped with General Tire rubber, that will give you thousands of safe, extra miles at lower cost per mile . . . because saving your tires is our business

We Give Thanks

Lesson for November 20, 1960

"THANKSGIVING will never be as commercialized as Christmas," some one remarked "because no presents are given at Thanksgiving. Stores can sell Christmas gifts, but they can't sell gratitude!"

Well...Is this true? No presents at Thanksgiving? On the contrary, when this holiday is truly celebrated, it is precisely because of the avalanche of gifts. Only these are not gifts that can be bought in a store, they are not gifts to which any price tag can be attached. They are God's gifts, and Thanksgiving is the day when we stop to think about him and thank him. Or do we?

Dr. Foreman

Who Give Thanks

You don't always feel very deeply grateful for something you have earned by hard work. You may be very glad you got whatever it was. You may be highly satisfied by getting it. But if thanks are due, they may be more in the way of self-congratulations than anything else. You are most in the mood for thanks when you know very well that you did not and perhaps could not have produced whatever it is for which you are thankful. We who give thanks to God—whether every morning or every Sunday or on such special occasions as our national Thanksgiving holiday—are His beneficiaries. There is no possible way of repaying God for his blessings.

It is quite true that there are some blessings in life which we do not have unless we work for them. For example, the respect of the community where we live is a real blessing; but without genuine effort on a man's part, other people will never respect him. Health is an incalculable asset; but health never perches over a man's door if the man persists in doing all the things that ruin health. Health is earned, respected and, in a way; but nevertheless in both these cases, and others the reader can think of, one can demand neither respect nor health. There is one "deliverance" which is the responsibility, in large part, of the sufferer. There is no guarantee of ease for the keeping of which one will always be as happy as a sixteen-year-old. Some people keep health rules all their lives but are cornered by illness. Others live honorably, yet are reproached by their own neighbors. (Jesus suffered that tragedy.)

When Do We Thank?

There are other blessings which more evidently come from God. They were, so to speak, woven in with the world at creation. The succession of the seasons, the beauty of the skies, the marvel of life itself, this body so crammed with miracles, this spirit that can soar out of time and space; for all these we thank God because there is no other Creator. Yet there are also blessings that come to us through friends, parents, brothers and sisters—yes, even through our enemies. Here we can give double thanks. First we can thank those who brought these blessings to us—friends, relatives, strangers—and also we can thank God. For if you sit down at a quiet time and ask yourself about any particular blessing, let us say the trust of a little child whom you know—ask yourself, where did this come from, in the long run?

For What Are We Thankful?

We give thanks to God for the great mercies, for sparing our lives from destruction, for the forgiveness of sins (the greatest single blessing we can have) and for the "hope of glory." But in the brightness of these great mercies we may overlook the smaller gifts from His hands, those lesser mercies without which the greater could not be. Easiest of all to overlook are those blessings which come disguised. In a time of deep suffering one may not see what God has in mind—one may be tempted even to feel that God has forgotten and does not care. But in time—in God's time—we can look back and see our pain in perspective. And then we may gratefully see that not only did God permit it, he sent it, for reasons even we shall see.

October Report of Health Department

A report of Dr. Arthur Jones, Health officer for October, shows various activities.

Early October accounted for two more polio cases in the county and one young man died in a Washington D. C., hospital of the disease. The young man was not reported in this county but probably contracted the germ here but was stricken with the disease while visiting in Baltimore. A very severe case occurred in a child in Terra Alta, West Virginia, which is only about nine miles from Oakland and about four miles from the Maryland state border. The final advent of frost, we hope, has closed the curtain on polio season. Although there is no way of determining what might have been, it is thought by local, state and United States Health Officials that this summer and fall would have been a terrific epidemic of polio in this community were it not for the high degree of immunization among our younger age group.

Administration

Arranging for admissions to and discharge from certain institutions has demanded considerable attention from the Health Department. A young child who was in the Memorial Hospital in Cumberland, one of this county's polio cases, remained in that institution for a period of time considerably longer than necessary because the authorities there were unfamiliar with proper procedure for moving him. When the matter was handed to the Garrett County Health Department it was handled with dispatch and the patient admitted to Childrens Hospital in Baltimore. Another polio case was also admitted to Childrens. A very severe case from this county who has been in a respirator in Cumberland now is able to be out of the respirator for about one hour a day.

On the other side of the ledger, difficulty was encountered in a ten year old boy who had been discharged from Childrens. This lad had been a patient in Childrens for over a year and was being discharged wearing leg braces. His mother who had seasonal work during the summer, was without income and ineligible for welfare assistance since she had a husband living somewhere in West Virginia. Neither did the mother have a dwelling suitable for herself and the boy. Other relatives of the boy living locally were unable or unwilling to take him. Finally the mother was given Welfare assistance, a small conveniently located cabin was improved to provide living space, and the boy was delivered home by the Baltimore Red Cross.

Total of nursing activities for the month included, 91 Home visits, 96 Office visits, 78 Consultations, 557 Injections and 95 Teacher conferences.

Five clinics were held with attendance as follows: Ear, Nose and Throat, 27; Maternity, 14; Pediatric, 8; Posture, 18; Tuberculosis, 20.

Doctor Robert T. Ferguson, Clinician for the Hearing Clinic and a member of the Otolaryological Staff at Johns Hopkins Hospital, met with the doctors of the County at 8:00 A. M., in the staff room of the hospital on October 25 and presented some of the newer concepts in, and advances in surgery in ear, nose and throat.

Medical Care

Recipients of welfare assistance automatically receive medical care. There is a group in our population however, whose income meets daily need but who are unable to pay medical expenses. These are known as the "medically indigent." Members of this group must be considered individually according to income, numbers in the family, and medical need. All authorization for medical care must come through the Health Department. All doctors' bills and prescriptions must also be processed through the Health Department. The totals of this Department are as follows: Prescriptions, 642; Indigent, 233; Medically Indigent, 50.

Since much of the prosperity of the county depends on recreation, it is more important here than in many other sections of the state that we maintain an environment attractive to visitors. This is particularly true in our eating and drinking establishments. John Meadows spent two day this month with the Sanitarian inspecting some of these places and discussing means by which these services can be improved. This applies to both present operating establishments and to new installations. To this end a Food Service School is planned for November 30 and December 1 at Deep Creek Lodge for all those in the food handling service. The school will be conducted by Mr. Meadows, the Sanitarian and the Health Officer.

Area Robbery Is Some Exaggeration

Two toy plush dogs valued at $5 each in the store of Renad Kuhn, of Bayard, plus the desire of two Petersburg youths to do some early Christmas "shoplifting" set off a chain reaction that had state police units rushing to Bayard Saturday night to investigate an "armed robbery." It was somewhat exaggerated.

The youths slipped out of the store with the dogs in their possession and the proprietor called the West Virginia state police radio station at Romney, to report the theft.

A volunteer then called Sheriff James E. Frantz at Oakland and stated there had been an armed robbery and requested a road block.

The sheriff's office telephoned the LaVale barracks of state police.

The incident had grown in size enough to cause the State police units to be sent out from Parsons and Petersburg.

After several hours of roadwork and checking by both West Virginia and Maryland authorities the "armed robbery" turned out to be a minor larceny case, when the owner of the store grabbed the youths and turned them over to authorities.

Miss Nina LeVerne Gwynn, daughter of Frank W Gwynn of Gordon, Nebraska, and the late Mrs. Gwynn, became the bride of Evangelist Paul Daniel Ayres, son of Mrs. Luella S. Ayres, of Deer Park and Beaumont, Texas, and the late Evangelist Elmer D. Ayres, on Sunday afternoon, October 16, in a double ring ceremony solemnized in the First Church of God, Gordon, Neb. Pastor Carl C. Williams, Sr., officiated.

Mrs. Walter Frey, organist, played the traditional wedding marches and other nuptial selections. "O Perfect Love" was sung by Darrell Frey, and "Love Never Faileth," was sung by Mrs. Maurice Bruce and Mr. Frey. The selection "A Wedding Prayer," was used by Mrs. Bruce, of Cedar Bluff, Neb.

The church was decorated in fall colors with gold and bronze mums and tall candelabra, lighted by Blaine Gwynn, nephew of the bride, and Gary Ruse, both of whom wore white coats.

With her frock of emerald green velvet, featuring three quarter length sleeves with fitted basque and full skirt, Miss Dorothy Hardy, maid of honor, wore a veiled head handeau in matching tones, trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a nosegay corsage of gold and bronze mums. Costumed identically were the bridesmaids, Mrs. Donald Thorsen, of Gordon, and Mrs. Duane Morey, Arvada, Col., and their flowers were also nosegays of mums.

Herald Joy Ayres, Worland, Wyoming, served his brother as best man. James Gwynn, brother of the bride, and Dwight Thorsen were groomsmen. Donald Slater, Scottsbluff, Neb., the bride's cousin, and Kenneth Johnson, were ushers.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, was attired in a gown of white satin with scalloped brocaded Chantilly lace, forming a sweetheart neckline, and tapered sleeves with points extending below the wrist. The sculptured bodice was designed with lace gathered over the basque and was caught in front with a satin bow to create an empire effect. The lace was repeated in the panels which dritted over the bouffant skirt. Her double tiered veil of French illusion flowed from a crown of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a white Bible with a cascade of yellow roses.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. Orin Slater, with whom she lived, wore a dress of brown taffeta with full skirt and a beige trimmed hat to match. The groom's mother wore a royal blue sheath, studded with rhinestones, topped by a matching veiled velvet headband trimmed with rhinestones. Their corsages were of pink feathered carnations.

Following the ceremony guests were received in the church educational building where the refreshment table, spread with white lace over a yellow cloth, was centered with the four tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. The cake was baked and cut by Mrs. Harry Baker, Lusk, Wyo., aunt of the bride. She was assisted by Mrs. James Gwynn, sister-in-law of the bride. Mrs. Charles Gwynn, another sister-in-law, poured coffee, while Mrs. Johnnie Kearns, the bride's sister, presided at the punch bowl. Registering the guests was Miss Sharon Skanadore, cousin of the bride. Mrs. Donald Slater and Miss Shirley Ruse were in charge of the gift table.

For their honeymoon trip to Estes Park, Col., points in New Mexico and Mexico, the new Mrs. Ayres selected a black ensemble with winter white accessories and a corsage from her bridal bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Ayres will make their home in a Holiday Rambler mobile home, the groom's gift to his bride, at 1143 Lawrence street, Houston 8, Texas.

Mrs. Ayres is a graduate of Gordon High school and Midwest Bible college. She studied music at the University of Colorado, at Boulder, and Gulf Coast Bible College, Houston, Tex. She taught at the East Pride school, Gordon, Neb., one term followed by employment in the home bank for several years. She is presently employed at the Lonpoint National Bank, Houston, Tex.

Evangelist Ayres received a part of his ministerial training at the Oakland Bible institute, Oakland, Calif., and the Intercession City Bible college, of Intercession City, Fla. His mother is the former Luella Savedge, native of Deer Park.

Tuesday Inaugurated Small Game Season

The upland small game season went into effect on Tuesday, November 15, and several hundred hunters scoured the woods for signs of rabbit, quail, pheasant and grouse. The season will continue until January 5, except for the first full week in December when it will be lawful only to hunt deer.

The season for squirrel and wild turkey closed on October 31, after twenty-six days, while it was possible to hunt deer with bow and arrow from November 1 to November 12.

There is a daily limit of four on rabbits, six on quail, two on pheasant, male only, and two on grouse. The season limit is eight for rabbits, 12 for quail, four for pheasant and four for grouse.

No needless bulk or overhang here. This '61 Chevy is built on the principle that the place you want space is inside. We put it there, too. Actually trimmed the outer size to give you extra inches of clearance for parking and maneuvering, and still worked wonders with inner space. Door openings are as much as 6 inches wider. Seats are as much as 14% higher. We've thought of everything. Increased rear foot room by slenderizing the driveshaft tunnel. Worked in sensible new ideas all the way back through that huge bin of a baggage compartment. See how thoughtful this one is? Full of good new things. Full of good old things, too, like Chevy's well-known thrift and dependability. The new '61's at your Chevrolet dealer's right now.

Dollars For New Effort Are Urged

Marylanders who voted Republican in the November 8 election were being urged to contribute one dollar to "project '62", a new effort in behalf of the next GOP campaign.

D Eldred Rinehart, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of Maryland, said: "Hundreds of thousands of Marylanders voted on election day for certain principles exemplified by the Republican party, and we want each of them to know that we are starting a new fight immediately to obtain the election of men who will uphold these standards.

"Our financial obligations from the recent campaign have been met. Our books have been balanced and we are in the black. We are asking, therefore, for contributions of one dollar from each of our friends to start a new campaign fund which will be used in the elections of 1962 and 1964.

"There is absolutely no sense in waiting. We began mapping new campaign plans on the very day after the election and we are beginning within the same week to collect funds to implement them.

Mr. Rinehart said he hoped that the response would be prompt and generous from all parts of the state and that other states would follow Maryland's lead in this project.

Contributions may be mailed to Blanchard Randall, treasurer, Republican State Central Committee of Maryland, 112 Fidelity building, Baltimore 1.

No. 5032 Equity in The Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland

Order of Publication

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the coal underlying Military Lots Nos. 96 and 97, containing 50 acres each, situate in Election District No. 4 of Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Collector of Taxes for Garrett County and State of Maryland to the plaintiff in this proceeding the same being the coal described in a deed from Samuel Warnick, et ux, to Henry Warnick, dated December 28 1881, and recorded in Liber W.H.T. No. 6, folio 128, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, and also fully described in the proceedings in No. 1328 Equity in the Circuit Court for Garrett County, and therein reported as sold to George Warnick, Edward E. Warnick, Albert Warnick, Gertrude C. Jefferys, and Ida Duckworth, all now deceased, and assessed in the names of Edward H. Sinecll and Gilmor S. Hamill, Trustees in No. 1328 Equity, and George, Albert and Edward E. Warnick, Gertrude Jefferys, and Ida Duckworth, formerly assessed to George Warnick.

The bill states, among other things, that the above named individual owners were all deceased at the time of said tax sale and that title had become vested in the above named defendants and Dorsey E. Jefferys as next of kin and heirs at law and as devisees of said decedents at the time of said tax sale, that the said Dorsey E. * * * *
No. 5007 Equity In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to obtain a decree for divorce a vinculo matrimonii by the plaintiff from the defendant.

The bill states:

That on the 10th day of August, 1955, he was married to Ann Speer Green, at Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland, by Reverend H. O. Teagarden, a duly ordained minister; with whom he resided until on or about the 20th day of February, 1957, at which time the said defendant deserted the said plaintiff while they were residing in Garrett County, Maryland; that although the conduct of your orator toward his said wife has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said Ann Speer Green, without just cause or reason, abandoned and deserted him, and has declared her intention to live with him no longer; that ever since the said marriage your orator has behaved himself as a faithful and affectionate husband toward the said Ann Speer Green, and his entire conduct has always been above reproach, that your orator is a resident of Garrett County, Maryland; has resided therein for more than one year prior to the filing of this bill of complaint; the defendant was last known to reside in Frostburg, Allegany County, Maryland, the street address being unknown to your orator.

It is thereupon this 2nd day of November, 1960, ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiff, by having a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 25th day of November, 1960, give notice to the non-resident defendant warning her to be and appear in this Court, either in person or by solicitor, or before the 10th day of December, 1960, to show cause, if any she has, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

And it is further ORDERED, that in lieu of such publication, a copy of this order may be served personally upon the said defendant, Ann Speer Green, whose last known address was Frostburg, Maryland, in accordance with the provisions of Section 160 of Article 13 of the Annotated Code of Maryland, on or before the 10th day of November, 1960.

Postmaster Begins Mail Early Campaign

Faced with the possibly that the 1960 Christmas season will set an all time holiday mailing record, Postmaster Donald M. Browning announced today that he's starting his annual "Mail Early For Christmas" Campaign immediately.

The Postmaster offers these helpful mailing tips to insure delivery of your Christmas cards and gifts on time.

First, check your Christmas card list carefully - make sure each address is complete with full name, street and number, city, zone and state. Then, for your Christmas gift packages, stock up now on rugated cartons, strong cord, and rupated cartons, strong cord, and paper adhesive tape. One can include his Christmas card or letter inside the gift package by adding the appropriate First Class postage to the package itself. Browning urged buying of postage stamps now, and not wait until the last minute when long lines form at the stamp windows.

The Post Office will help plan Christmas mailing. Get a copy of Pamphlet No. 2, which gives full information about proper packaging and wrapping of parcels. The Post Office will also supply free labels which read, "ALL FOR LOCAL DELIVERY" and "ALL FOR OUT OF TOWN DELIVERY", so that Christmas cards may be sorted into two groups, with addresses all facing one way, insuring fast delivery.

Cards sent by First Class four cent, or seven cent Air Mail, may include personal handwritten messages. First Class mail also receives full forwarding and return service. Don't fail to put return address on every Christmas card envelope. Not only is this socially correct, but it helps tremendously to keep the mailing lists up-to-date.

The Postmaster requests that persons mail Christmas cards and gifts for the most distant points well before December 10th. Those for nearby destinations should be mailed by December 15th, or at least a week before Christmas.

VOLUME 84 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY MD., NOVEMBER 24, 1960 | PER COPY, 8c | NUMBER 39.

God Walking . . . .

One day in late October a farmer had a visit from a minister. As they talked together the pastor asked about the kind of crops he had had. With deep feeling the farmer said, "Pastor, God walked all over my place this year."

He knew that the fruits of his fields were like the footprints of God. As he thought about them he knew that the goodness of God was much greater than good crops. It included all His mercies in Christ as well.

So he shared a tract recently distributed to a congregation in Oakland.

In the churches throughout our land there are many people, not necessarily farmers, who have seen God "walking all over the place." And they stop daily to render thanks. There are others who seem never to quite realize that all blessings come from above. They are inclined to give themselves credit when they have accomplished some particular job. They give thanks grudgingly and only upon rare occasions.

Today is Thanksgiving day. It is impossible to cram into one day all the thanks that are due our Creator, but we can set aside this one day to give special thanks for all our favors.

We are certain that if a person looks around his abode, that place he calls home, he will realize that God has walked all over it day after day. He may not have brought wealth. There may even be sickness, temporary unemployment, or tragedy, but they are the means of making ones faith stronger, if he will think seriously on life as a whole, and that we are mere creatures of an immense universe.

So pause for a brief time on Thanksgiving day to ponder on our material and our spiritual blessings.

Pullen To Speak At Conference On Education, Dec. 5

Third Annual Event Scheduled For Dennett Road School

The third Annual County-Wide Education Conference will be held at the Dennett Road School, Monday, December 5, 7:45 P. M. Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., State Superintendent of Schools, will be the guest speaker. The conference theme will center around a discussion of the development of teacher training and higher education in the State of Maryland. This theme has been inspired by the controversial Wakefield Report which recommends that the University of Maryland take over three of the State Teachers Colleges and expand them into area branches of the University.

Dr. Pullen has taken a very firm stand in opposition to this move. What happens to teacher training and higher education in Maryland is of vital concern to all parents with children to enter college in the future according to Willard L. Hawkins, County Superintendent of Schools. "Most parents will no doubt be interested in the best program of higher education possible for the cost involved. All parents have a stake in the future training of young people who in turn will become the classroom teachers for their children," he said.

In addition to the main address by Dr. Pullen, a few brief opening remarks will be given Mr. Hawkins. The Southern High School Glee

WHERE ONE DIED—Here is the Volkswagen automobile which collided with another automobile last Thursday morning at Crellin, causing the death of Mrs. Delton Neal, 31, of Evans City, Pa., and injuring her husband and two small children. Elmer Dillsworth, driver of the other car, was not injured. Mrs. Neal died of a broken neck. She was pronounced dead on arrival at Garrett County Memorial hospital.

Dillsworth Charged With Two Infractions Motor Vehicle Laws

Elmer Hunter Dillsworth, 43, route 2, Oakland, driver of the car which struck and killed Mrs. Bernadine Louella Neal last Thursday morning at Crellin, and injured her husband, Delton Edward Neal and two young children, was charged with two motor vehicle offenses following the completion of an investigation by Trooper first class Donald Tucker.

State's Attorney W. Dwight Stover, said Tucker had charged him with reckless driving and failing to yield the right of way to approaching traffic. There was no charge of manslaughter by automobile preferred against him.

Dillsworth will be tried before Triad Magistrate Robert M. Mahorney in Oakland on Saturday, December 17, at 10 a. m.

Mrs. Neal was pronounced dead on arrival at Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland. Authorities said she had died of a fractured neck.

Her husband, 31, her four-year-old daughter, Deborah Kay Neal, and two-year-old son, Edward Dale Neal, were given emergency treatment at the hospital for contusions and lacerations. The two children were admitted to the hospittal and remained until Saturday when they were released. Mr. Neal was treated as an out-patient.

Dillsworth apparently was not hurt in the accident.

The investigation by Tucker, assisted by Mr. Stover, brought out the fact that for some reason Dillsworth apparently turned toward the left on the highway. Neal applied the brakes on the small foreign car and skidded about 60 feet prior to hitting the Dillsworth car. They said the from of the small car struck the right front fender of the Dillsworth auto. Mrs. Neal was sitting in the right front seat.

The Neal family was from Evans City, Pa., in Butler county, in the western section of Pennsylvania. They were traveling east on the highway. Dillsworth was traveling west.

Mrs. Neal's body was sent to Evans City where funeral services were conducted Sunday.

Athletic Boosters Will Meet On December First

There will be election of officers and other business to discuss.

Deer Season To Open December 3

Extra Day Added To Season For Second Straight Year

The annual deer hunting season will open Saturday, December 3, and will continue until sundown Saturday, December 10, excluding Sunday, December 4. This is the second year that an extra day has been added to the season to give hunters two Saturdays for hunting.

Normally the season had been set for the first full week in December. During this period it will be lawful to kill male deer with two or more points to one antler and spike bucks with three inch antler.

The small game season, which began November 15, will be suspended during the deer season but will be resumed Monday, December 12 and will continue until January 5.

Many hunters already have made reservations in private homes, boarding houses and other places and it was a foregone conclusion that 2,500 to 3,000 hunters would be in the woods during the first few days of the season.

Hunters will attempt to surpass the all-time record of kills made during the 1958 season. In 1955 there were 608 bucks killed and in 1957 there were 698. Last year the hunters were on the way to making a new record when a severe early winter snowstorm slowed down the activity to almost a walk for two or three days. The season ended with a total of 611 bucks slain. The limit is one buck per year per hunter. A hunter is allowed to drive deer without firearms after he kills his deer.

Game regulations stipulate that bucks may be killed only with a rifle that develops over 1,200 foot pounds of muzzle energy. Shotguns loaded with pumpkin balls or slugs may also be used.

Those killing a buck during bow hunting season are not eligible to hunt during the firearms season, but unsuccessful hunters may continue to try with the bow. Only one deer was killed during the bow season this year, it was stated, the third in the history of the county.

There will be four deer checking stations in the county where deer must be checked as soon as possible after being killed. It is unlawful to remove the head or hide or other parts except the internal organs, or cut up the meat until the deer has been reported and weighed at one of the checking stations.

Stations in the county will include the Edwards garage in Grantsville; Matt Storey's on Deep Creek Lake, near McHenry; Murphy's, in Friendsville; and Carroll Miller's Mt. Top Tire and Sport Shop in Oakland. Checking stations at the sheriff's office in Oakland and at Swanton have been abandoned. Hunters may also check in at Westernport or LaVale in Allegany county.

Additional district game wardens from other counties of the state will be assigned to Western Maryland during the season.

Book Section Of "Digest" Refers To Miss Otto

The book section in the December issue of the Reader's Digest, "Gift from the African Heart," by Elizabeth Bowne, has a number of references to Miss Elsie Otto, Lutheran Missionary to Liberia.

Miss Otto has visited in Oakland and is supported by the United Lutheran Church Women of this area. Miss Otto is a member of a mission in Liberia at Sanoyea and the woman in the story comes to that area to see the place where her pilot husband crashed and was killed.

Miss Otto has a prominent place in the story, woven around the missionary work of the area.

Clear Weather Predicted For Thanksgiving Day

The Thanksgiving holiday was scheduled to be clear and cool, in spite of a turn in the weather on Wednesday which brought rain to the area.

The balance of the week had been mostly clear and cool with Saturday the only cloudy day of the period. Friday was clear and moderate. Sunday was considered one of the most beautiful fall days of the season. Monday and Tuesday remained mostly clear and cool. Rain began to fall by mid evening on Tuesday and continued to fall throughout Wednesday.

Christmas Lighting Plans Made; To Be Erected by Dec. 1

The Chamber of Commerce will pay the labor costs for the preparation of the strands and erection of the Christmas lights and the work will be done, same as in previous years by employes of the Power company. The city employes assist in the making of the strands.

There will be the usual strands of lights across the streets in the business section, plus the pole ornaments and the decorated tree on the Episcopal church lawn, corner of Second and Liberty streets.

The Chamber of Commerce made no plans this year for any special Christmas promotion campaign but arrangements already are being made for the annual Christmas treat for the children of the community. This will be held on Saturday, December 17, at 1 o'clock p. m.

Officials Change Date for Discussing Proposed Statutes

The date for the final meeting of legislators with interested citizens which was scheduled for Wednesday, November 30, has been moved to Tuesday, December 6, it was announced Monday by State Senator Bernard I. Gonder, Sr.

Senator Gonder said it was imperative that the County Commissioners be in Baltimore on that day to attend a meeting in the state office building and also the opening of the surplus store at Jessup. Mr. Gonder said he also was due to attend the final meeting of the Potomac River special legislative committee on that date, to discuss pollution control.

Radio Appeal Brings Funds For TV Set

W.F.R.B., Frostburg, was the scene recently of a hectic....but happy hour or so....when phones were really kept jumping. The reason? D. A TV set for 18 year old Maxine McKenzie, a Frostburg girl who is completely paralyzed....and a patient at George Washington University hospital in Washington, D. C. Miss McKenzie was stricken with polio several months ago and is confined to an iron lung. Her only diversion is TV. However she didn't have one of her own and W.F.R.B. sent out a call for "help". In less than an hour more than $200 was raised, assuring Miss McKenzie her very own TV set. Mr. Loughry plans to deliver the TV set personally.

GAS STORAGE COMPRESSOR STATION—Here is the Terra Alta compressor station which was open for public inspection last Saturday. Constructed by Atlantic Seaboard Corporation, the compressor will supply the power to pump natural gas in and out of the newly-activated storage field with a capacity of 44 billion cubic feet. Its four pumping engines have a total horsepower of 4,400. Construction of the station will have cost some 25 million dollars when completed and landscaped. It has been in actual construction for about a year. See accompanying story for details.

Police Find Escapee From Oakland Jail In Clarksburg

Walter Lee Davis, 20, of Fairmont, W. Va., who is wanted in this county for breaking jail in September, is now being held in Fairmont awaiting action of the Marion County Circuit court.

Davis along with Stanley Tasker, 16, Kitzmiller, and Julian Ervin, 20, of Mt. Lake Park, sawed their way out of the county jail on September 11 where they were being held pending action of the Garrett County grand jury.

Davis and Tasker were being held for breaking and entering charges. Ervin was arrested on forgery charges. Shortly after the escape Tasker and Ervin were apprehended and returned to Oakland. Ervin was sentenced to 18 months in the Maryland House of Correction and Tasker received a two-year term in the Reformatory for Males.

Wrecked Stolen Car

West Virginia State police placed breaking and entering and larceny charges against Davis after he was found in St. Mary's hospital, Clarksburg where he was admitted with injuries sustained when he wrecked a stolen car on U. S. route 73, near Bridgeport, W. Va.

After the release from the Clarksburg hospital he was returned to Fairmont and charged with burglarizing Hertzog's Drug Store in Worthington, W. Va., and the theft of two automobiles.

Following his appearence before the Marion county grand jury in Fairmont next month Davis will be held for Maryland authorities in connection with the jail break in Oakland.

New Gas Storage Pool Unveiled at Terra Alta

A former natural gas production field near Terra Alta, W. Va., was unveiled this week in its new role for the future—an underground storage pool of Atlantic Seaboard Corporation.

About 10,000 acres of sandstone more than a mile under neat farms and pastures will serve as a "bank" for gas destined for winter delivery to Washington, Baltimore and other eastern cities.

The unveiling was a press tour on Friday, November 18, and an open house on Saturday, November 19, for the public. For the latter group it was the satisfaction of curiosity which has existed ever since the buildings, pipes, tanks and towers began to blossom on a site two miles south of Terra Alta.

So it was to the compressor station that these groups came this week, getting first-hand looks at what Atlantic Seaboard has done in this corner of West Virginia.

Atlantic put the station into operation on August 18 at 11:00 P. M. As of Monday, November 14, 6.8 billion cubic feet of gas had been stored. Capacity will be about 33 billion cubic feet, expected to be reached by November 1, 1962.

Atlantic is a gas pipeline company with main headquarters in Charleston. It is part of Columbia Gas System and delivers gas from Kentucky and West Virginia to eastern markets.

"Terra Alta represents an ultimate investment of $25,000,000. Studies showed that by putting the storage field into operation we could serve our customers more efficiently and more economically," a spokesman said.

Gas being injected in the new storage field is being delivered through a newly completed 20-inch pipeline that connects the Preston county operation with Atlantic's pipeline at Mouth of Seneca, W. Va. When fully activated, Terra Alta will be able to deliver up to 255 million cubic feet of gas a day into Atlantic's transmission system.

Atlantic's main supply of gas comes from United Fuel Gas

Land Buying Urged For State Parks

The director of Forests and Parks said this week that Maryland must step up its land acquisition pace if the state is going to keep up with the mushrooming use of state parks.

Joseph F. Naylor said Maryland would require 50 times the park land it now owns to meet the requirements of its population in the year 2000.

He said the state would "need to purchase, acquire by gift or trade, some 10,000 acres a year," and would have to be developed with a minimum of facilities to give visitors the essentials of outdoor recreation for all seasons of the year.

A report by Resources for the Future, Inc., estimated Maryland's population in the year 2000 at 6.5 million. This would require 520,000 acres of recreational land, the report said. Maryland's park system presently covers 17,000 acres. Naylor pointed out that the park system designed to handle 1.5 million persons, is already greatly overtaxed. Last season's attendance figures totaled four million.

Fined $100 On Charge Of Driving While Drunk

Karl Kyle, Liberty street, Oakland, was tried in the Circuit court Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock before Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley and was fined $100 and costs and in lieu of payment of fine to serve 50 days in jail. The charge was driving an automobile under the influence of liquor.

He had appealed a conviction before the former trial magistrate, Boyd Sanders, Sr., on April 15, 1959.

Kyle had also been found guilty of similar charges before Trial Magistrate Robert M. Mahorney last February 29. He had been arrested January 10, following an accident in which he sustained a broken leg and other injuries.

He was charged at that time with driving under the influence of liquor and reckless driving. He pleaded not guilty to both charges but was found guilty. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 or serve 30 days in jail on the drunken driving charge and $25 on reckless driving or serve 25 days in jail. The sentences were to run con-

Ski Season Plans Outlined at Meeting

Plans for the coming ski season were outlined at a meeting of the Blue Ridge Ski Council at Front Royal, Virginia, last Saturday and Sunday. Attending the event from this area were Howard Naylor, president of the Western Maryland Ski club, Dick Welch and Guy William Hinchaugh III.

Mr. Naylor said they set up the schedule for races for the coming year which include the races at Marsh Mountain for juniors only on March 4 and 5.

He also said that a training class for race officials would be held at Marsh Mountain and also qualifying tests for basic, standard and advanced ski classes. These would be held sometime in February. Classes for instructors also are planned.

The entire Blue Ridge council members are emphasizing the junior skiing program and it is hoped to take a group from this area over to a camp at Ligonier, Pa., during the holidays. A professional skier from New England will be in charge. A skier is considered a junior until he is 18 years of age. Mr. Naylor said there would be an opportunity for some of the junior skiers from this area to try out in New England to see how they "stack up" against the experts from that region.

The Maryland State Ski Championships, for senior skiers, will be held January 21 and 22.

The Old Doctor And Jefferson Davis

By NELL BROWNING

Dr. J. Lee McComas in 1900

Among Garrett County citizens whose fame extended widely beyond the field of local activity was Dr. J. Lee McComas (1852-1930). As outstanding physician of his time, he practiced medicine and surgery over a half century, a recognized authority on many medical subjects, particularly diseases of children. He was the first of the three-generation family doctor. Dr. McComas drove thousands of miles in fair weather or foul to attend cases in village or countryside. When snow drifts or muddy bottomless roads made the horse and buggy impossible for the buggy, he went on horseback during many years.

As Dr. J. Lee McComas neared the end of his long medical career times were changing. The automobile had begun to supplant the horse and buggy and the telephone the countryman's only means of getting a doctor. Doc Henry was the first county physician to use the motor car in making his rounds.

The Old Doctor knew everybody and had a generous abundance of ready wit and humor, the latter sometimes pointed at himself. Many of his jokes and tall tales were remembered by the late William A. Sunrise, veteran pharmacist. A change of diet was recommended for a patient who had been poisoned by eating toadstools by mistake, thinking them mushrooms. A sufferer from loss of memory was asked to pay the fee in advance; patients of modest means were treated for nervousness; if they were rich it was psychoneurosis. A bronchitis sufferer was assured his ailment would respond readily to treatment.

"How come you're so certain, Doc?" the patient asked.

"My dear sir," the doctor said. "I've had bronchitis myself for fifteen years."

Another patient asked, "How can I repay you for your kindness?" "By check, postal money order or cash," the doctor said.

Asked if any particular class of people lived longest he said, "Yes—Centenarians."

In a serious mood the Old Doctor once observed that his profession was the only one that strove constantly to obliterate the reason for its existence.

After 1872 the patronage of the mountain summer resort hotels was large, and the medical knowledge and skills of Dr. McComas contributed in great measure to the popularity of the Oakland-Deer Park areas as health resorts. Many distinguished men and women came each season. Some were patients of Dr. McComas, among them Jefferson Davis, who had been Secretary of War in the cabinet of President Pierce.

In April of 1859 Mrs. Davis had borne their third child, Joseph Evans, named for an elder brother of the future Confederacy head of state. Her health was delicate, and that of Mr. Davis not robust. They came to Oakland with their children that summer partly to regain their health. With them came a close friend, Montgomery Blair, with members of his family. Blair had become internationally famous as counsel for Dr. Emerson, a Missouri slave owner, in the Dred Scott case of 1857, winning a Supreme Court decision favorable to his client. Both Davis and Blair owned summer cottages in New Hampshire but during the summer of 1859 they wished to be within convenient traveling distance of the nation's capital. Ominous and threatening events were developing, eventually to plunge the country into a blood bath that would cost nearly a half million lives and ten billions in treasure exclusive of colossal destruction of property values.

The question of slavery was at boiling point and that of secession rapidly approaching it. Impassioned orators, North and South, inflamed with their eloquence the prejudices of their hearers. Those of the South still vigorously defended the institution of slavery. Later they were to soft-pedal this theme, sublimating it into the nobler and loftier ideals of states' rights, constitutional immunities, and others expressed in sonorous and high-sounding phrases.

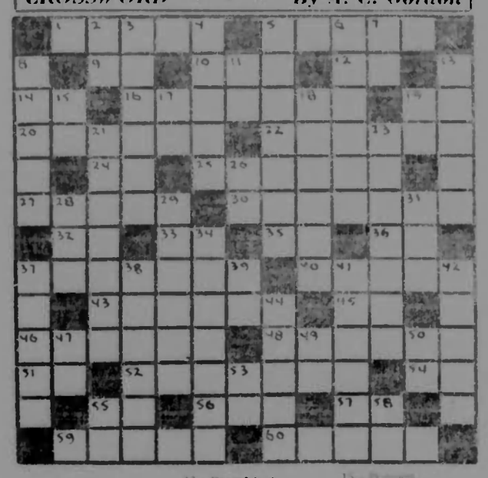
During the pre-war stormy debates Senator Davis, although a zealous and ardent defender of slavery and a forceful partisan of his party's policies, had been less partisan and belligerent in his public utterances than many other Southern leaders. However he was no less firmly determined. During a visit to his home state in late 1858 he had urged that cannon foundries and small arms factories be erected there in anticipation of the secession and civil war he believed was to come.

Within two years Jefferson Davis was to be President of the Confederate States, and Montgomery Blair Postmaster General in the cabinet of President Abraham Lincoln.

About 1909 Dr. J. Lee McComas was interviewed by a reporter of the Baltimore American. The interview follows:

Old Days in Maryland

"I am not an octogenarian quite, but I can tell you enough interesting stories of things that happened in Maryland over 50 years ago to fill a volume," said that noted medical practitioner, Dr. J. Lee McComas, of Oakland, Md., at the Eutaw House.



"Oakland, when I located there in 1858 although it then had some reputation as a health resort, had only ten houses. I had gone there from Baltimore, my native place, to practice medicine, having received my degree at the University of Maryland. My fondness was for surgery, which I performed under that grand old operator, Dr

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother Annie Louise Bateman, who departed this life six years ago today, November 26, 1954

The memory of our mother dear
Is like a thing of gold.
That never dulls or tarnishes,
Or grows the least bit old.
Our mom was like a ray
Of sunshine bright,
That filled an empty room,
And like a flower fair,
That never failed to bloom
In my heart I would like to stray
Along the road of yesterday
To hear you laugh,
To see you smile,
To talk with you a little while
So many days have passed and gone
And many changes made,
But nothing takes our mind from you,
Or makes your memory fade
Memory is a heartache no one can see
Some seem to have forgotten
As it deems another year.
How could we forget our mom
When she meant so much to us
She is in our every heart and soul,
And in our every memory
Sadly missed by her husband,
Grandchildren.

SUNNYSIDE UNDERWOOD

Little Susan Matthews returned to her home last week from the Children's hospital, Baltimore, where she had been a patient for the past two weeks. She seems to be recovering nicely from her recent surgery.

Bessie Conan visited with the Nathan R. Smith, chief surgeon of the medical department Western Maryland in 1856 would have been the delight of Theodore Roosevelt. All about Oakland, which was then in Allegany county, were wild, wooded tracts, through which deer bear, panthers and wild cats roamed. Venison retailed at four cents a pound, and many a fat pheasant and woodcock have I bought for ten cents, the seller thinking in his secret heart that he had cheated me.

"In that summer of 1859 I had a hotel man for a patient, Jefferson Davis, United States Senator from Mississippi, and later to President of the Confederate States. He was in bad shape physically, and was accompanied by Mrs. Davis and three children. A doctor came with them from Washington, and I could see Mrs. Davis' look of suspicion and distrust as the doctor who had to leave at once committed the Senator to the hands of a youthful and seemingly inexperienced country physician. However I was lucky enough to effect a complete cure for my patient. When he asked me for his bill and I told him $30, I still recollect that he was not at all pleased and asked me if that wasn't a steep charge for a country doctor. My answer was that it was much less than a city M.D. would have assessed and that no city man could have done more than I did—that is, cured him. This put Senator Davis in a good humor and he paid me three ten-dollar gold pieces, which I have yet. Later on, after secession had been accomplished, he commissioned a mutual friend to offer me a place, of much honor and dignity, in his personal entourage."

But Dr. J. Lee McComas remained loyal to the Union, volunteering for service with the army in 1861. During the war years the physicians and surgeons were burdened with mountainous toils. In the Union military service 364,000 men lost their lives. One-third were killed in battle or died of wounds; the other two-thirds died of diseases, of which there were six million cases. This meant that on an average each man was sick at least twice.

Appointed surgeon Dr. McComas was stationed at post hospitals in Oakland and New Creek (Keyser), continuing thus until the war's end.

THE AMERICAN WAY

EDITOR'S NOTE George Peck is honorary Chairman of the Laymen's National Committee, sponsor of National Sunday School and Bible Weeks.)

Uncle Sam's taxing power has become something of enormous importance. His security program is requiring more and more expenditure with each passing year, and the many domestic projects he has undertaken are making for unbalanced budgets and deficit financing. The prospects are that despite every attempt at economy the Federal Government will need more revenue this coming year and in the years to come. The same is true, in lesser degree, of our State and local governments.

Therefore, anything that interferes with the right of the Federal Government, the 50 individual States and the thousands of municipalities to tax ANY business, must be removed. For example the theory that government financed-and-operated projects should be exempt from all kinds of taxation is wrong. Only the true business of government, that is the carrying on of the actual government of the nation, state or municipality, should be exempt from taxation. Such exemption should not be applied to any property or activity of government when it is engaged in the business of producing goods or services for sale. When any government does this, it should be on exactly the same tax-footing as any private enterprise engaged in similar activities.

Of course, governments, in the first place have no right to enter into competition with private endeavor. It is adding insult to injury, when after spending tax-money to launch itself, a government project is allowed to go tax-free while its private enterprise competitor is taxed. Even worse, tax-free government projects, in many cases, have so badly hamstring private enterprise as to force the latter out of business, thus further coddling public enterprise and depriving it all incentive to efficiency.

For instance, we have before us the statistics of an investor-owned gas and electric company. This company has a tax bill that runs into a sizeable figure. Yet, it is expected to compete with a government project built with tax money and operating tax free. Most certainly the public project is able to sell its power at a low rate. But if it were taxed at the same rate as the private company, the government project would have to sell its power at a rate considerably higher than that charged by the private company. Of course, the government project could continue to sell its power at the same low rate with the taxpayers paying the losses it would thus incur.

One does not have to be a certified public accountant or a mathematical wizard to realize that this is a most unfair situation. Unless a change is made, it could be only a question of time till the privately-owned company will be doomed to "close up shop."

To this columnist, however, the most serious consequence of this discrimination—even more serious than the unfairness to private investors—is that at a time when governments need every dollar of revenue they can collect, the Federal Government has set itself up in some 700 businesses, in competition with private enterprise, exempts them from taxation and cuts off important sources of revenue.

One child was killed when a school bus was struck by a train in New York. Twenty-two were injured. Some 51 youngsters were in the bus.

Any regular reader of this column, knows that we have constantly registered our definite opposition to governments going into business, either in competition with or to the exclusion of private enterprise. There have been so many striking evidences of the greater efficiency of private enterprise, of its ability in many cases to meet unfair, untaxed government competition, we wonder that there can still be one single seriously-thinking American propagandizing to put the government into business.

But, if we must have these government projects, then every dictate of fairness decrees that they should be made to operate under the same rules and regulations that govern their private enterprize competitors.

And even if one has no disposition to be fair, then purely selfish instincts should demand taxation of government businesses in order to provide the tax revenues so badly needed now and in the future.

This policy of making SHEEP of government enterprises and GOATS of investor-owned enterprises, works not only an injustice to the stockholders of the private companies, but also, in the final analysis, to the stockholders (the taxpayers) of Uncle Sam, Incorporated.

Tunisian Stamps of Culture

The latest news for philatelists interested in the stamps of the Arab world is a new series which has recently been issued by Tunisia.

The new stamps were designed by the Tunisian painter El-Nekki to give a representative picture of the life and history of the various regions of this Arab country.

The series includes 15 stamps which range in value from one half of one millime ($0.00119) to one dinar ($2.38).

Tunisia's Monstir province is represented by the famous 9th century Ribat which is contrasted with a deluxe resort hotel (above).

Fish, palms, and pottery are the principal source of income of the island oasis of Djerba (right).

The beauty of GAFSA is represented by Byzantine architecture blended with traditional costumes of ancient African design (below right); the ruins of a great ancient civilization may still be seen in the SBEITLA region (below center); while the Grand Mosque is the subject of the stamp which depicts the Kairouan area (below left).

WEEKLY SERMON

The Lord's Day

Continuing In our series on the Commandments we come now to the fourth Commandment. "Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy." There has been a great deal of controversy between professing Christians on whether the day should be Saturday or Sunday. We will not argue the case here but do point out that from the beginning one day out of seven has been set aside by God as a holy day. This day is to be set aside as a day of worship and rest. Christians of ages past have been prone to press the letter of the O. T. Commandment while present day Christians often conduct themselves like the pagan world around them. God considers all work other than acts of mercy and acts of necessity as secular and not in keeping with the spirit of keeping the day holy. Buying and selling should also be set aside. Recreation of any kind that detracts from the sacredness of the day and our responsibility to worship is wrong. Christians are not to force others to observe this day but should use their influence to get others to keep it holy. The difference in the way a person conducts himself on this day tells a great deal about that person. It's the Lord's Day — keep it holy!

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

This little newspaper, The Republican, from the mountain top is the newsiest. It covers so many interesting subjects. For instance the items about the dogs that did or didn't make headlines.

When I was a little girl, my father would take me to Oakland. I was disappointed if I didn't see a big shiny black curly dog named "Midnight", and its master walking on the street. It was told the dog would carry a note to the butcher and bring meat back home in the basket that he carried in his mouth.

When I was five years old I had the misfortune of having polio and was paralyzed almost completely. My constant companion was a little mutt named Trixie. He could do a few tricks only, but he was my hero.

The dog that killed the copperhead snake lately is a hero. I hope he was found and taken to the veterinary that he had a chance to save the dog's life, and did just that.

I say he is a hero because an experience similar to this happened here where I live, in fact next door to me. One morning the little fox terrier named Stubby was found lying against the front door, he was swollen twice his size and his eyes were popped out of his face. The children took him to the veterinary. The diagnosis was copperhead snake bite and the next best thing was a fight between the two. The kids begged the veterinary to try. It was a struggle for both but the dog lived several years afterward.

Where was that copperhead? Everyone was on the alert. Two weeks later one of the children went to put paper in an outside fire place when the snake erected for Quick work was made of the snake. The theory was, the folks had been up in the mountains and the snake crawled up under the deer and rode home with them. Stubby was the hero of the neighborhood.

Some years ago, the dog catcher came around one day and took an old great uncle to Oakland jail and was allowed to sit down. As soon as the guard was relaxed Davis bolted into the darkness and escaped.

Police said Davis fled to the other end of Worthington, stole a car owned by Robert Levelle and drove in the direction of Harrison county. He wrecked the car near Bridgeport and was admitted to the Clarksburg hospital where police apprehended him.

Education Board

$181,107.74 for elementary and $154,791.39 for high school.

Under a school construction there was shown receipts of $103,-611.25 with expenditures of $28,-801.82, leaving unexpended funds of $74,806.43. There were receipts to this fund amounting to $18,-880 for county incentive fund, $72,-507.07 for state incentive fund and $14,489.82 as interest earned, making total funds available for school construction $196,488.14.

In a summary of disbursements there showed additions to elementary buildings amounting to $66,-070.05, and $91,387.07 for high schools with alterations of elementary buildings costing $6,-729.95.

Status of School Debt

The status of the school debt for construction of the two high school buildings also was listed in the report. The balance on outstanding county long term bonds July 1, 1959 was $1,250,000 with a state loan of $519,043.76 making a total of $1,850,043.76. The amount retired during the year was $75,-000 on the long term bonds and $47,829.92 on the state loan, leaving a balance outstanding June 30, 1960 of $1,175,000 on long term bonds and $571,822.84 on state loan for a total of $1,746,822.84.

The value of all school property was listed at $4,555,960 for buildings with $1,592,250 for equipment not having increase on a dog that he did not own. The old man was 72 years old and had never been in trouble with the law and this was quite a blow. The jailer let him go home the next day. He was a lonely old man and the trip proved real interesting to him. He talked for weeks about his trip to jail as he had met old friends as well as new ones. I couldn't help thinking of Mr. Willard leave such a trip.

By next March it will be quite cold and if the old Dog takes a turn at it, he can also save on the fuel bill.

The expression of pulling up another dog on a cold day sounds o. k. I don't rightly know why Tennessee Ernie's dog wears an asafetida bag around its neck unless it is to keep the dog catcher away.

Dog is man's best friend. Books are written and stories told.

With cold breezes blowing, Mr. Groundhog will be crawling in for the winter that is after the election, November 8th. To agree with him that every town has a little skunk lurking around and I don't mean the editor. Maybe Mr. Groundhog will pen us a line before he goes as it's a long time until February. His last letter was most interesting.

Yes, we must all get out and vote on election day or we may all be Going To The Dogs."

Thank You.

Yours Truly,
Mrs. Charles Leasure.

Lead Dwindles

Senator John F. Kennedy's popular vote lead in the recent presidential contest was now below 175,066, it was announced yesterday. Republicans were challenging the results in sections of Illinois, New Jersey and Texas and looking for possible grounds for similar action. Vice President Nixon was not pushing the investigations but this was as a result of action of the Republican National committee.

Few were expecting any overturn of Kennedy's electoral vote margin over Mr. Nixon.

In the tally of electoral votes Kennedy led Nixon 300 to 223 with 269 needed for election. Fourteen other electors in Alabama and Mississippi are not pledged to either.

Latest figures on the popular vote with more than 1,100 precincts still unreported and some absentee ballots still to be counted, stood this way:

Kennedy—33,919,296.

Nixon—33,744,659.

It was apparent that Kennedy would go in with less than half of the total popular vote. His share of the vote cast for the two major candidates was 50.13 percent to 49.87 for Nixon.

Sixty-one marriage licenses were issued during the past two weeks, it was announced morning from the office of Richard L. Davis, clerk of the Circuit court. This brought the total number for November thus far to 82. Seven licenses issued during the period were marked "don't publish." Of the total number issued in two weeks 32 were granted the first week and 29 the second week.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT
Better Health Through Knowledge
T. B. From Telephones
• Periodic Heaviness
• Clotting
• Ovary Removal

Q. What is the risk of infection with t.b. from telephones?
A. Tuberculosis germs are projected when infected persons cough or sneeze. If they cough or sneeze directly into the mouthpiece there would be some danger of another user picking up t.b. germs. This danger might be reduced by removing the mouthpiece and washing it with soap and hot water. It should then be swabbed with an antiseptic solution. It might be simpler to cover the mouthpiece with a piece of facial tissue, which may be discarded after use.

Q. About a week before my time my legs get "heavy" and I have the distinct sensation of gaining weight. Is this normal?
A. The feeling of leg "heaviness" may be more real than fancied. Several medical investigators state that about 25 to 50 per cent of women gain weight just before each period. The temporary gain in weight, which may amount to several pounds, is due to increased accumulation of tissue fluids. The condition, then, isn't so unusual and should not be alarming. However, your doctor can recommend measures to help.

Q. What causes menstrual clots?
A. Medical authorities generally agree that menstrual blood usually congeals or clots, but is liquefied by vaginal enzymes before it is expelled. A deficiency of the vaginal substances would result in the passing of clots. The presence of small clots in menstrual blood is not abnormal or unusual. However, the occurrence of large clots calls for medical consultation.

Q. If both ovaries are removed are shots needed later?
A. Removal of the ovaries during reproductive years brings on an "artificial" menopause. Hormone injections may be required for a time to help the woman adjust.

Captain Charles Edward Hoye

By FELIX G. ROBINSON

One of the great-great grandfathers of Capt. Charles E. Hoye was John Friend, Sr. John Friend, Sr., with his brothers, Charles and Augustus, were the first permanent settlers in what is now Garrett County. They settled on the Youghiogheny River at what is now Friendsville in 1765. Their brother, Andrew, moved farther downstream and settled at Turkeyfoot, which is known today as Confluence, also on the Youghiogheny River.

John Friend, Sr., had a son, who was John Friend Jr. (1764-1849), who in 1779 married Elizabeth Ward. Their twelfth child, Elizabeth, became the bride of David Hoye (1815-1849) in 1841 in Cumberland, Md. David Hoye was the eldest child of William Waller Hoye and his second wife, Mary Rutan, daughter of John Rutan, one of the first settlers of Blooming Rose.

William Waller Hoye, eldest son of Paul Hoye of Frog Harbor Manor, on the Potomac near Williamsport, Md., was born there in 1768 and died at Sang Run in 1836. His first wife was Eleanor Slicer, a daughter of James Slicer, a hotel keeper in Cumberland. They were married there in 1796. They moved to "Crabtree Bottom" at Sang Run, Md., in 1799. Nine children were born to this union, of whom six reached maturity. It was shortly after Eleanor's death that William Waller Hoye married Mary Rutan, who bore him 12 children. David Hoye, the grandfather of Captain Hoye, was the eldest of this union, as has been stated above.

David's eldest son, William Harrison, was born in 1844 and died in 1908. He married Louisa M. Stutzman, of Somerset County, Pa., in 1875. The marriage took place in Washington, D. C. Capt. Hoye was their eldest child.

William Harrison, after graduating from the local schools, spent one year in Heidelberg College in Tiffin, Ohio. After a year in the Union army during the Civil War he became a partner of Samuel C. Hoye, a cousin, and Benjamin Franklin Hoye, a brother, in the mercantile business at Altamont, Md., which at that time was a flourishing community.

Not long afterwards the lure of farming drew him away from Altamont when he returned to Sang Run, where he made an outstanding success in agriculture and the raising of cattle.

His wife, Louisa, was the daughter of Joseph J. Stutzman, a noted teacher who was the first Superintendent of Schools in Somerset County, Pa. He also founded an academy that provided courses of high school level. It was at this academy, and under Stutzman, that William Hinebaugh, a Superintendent of Schools in Garrett County, was educated. William Hinebaugh was a grandfather of the author of this article. The Stutzmans came from Switzerland.

Louisa was a teacher in the Sang Run School. It is observed that both of Capt. Hoye's parents had above average education at that time.

Capt. Hoye graduated from Maryland State Normal, Towson, Md., in 1896, at the age of 20, after which he taught for two years. He enlisted as a private and later was raised to rank of sergeant, serving in the Philippines during the Spanish-American War. During World War I he was Captain and Adjutant of the 7th Regiment, Philippine Guard with the exception of this brief service during World War I his career for 25 years was as educator in the Philippines following the Spanish-American War. He was Supervising Teacher and Division Superintendent of Schools in the Philippine Bureau of Education and served with outstanding distinction.

Upon retirement from the Philippine schools he served for five years as teacher in Los Angeles County schools in California. In the early 1930's on a trip back to Garrett County he became interested in historical research. The last twenty years of his life, his most creative years, were devoted to Garrett County's colorful history. The fruits of his research were (1) "The Hoyes of Maryland"; (2) The Glades Star; (3) History of Garrett County Pioneer Families, published in the local press; and (4) numerous other articles, many of which were privately published.

Along with this voluminous literary output he founded the Garrett County Historical Society and at his own expense travelled throughout the county to obtain members.

His first wife was Hallie Savage. There was no issue. In 1902 he married Lucila K. Mason. To this union were born three children:

(1) Carlota, b. 1903; (2) William Redney, b. 1908; (3) Edward Buel, b. 1910.

In 1951 Capt. Hoye died of injuries when struck by an automobile in Los Angeles, Calif.

As a lad of ten years, I remember calling on his mother, Louisa Stutzman Hoye, in the Sang Run home. She showed me several things that her son had sent her from the Philippines. The object I best remember was a pair of slippers. Mrs. Louisa Hoye was a quiet person of striking features who in her later years, like her son, had snow-white hair.

My earliest recollection of Capt. Hoye was when visiting Uncle Thad and Aunt Minnie Phillips Hinebaugh in their home where Dr. Andrew Mance and his family now live. The Hinebaugh home was originally built by Wellington Crane. The present Mance house is on the site of the Crane-Hinebaugh house.

It was shortly afterwards—December, 1935—that Capt. Hoye called on me at Youghiogheny Forest. At that time I was pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Keyser, W. Va. That winter our family lived in one of the log cabins in Youghiogheny Forest Colony near Brookside, Preston County, W. Va.

Capt. Hoye asked me if I would commence research on the Eckerlin brothers. This I consented to do. This was my first major research in the history of the Allegheny Mountains. From that time until his unfortunate death we saw one another frequently and had considerable correspondence.

Capt. Hoye will always be remembered as the Father of Garrett County history. Along with his numerous publications and the founding of our Society, he was mainly responsible in obtaining in the interest of Ephriam Ellsworth Enlow, who gave the money for the Ruth Enlow Library, one of the model libraries of the State of Maryland.

A son of the oldest pioneers, a patriot soldier, an educator who helped shape a culture of a new civilization in the Pacific, an historian who pioneered in cultural history in the colony which his famous ancestors were among its most influential citizens and to crown his fruitful years he gave of the treasures of his heart and the wisdom of his mind to his beloved Garrett County—with no thought of reward.

It was because of the rich heritage of his Maryland family background and his stemming directly from the original pioneers, his intrinsic and durable knowledge of our history, his exemplary character, that the Garrett County Historical Society and the State of Maryland through Governor Theodore McKeldin dedicated the highest mountain in the State on Labor Day, 1952, naming it "Hoye Crest." June 1st of this year Paul B. Naylor and companions erected a permanent marker on this spot—donated by the Maryland Historical Society.

The words of Edward Young (1684-1765) come to mind when I remember Capt. Hoye:

"Each man makes his own stature; Virtue alone outbuilds the Pyramids."

Sixteen seniors recently received award letters in recognition of their work in Northern's Senior Chorus. The letters, which went to ten girls and six boys, are given annually by the chorus and director.

Mrs. Lucile Sines, chorus director, said that the letters are awarded "on the basis of length of service and quality of work done."

Those who were recognized were: Patrick Bittinger, Paul Bittinger, James Bowser, Frederick Holliday, Richard McCurdy and Darrell Winebrenner. Joyce Ann Haenftling, Carol Oester, Vonda McKenzie, Marion O'Brien, Kathy Younkin, Sandra Hone, Carol Hummel, Dorothy Lancaster and Nancy Miller.

In addition to the above listed students, special recognition was given to Wendell Wilburn, who earned his senior chorus letter last year as a result of his participation in Maryland State Chorus.

Is Your Name EDWARDS?

Do You Know That:

Edwards has been used extensively as a surname in Great Britain for a number of centuries. It has been especially popular in Wales. As is obvious, it signifies "son of Edward", the latter being one of the most popular of personal names and stemming from the Old English "eadward" which means "happy guardian". It should be noted that Edward was the name of one of the greatest of the West Saxon Kings of England, Edward the Elder, who reigned from 901 to 924.

Thomas Edwards (1753-1806) was major of Massachusetts troops during the Revolutionary War.

The first census of the United States, taken in 1790, has twenty-six listings of persons by the name of Edwards who were residents of Maryland and heads of families at that time.

Edwards County, Illinois was named Ninian Edwards (1775-1833), governor of Illinois territory from 1809 to 1818 and also later U. S. senator from the state.

Among the early marriage licenses issued by the clerk of the Circuit Court of Garrett County was that to J. F. Trehern and Cyrene Edwards on March 27, 1873.

The first Circuit Court, held in Garrett County, convened on May 19, 1873. One of the cases heard at that time was that of Samuel J. Edwards vs John Friend.

Samuel Edwards (1838-1912) was justice, Supreme Court of New York.

Edward Irving Edwards (1863-1931) was governor of New Jersey and also U. S. senator from the state.

Gordon L. Edwards (1884-1956) was vice-president and treasurer, United States Steel Corporation.

George Edwards is justice, Supreme Court of Michigan.

Edward Everett Edwards is professor of finance at Indiana University.

Palmer Wiley Edwards is major general, U. S. Army, with a distinguished record of service in the Second World War.

Linden Forrest Edwards is professor of anatomy at the College of Medicine and Dentistry, Ohio State University.

Reduced Engine Speed Saves Tractor Fuel

Considerable annual fuel savings on farm tractor operations are possible on light load work if the tractor operator shifts up and reduces engine speed. Seventy per cent of all work performed by a larger size farm tractor on the average farm is light load work, Guy W. Gienger, Extension Specialist in the Agricultural Engineering Department, University of Maryland, reports. This means that 70 percent of the time a tractor is working during yearly operation it is possible to use the shift up and reduce engine speed technique for substantial fuel saving economy.

Agricultural engineers have done some figuring, using what they consider a valid 28 percent "fuel saved" figure and an annual fuel bill of $1,000 to show that over a 10-year period a tractor owner can save $1,960 if he follows the recommended shift up and reduce engine speed procedure.

The sum of $1,960 does not include a considerable savings on parts and service, as revealed by the following quote from a recently publish Agricultural Engineering paper:

"Reducing engine speed and shifting to higher gears will reduce transmission and engine friction, horsepower losses and thus reduce fuel consumption."

The practice of shift up and reduce engine speed, tractor operation is not new from an engineering point of view. Gienger states, having been considered for several years by Agricultural Engineering Department as a highly-recommended procedure.

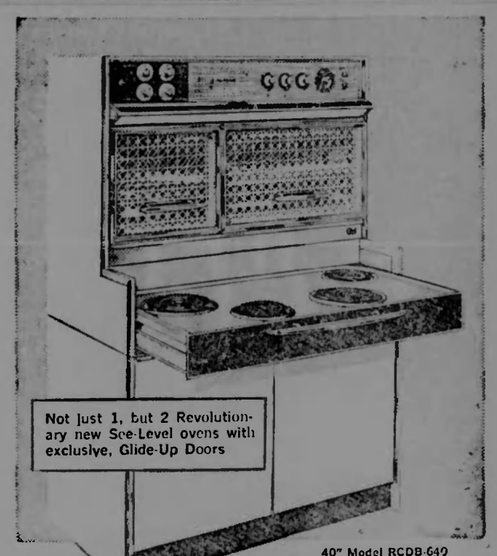
However, detailed studies show that the procedure, logical and simple as it is, is being overlooked by many farmers who stand to benefit most from its application.

Gienger emphasizes that two factors must be present to enable a farm tractor operator to employ the shift up and reduce engine speed technique satisfactorily. Needed are both a smooth-running engine with a wide RPM range, capable of producing the varying power as required for a multitude of farm jobs, and a transmission providing numerous speed choices for various farm applications.

Man Found Dead in Cellar of His Home

A 65-year-old Lonaconing man, native of this county, missing since late last Tuesday afternoon, was found hanging last Wednesday, November 16, in the cellar of his home.

The death of Clarence Marshall Fazenbaker, retired farmer, was ruled a suicide by Dr. W. O. McLane, Frostburg, deputy county medical examiner.



Mr. Fazenbaker was last seen by his family about 4 p. m. Tuesday. They reported his absence to police, and the man's body was found by Officer George Kirkwood of the Lonaconing Police department. The man had not been in ill health or despondent, authorities said.

A native of this county he was born at Knapps Meadow. During World War I he served in the army.

Besides his father, he is survived by his widow; four daughters, Mrs. Thelma Broadwater, Mrs. Marion Fazenbaker, and Mrs. Lois Kimble, all of Lonaconing; Mrs. Gladys Warnick Grantsville; two sons, Marshall Fazenbaker, Lonaconing; Clarence W. Fazenbaker, Westernport; 15 grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Eichorn Funeral home in Lonaconing, by the Rev. Thomas Mitchell. Burial was in Oak Hill cemetery.

THE COUNTRY-PULPIT

NOAH'S ARK

A few years ago explorers made the 16,000 foot climb up Mt. Aarat, hoping to determine whether Noah's ark was really there. (The Scripture says the ark rested " . . . upon the mountains of Aarat.") Genesis 8:4. Turkish herdsmen and some aviators reported seeing a vessel in a glacier there and some thought this might well be the ark made by Noah. After twelve days of fruitless search the project was abandoned. People living in the present day should also be looking for an ark of safety. Civilization will not again be destroyed by a flood, but there is coming a far worse judgement upon this world because of its sin. The judgement will begin after a period of history compared to the "Days of Noah". A study in Genesis will reveal these were days of increased sinfulness, especially having to do with sexual immorality. The rise of prostitution, increase in legal divorces, the number of unwed mothers, widespread practice of fornication and adultery can well be compared to Noah's day. This time God will not spare a few by use of an ark but will evacuate the Christians before unleashing the judgements spoken of in Revelation upon the earth. (I Thessalonians 4:13 - 5:11). The Saviour who said, "Come unto me" will save and secure from judgement these who come.

Listen Americans!

...by Dr. George S. Benson

PRESIDENT — NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM

Searcy, Arkansas

When Nikita Khrushchev walked into a super market in Los Angeles on his first sight-seeing trip to America he tried to hide his amazement, but he couldn't. He had never seen such a massive display of foodstuff in his life. He was astounded—and probably shocked. He was similarly amazed as he went about America seeing on all sides the massive productive might of our naton. He doesn't understand really why our system produces in such great volume. He doesn't know—and he doesn't want to know—what makes the American system tick.

FREEDOM TO WORK. Americans have this free choice of occupations. People living in total Socialism or Communism do not have it. It gives us the opportunity to do what we want to do, and thus we can be happy and more productive in our work. We don't want a bureaucrat or a commisar telling us to be a lumberjack—if we happen to like the profession of teaching, or if we like the city life and an office job. A great incentive to production is the satisfaction and pride that an individual worker gets from doing the things he wants to do.

FREEDOM TO DREAM. Only in an atmosphere of freedom can the total brain capacity of an entire population be harnessed for progress. Some of the most valuable contributions to our progress have come from average Americans who put their brains to work in a country where everybody is free to try ont any idea or contraption. Millions of products have come to the American market—and behind every new product there has been a free mind dreaming, inquiring, probing, and creating.

FREEDOM TO COMPETE. Under the American system the dreamer doesn't have a monopoly on producing things. Anybody can go into business and compete with the dreamer. Since the first automobile was produced in America, more than 1,500 companies have produced cars. Most of them failed. The best competitors, the best producers succeeded. Competition has kept auto manufacturers busy trying to outdo the other—and attract more car buyers. Millions of dollars have gone into research and new manufacturing techniques. This is true in most industries. Competition has spurred production in all products.

FREEDOM TO ADVANCE. This is the freedom of each person to improve his position—not on the basis of political maneuvering, but on the basis of worth in America's great productive system. Many of the present-day industrial leaders came up through the ranks of employees. They were ambitious, industrious, enterprising—and free, free to work for advancement. This screening upward of the best has developed the finest industrial and business management in the world. Our technical know-how is sought after in every nation on earth.

FREEDOM TO INVEST. Not only does every American have the privilege of investing his savings as he sees fit, the incentive to do so is very strong. This is indicated by the fact that millions of Americans own corporation stocks. The money they invest in industry goes for working capital, for building and expanding plants, and for the constantly expanding development of industrial tools. The average job in American industry requires an investment of more than $12,000—before the job can be created. Better tools are being produced constantly, resulting in higher productivity per worker, better wages and improving products for the consuming public.

Musician Honored

Guy Parks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Parks, of Batavia, Illinois, was awarded the trophy and certificate for "excellence in performance in brass" at a banquet which ended a five weeks' summer session of the National High School Institute of Music at Northwestern university. Guy who plays trombone, won the coveted award over all other brass instrumentalists.

Parks is a son of the former Hasaleah Yutzy of Oakland, daughter of Guy O. Yutzy, former Oakland resident. He is a grand nephew of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Glotfelty, Oakland, and Wellington E. Yutzy, of LaVale.

Qualifications upon which the award was based were leadership, character, attitude, sincerity and work in history and theory.

A newspaper clipping from that area had the following to say:

"The fact that Guy, from a small town, won over all other high school youngsters in his particular field, is regarded as attributed to the excellence of the Batavia High School music department under direction of Paul W. Peebles and Elwood Willey.

"While attending the session young Parks was privileged to work under the leadership of Dr. Ebersen and Mr. Paynter, heads of the Northwestern university orchestra and band. He also had the opportunity to play with the college orchestra and took part in five public concerts, one of which was televised.

Guy also landed a chair on the Youth Orchestra of Greater Chicago, made up of talented high school musicians from scores of communities.

Girl Scout Leaders To Meet Nov. 29

A neighborhood meeting for all registered Girl Scout adults will be held Tuesday, November 29, at 8 p. m. in the Oakland scout hall.

Mrs. Robert B. Wooters, neighborhood chairman, will report on the 1960 national convention in St. Louis and will interpret major changes in the structure and program of the organization and how it will affect the local level.

Refreshments will be served by troop 100.

Attend National Meet

The Shawnee Girl Scout council was represented at the National council last week in St. Louis, Missouri, by Miss Olive Hartburt, Mrs. Aden Everstine, Cumberland; Mrs. Alton Fortney, Luke; and Robert B. Wooters, Oakland. Convention guests were Mrs. Wooters and Mrs. Ruby Adams, Cumberland.

Some 10,000 persons including 100 senior scouts and international guests met to "honor the past—serve the future." There were speakers of national and international prominence.

Delegates took a long look at the challenge to youth in today's world, Mrs. Wooters reported. The need to plan more Girl Scout programs which develop the mind and spirit in addition to offering creative activity, was stressed and proposed major revisions in the program were accepted.

During the closing session a surprise transatlantic telephone call was received from Lady Olive Baden-Powell, wife of the founder of the scout movement and World Chief Guide.

Pictures Out Of The Past

Economic History of Kitzmiller Goes Back Many Years

Ebenezer Kitzmiller, who is among those shown in this week's old photograph, did not found the town of Kitzmiller, but it was named for him in 1877 when the first post office was established there.

The town's economic history is popularly associated with mining, and during the present century this did account for most of its prosperity; but its industrial enterprises pre-date coal by many years and have included a wide variety of activities.

Thomas Wilson is generally credited with being the first to use the water resources of the Potomac river at this point. In 1801 he settled there and constructed a saw mill. For forty years this, together with agriculture and stock raising, provided a living for the growing community until 1853, when Mr. Kitzmiller constructed a woolen mill, a unique project for such a small, isolated community.

Under the operation of William Pool, the products of this mill gained nationwide popularity, particularly a heavy, woolen shirt much in favor with lumbermen. With the present interest in Civil War lore, it is interesting to note that Mr. Kitzmiller's mill several times was ransacked by Confederate soldiers in brief excursions through the section.

When, in 1877, a post office was authorized, it was only natural that the village be named for its most prominent citizen, and so the name "Kitzmillerville" was chosen and is still the legal name of the town.

The occasion for the photograph was the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Pew, who are shown beside Mr. and Mrs. Kitzmiller.

Two Apprehended For Motor Law Violation Charges

Two persons were listed on the books of Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney this week on alleged violations of the motor vehicle laws but one was found not guilty.

Elmer George Slezak, of Greensburg, Pa., was charged with failure to grant right of way. He entered a plea of not guilty and was found not guilty by the magistrate.

In the only other case on record Robert Morton Hess, Charleston, W. Va., was fined $10 for operating his automobile at a speed too great for conditions. He forfeited the $10 collateral.

Annual Meeting of DHIA Group Held

The Dairy Herd Improvement Association No. 1 elected officers and directors for the coming year at the annual meeting in Grantsville last Friday night.

Harry W. Hummel, Grantsville, was named president of the association. Russell Bowser, Grantsville, was named vice-president; and Robert Buckel, Swanton, secretary-treasurer. Newly elected directors were Russell Bowser and Wilbur Beitzel. Holdover members of the board are Simon Tice and Oren Bender.

Dr. James L. Cason of the University of Maryland addressed the group on some of the aspects of green chop feeding with dairy herds.

Seven herd owners in the association were awarded Honor Roll certificates for having herd averages of over 450 pounds butterfat for the 1959 testing year. The certificates were given by the Pure-bred Dairy Cattle Association and presented by Dr. Cason. The honor Roll dairymen and their herd butterfat averages were: Simon Tice, 642 lbs.; Oren C. Bender, 527 lbs.; Raymond Schrock, 511 lbs.; Robert Buckel, 492 lbs.; Paul E. Yoder, 489 lbs; Raymond Bender, 476 lbs. and Robert O. Glotfelty, 472 lbs.

Make Good Records

Members of the association have made an outstanding record, judging from the national and state level reports.

The national average is 10,327 pounds of milk and 401 pounds of fat. The state average is 10,021 pounds of milk and 395 pounds of fat. The association average is 10,148 pounds of milk and 446 pounds of fat.

In the past five years the average butterfat content has increased from 385.9 to the present figure.

There were 123 cows in the herds of the association which averaged over 500 pounds of butterfat on test for 305 days. The top four were owned by Simon J. Tice and the top average was 815 pounds.

In the annual report of the association there was also recorded a dairy hall of fame listing cows that had achieved either a 100,000 pound milk record for a 4,000 pound fat record in their lifetime.

Heading this list was an American crossbreed of Simon Tice which had a total of 120,289 pounds of milk and a total fat content of 5,431 pounds. Tice also had two others for second and third. Robert O. Glotfelty had the fourth one on the list while Paul Marst had the fifth.

MARRIED

McKenzie-Warnick.— The First Methodist Church, Frostburg, was the scene November 6 of the marriage of Miss Sheila Rae Warnick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Warnick, Grantsville, to Frederick Lee McKenzie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. McKenzie, Frostburg. The Rev. Robert Current, pastor, officiated, and the altar was decorated with palms and chrysanthemums.

Miss Mabel Myers, organist, played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Frances Plummer, soloist, who sang, "Because," "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

Miss Warnick, escorted by her father, wore a floor-length gown of hand-clipped Rosepoint lace, designed with a Sabrina neckline, embroidered with sequins and seed pearls, fitted bodice and long tapered sleeves. A crown, fashioned with imperial pearls and orange blossoms held her double tiered fingertip veil of imported illusion. Her only jewelry was a cultured pearl necklace, a gift of the groom. She carried a cascade bouquet of white pompons and chrysanthemums with ivy.

Mrs. William Englehart, Pittsburgh, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Eugene Harris, Cumberland, Mrs. Harold Hartman, Cumberland, sister of the bride, and Miss Carol McKenzie, Frostburg, sister of the groom, were the bridesmaids. Miss Nancy McKenzie, niece of the groom and Miss Christi Englehart, niece of the bride, were flower girls.

Gerald McKenzie, brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were William McKenzie, Lee Lehr and Jack Warnick.

A reception followed the ceremony in the reception hall. The bridal motif was carried out in the floral arrangement of pink carnations and white mums. The five tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. William McKenzie and Mrs. William Warnick served the cake. Mrs. Arel Warnick and Mrs. Edwin Warnick presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Myron C. Lehr and Miss Mary McGowan were in charge of the reception.

For her wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wore a green knit suit, with brown accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Northern High School and of the Tri-State Beauty Academy. She is employed at Stratton's Beauty Salon. The groom is a graduate of Beall High School and attended Catherman's Business School. He is employed with his father.

The couple is residing at Robeson's apartments, Long Stretch, Frostburg.

Washington County After New Judgeship

The Washington county delegation to the General Assembly will request that a fourth judge for the 4th judicial circuit be appointed to that county.

The additional judge was authorized in a state-wide vote on November 8.

Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties, which comprise the circuit, each has a single judge. The Washington county delegation cited statistics for the year tending to show that Washington county's Judge D. K. McLaughlin handled 915 actions, 38 percent more than the 566 cases handled by Allegany county's Judge Morgan C. Harris, and 68 percent more than handled by Garrett County's Judge Neil C. Fraley. Allegany county had two judges several years ago, before Garrett county had any.

Gives Information On Early Mailing

Postmaster Donald M. Browning said today, "Early mailing of all Christmas cards and gifts is the biggest single factor in getting all of the mail delivered before Christmas. Post Office facilities have been expanded, extra help will be available, and everything is geared up to handle a record Christmas mail this year."

The entire Christmas mailing period is a big battle against time. Even though Christmas is a month away by the calendar, it's Christmas every day at the Post Office from now on.

The Postmaster advises, "Don't take chances on mailing poorly wrapped packages. Use sturdy corrugated mailing cartons, plenty of heavy wrapping paper and strong cord. Cartons containing several gift packages should be well stuffed with tissue or old newspapers to cushion the contents."

He said further, "If you have articles of unusual size or bulk, better check with the Post Office before attempting to mail them. The limits of size and weight of packages vary, depending on where you mail your packages from."

If you send your Christmas cards by First Class mail be sure to include your return name and address on each Christmas card envelope.

Send all Christmas mail going long distances before December 10th. Follow up promptly with cards and gifts for local delivery. Mail "Early and Often" for a merrier Christmas.

Crone - Callis—Mr. and Mrs. Mason W. Callis of Mt. Lake Park, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Ann Callis, to John Randolf Crone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Crone of Washington, D. C. The double ring ceremony was performed Saturday, November 5th by the Rev. Frank Brasington at the First Baptist Church at Silver Spring. Miss Rose McGovern of Washington, was maid of honor. C. F. Duvall, uncle of the groom, was best man.

After a trip to Battle Creek, Mich., the couple is residing in Washington, D. C., where they are both employed.

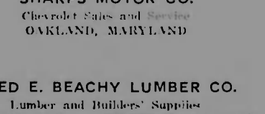
Danny and Tess took part in the Thanksgiving tableau at school last week, and they did a good job. As I looked at them, I thought of the real Pilgrim children and that first Thanksgiving.

Our forefathers weren't inoculated against childhood illnesses. They didn't have miracle drugs and warm clothes. They certainly didn't have more than they could eat. They faced incredible hardships, with no bright toys for special rewards, no candy bars. But they knelt down in the cold with their parents and gave thanks to God just for being alive.



Can we do less today? Can we possibly do less, this Thanksgiving, than go to Church and humbly give thanks to our Creator for His wonderful gift of life?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Strength In God

Lesson for November 27, 1960

WHAT IS needed in this world is not always better people. It's people who will stay as good as they are, just a while longer. You have your best moods, don't you? Or if you don't, some people around you surely have some good moments. Suppose those moods lasted longer? Suppose those moments became hours or days? The difference between one really good person and another who really isn't, may not always be that one is good, the other bad. They both may be good, only one of the two is able to stick with it, he has staying power, he doesn't fade; while the other one folds up in a hurry.

Dr. Foreman

Strength Against

When you read the 6th chapter of Ephesians you get the impression that life is a fight, even for the Christian. Yes, that is true, we must say especially for the Christian. The non-Christian doesn't try to swim against the tide, he goes with the crowd. If a man sets out to be a Christian he soon enough discovers that it is no bed of roses. He discovers where strength is needed: for one thing, against the pull of temptation. Strength of body may help, but one's very physical strength may be a source of temptation. Strength of mind may help; but a strong mind again may itself be a temptation to doubt and pride. It is strength inside, strength of spirit, that counts most in the fight against temptation. Many an alcoholic, or others who find liquor a real temptation even if not rated "alcoholics," knows how this is! Just to say NO—how hard it is! Other people can help, but the fight is really on the inside of the one who is tempted. The battle-field may be out of sight, but the battle is terribly real.

Strength For—

Just as a Christian needs inner strength to hold out longer against temptation of all kinds, he needs strength within so as to keep his good intentions going. All of us have generous impulses. We aim to do something for some one. We have a picture of ourselves helping some one out of trouble . . . and that's all it ever is, a picture. We hang the walls of our mind with these pictures of ourselves, all noble . . . but pure imagination. They are pictures of what we intended doing, what we maybe started to do but never finished.

Or perhaps we really do get going on these fine projects, but get too tired too soon. We are like the grain in Jesus' parable that fell on rocky soil. It came up all right, but a few days' sun and it was gone. The good start had no follow-up. There was life in the plant but it had no staying power. What we need is inner strength, the "will that says, Hold on!"

How To Find Strength

One thing should be kept in mind at all times: inner, spiritual power is not like physical or mental power. Some people are born with better physiques than others. Some are born with high IQ's and the low-IQ people just never will catch up. Not everybody, in short, can be an athlete, not every one can be a "brain." But every one can have the inner strength about which we have been talking. If every one does not have it equally, and some not at all, it is not because any are barred off by God's decree. It is because some do not fulfill the conditions.

The very first condition, and the continuing one, can be put in a question: Do you want it? Here as in other matters, God is more willing to give than we are to receive. We do not have to make ourselves ready or fit before God's spirit comes into our hearts. We do have to do one thing, quite seriously. We must put ourselves at the Spirit's disposal. The Spirit of God will not come to the help of any one who uses, or tries to use, the Spirit for his own private ends. Only the Spirit of God within us is able to give us that inner strength which we so continually need. But the Holy Spirit is not to be bought, wheedled, harnessed or controlled. Only those who welcome the Spirit and yield to Him may have Him.

Forest Fire Loss Small This Fall

Although two small forest fires occurred last Thursday in this county District Forester R. Thomas Thayer, Jr., reported that the four-county Western Maryland district had been relatively free of fires during this fall danger period.

Brush burning in Maryland is prohibited except between 4 p. m. and midnight from September 15 to December 15 except when the ground is covered with snow.

Adequate rainfall this fall has been helpful in keeping down forest fires. Thayer also commended hunters for their exercise of caution in the woods.

One of the fires last Thursday burned about one acre of woodland along the Baltimore and Ohio railroad's 17-mile grade near Swanton. Roland Schoch and Robert Warnick, both forest rangers, were the first on the scene and led the suppression efforts. Thayer said the B. and O. had laid a fire trail along the right-of-way which stopped the fire.

The second fire caused no damage. Firemen from the Grantsville Volunteer department responded to the call to Keyser Ridge. A transient apparently had built a warming fire and it had gotten out of control.

Worst fire in the district this fall occurred on October 17 in Washington county where some 10 acres were burned.

LUTHERANS BELIEVE...

Material things are good.

In fact, they believe all creation is good and it is wrong to despise the material things of life.

Shall we go back to the beginning . . . the beginning as related in the creation account of the Bible?

There we read, "And God saw everything that He had made, and behold, it was very good." Not evil. Material things are not evil. It's evil man who mis-uses them.

A hasty consideration will make that clear. For example, the golden heads of grain, waving in the sunshine, are a glorious sight to behold, and taste mighty good when they find their way onto our dinner tables in the form of bread. But that same grain becomes a curse if a man allows the whiskey that's made from it to wreck his life.

The gold and silver from God's hills are a blessing when they provide food and clothing and shelter; but man makes them gods when he takes the life of a fellow-man—or even tells a little white lie—for the sake of them.

God's creation is good—all of it. Man is the evil one who misuses it.

Cranesville Swamp Project Outlined

An appeal to help save Cranesville Swamp, considered one of the most fascinating natural areas in the Middle Atlantic States was launched this week. Figuratively speaking Cranesville Swamp is a little bit of Canada transplanted far to the south in the Allegheny Mountains. Here, tucked away in the mountains of Maryland and West Virginia is found the southernmost stand of Eastern Larch or Tamarack. Representing a "northern island" in a southern latitude there is found here both plants and animals of boreal or northern regions. So unusual is Cranesville Swamp it has attracted naturalists and scientists from many states here to study. To quote one of these naturalists from his article in the Atlantic Naturalist, Mr. Mansueti says: "My last trip in the Cranesville Swamp left me with the impression of a cool, mist-shrouded visit into a nether world".

How did such a place so different from our familiar woods and hills come into existence? Scientists have explained that during the Ice Age when Canada and the northern United States were covered with the great ice sheet, the northern forest retreated south ahead of the advancing ice into our region. With the final retreat of the ice and a general warming of the climate the northern forest advanced northward to where it exists today. In the vicinity of what is now Cranesville, however, a small piece of this once vast forest remains to be what botanists call a relict colony. Here, the cool, moist conditions caused by the high altitude, a frost pocket and poor drainage, created conditions similar to those found many hundreds of miles to the north and permitted many species of plants and animals to remain and exist today.

In an effort to preserve Cranesville Swamp in a natural condition The Nature Conservancy, a non-profit organization in Washington, D. C., which is dedicated to the preservation of natural areas, has undertaken the project of purchasing it. A loan from The Nature Conservancy has enabled volunteer field workers to negotiate successfully for the purchase of about one-half of Cranesville Swamp. Ultimately through future negotiations it is hoped to acquire the remainder.

The future of this very worthwhile project is now in the hands of the people of Maryland and West Virginia. Contributions are needed in order to repay the generous loan of money that was made available by the Nature Conservancy which enabled the first tract of about 280 acres to be purchased.

Donation will be helping to give a small portion of a unique area to future generations that might otherwise be destroyed in our lifetime. The value of Cranesville Swamp lies in its unusual plants and its rare beauty. If it is not preserved, it will be gone, for there is no other area like it in this part of our country.

Contributions may be mailed to The Nature Conservancy, 2039 K Street, NW, Washington 6, D. C., and be sure to indicate that it is for the Cranesville Swamp Project.

A portion of the Cranesville swamp is in Garrett County, between Lake Ford, this county and Cranesville, W. Va., Preston County. The swamp area is the start of Muddy Creek which flows into the Youghiogheny river at Swallow Falls.

Power Company Gets New Official Name

Allegheny Power System, Inc., now is the official name of the electric power network of which Monongahela Power Company is an operating member. Monongahela's name is not affected by the change.

Stockholders of The West Penn Electric Company voted on November 9 to change the company's name to Allegheny Power System, and on November 11 that listing was included in the New York Stock Exchange. The Exchange symbol for Allegany Power's common stock is APW.

The name was changed because it was felt "West Penn" did not adequately describe the five-state area served by the system. That service area includes parts of West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Ohio and Virginia. One of the three operating companies also carries the West Penn designation, The West Penn Power Company serving in western and central Pennsylvania. West Maryland Power company at Oakland is a part of the Monongahela Power Company.

Gas Storage

Company at delivery points near Clendenin, W. Va., in Kanawha county. This gas starts through generally parallel 26-inch pipelines, headed for the Washington-Baltimore area. In winter months the lines have operated at practically full capacity to supply these and other cities. But when demand fell off in summer months, the lines operated at much less than capacity.

By putting Terra Alta into operation, Atlantic is able to keep its big 26-inch lines busy through the summer, delivering gas all the way to Seneca and then through the 20-inch lateral line into underground storage.

This puts a supply of gas much closer to the markets ready for delivery when demand hits its peaks in winter.

The press tour got under way about 11 o'clock. Several officials of the company briefed the newsmen on what they were to see in the several buildings. Carl K. Gilchrist, assistant vice president and director of information, Charleston, W. Va.; Paul O. Hamer, compressor division superintendent, Elkins, and H. C. Mefford, Jr., storage division superintendent, Elkins, were in charge of this phase.

Groups of seven or eight were taken through the installation concluding in the new home of the supervisory engineer of the Terra Alta compressor station, where a box lunch was served. The "box lunch" turned out to be a full dinner with chicken, ham, cheese, tuna fish, salad, rolls, cake and either coffee or hot chocolate.

Following the official close of the tour there were helicopter flights over the area, showing the network of pipelines to the storage wells and other outlying installations. Four helicopters are used regularly to inspect the many miles of line and check for possible leaks.

Economically the Terra Alta storage project will help Preston county and adjoining areas. Investment is already about $19 million, including cost of acquiring the C. and A. Gas company and Hope Natural Gas company property. Some of this goes for goods and services obtained locally.

Eleven full-time employes and their families will join the community and an annual payroll of upward of $50,000 will stimulate local trade.

Annual rentals will be paid to property owners in the amount of about $48,700.

This entire storage project was described as something like a "package" project with three different operating departments of Atlantic Seaboard corporation involved.

These were listed as production-storage, compressor, and transmission. In the first phase workmen reconditioned 21 depleted wells and stimulated the formation 5,600 feet deep to speed up the rate of injection and withdrawal.

The second phase supervised construction of the compressor station. The third phase was the laying of the 43-mile 20-inch pipeline from Mouth of Seneca in Pendleton county to Terra Alta. The line crossed some of the highest, most rugged mountains in West Virginia.

The recent developments at Terra Alta are typical of what has happened several times in the gas industry in the last 15 years. There was the discovery of gas, the drilling activity, the gradual decline of the field and exhaustion of the supply. Now these abandoned fields have been converted to underground storage pools.

With each passing winter customers to the east require more and more natural gas to meet heating demands. This storage in summer has made it possible to provide more gas when it is needed during the winter, because it is closer to the market and can be obtained quickly.

The major portion of the gas now going into the storage area at Terra Alta comes from Texas and Louisiana with some coming from West Virginia and Kentucky.

Terra Alta is the newest of these storage fields and includes a tract of some 10,200 acres. It will be able to deliver this winter up to 250,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day on the coldest days at homes and factories along the east coast.

Elk Garden School Discussed In Survey

Elk Garden High School is due to face unless it can find a wider patronage area" in the opinion of two consultants from West Virginia University who made a survey of county-wide school plant needs for the Board of Education of Mineral County. The school adjoins Garrett County where a number of students from Kitzmiller attend.

The board does not expect an early decision on acceptance or rejection on the visionary survey, E. W. Welshonce, Keyser, assistant superintendent says.

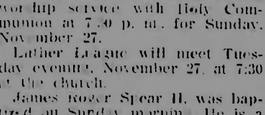
In the long run, it will be the people in the county who will determine what action is to be taken on the survey, since it will necessitate a bond levy.

Copies of the comprehensive 39-page report are available to groups or individuals at the office of the Mineral County Board of Education.

As the high school enrollment here continues to decline, even with the support which comes from the attendance of Maryland children—66 out of the total of 320 for 1959-60—it will be increasingly difficult to provide an adequate six-year high school program without prohibitive cost.

The consultants feel that one possible solution to maintaining it in fairly adequate fashion and without prohibitive cost might be to persuade Grant county school authorities and the people of the northwestern part of that county to join forces in what might be termed a Highland High School, using the Elk Garden plant.

Perhaps over a 10-year period the local high school could serve parts of the two counties with reciprocating arrangements for elementary instruction.



Otherwise, the consultants point out, Elk Garden will have to abandon the 10-12 grades and send these pupils to Keyser. The present building might then accommodate a good nine-grade school and avoid additional investment in buildings. Bringing the Cross School pupils to Elk Garden may prove necessary, they said.

Until the population trend stabilizes, the report said, any large investment for new buildings or to modernize existing facilities at this point would not be justified.

The consultants said they "would deplore the necessity of hauling these primary children further from their homes," but as the Elk Garden area population dwindles it may be necessary to haul some way to using still more of the of the students considerable distances.

The additions already made to the high school to accommodate the middle grades may pot [illegible] space there for elementary pupils, allowing the crowding [illegible] reasoned here by transporting Grades 10-12 to Keyser where a reorganized [illegible] school is proposed.

CERTIFICATION OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS OF GARRETT COUNTY

I hereby certify that the figures given in this report are true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief, and that they can be verified from the records of the Garrett County Board of Education.

(Sgd.) Willard L. Hawkins
County Superintendent of Schools

Garrett National Bank Building
Oakland, Maryland
August 23, 1960

Garrett County Board of Education
Oakland, Maryland
Gentlemen:

We have examined the statements of income collected and expenses disbursed of the Garrett County Board of Education for the year ended June 30, 1960. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary under the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements and exhibits present the Garrett County Board of Education's cash on hand and in bank at June 30, 1960, and income collected and expenses disbursed by the Board of Education for the year then ended on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

The records of the Board of Education are adequate and are efficiently kept. We had the complete cooperation of your staff in making this and prior audits.

Respectfully submitted,
(Sgd.) George McLaughlin
Certified Public Accountant

THE BENISTON FAMILY—in their home in Bel-Aire Manor. Mr. Beniston is a salesman for the Bowman Products Co., suppliers of service parts to the automotive, marine and industrial fields. Mrs. Beniston says, "He has quite a bit of paper work to do at home . . . impossible in hot, muggy weather. Last summer—with Gas air conditioning—it was no trouble at all."

MOTHER OF FIVE NOW USES GAS INSTEAD OF ELECTRIC
..."REAL HAPPY ABOUT THE WHOLE THING!"

"I fell in love with the gas kitchen—but the gas air conditioning clinched the deal," says Mrs. J. R. Beniston about their new Catranel All-Gas House of Savings in Bel-Aire Manor, a new development east of Miracle Mile, Pittsburgh, Pa.

That was before Mrs. Beniston had ever tried gas appliances. Here's what she says now—after four months:

"We didn't have gas where we used to live . . . everything was electric. We had to have a big electric water heater . . . but this ordinary-size gas water heater set at 'normal' keeps up with my washer—and the washer's going most every day. We always have plenty of hot water.

"I find that Gas cooking's clean and much faster than electric, too. Heat is there when I turn it on, gone when I turn it off. I'm not paying for heat I'm not using. Gentle light from the outdoor gas lamp makes our home look so nice at night."

Mrs. Beniston signed off with, "—and our gas bills have been so reasonable, I'm just real happy about the whole thing."

Why don't you try truly modern GAS appliances—and be real happy about the whole thing, too?

Before you build, buy or modernize your home . . . get this free booklet on home heating.

"AIR CONDITIONING has benefits I never thought of. For instance—the twins, cutting teeth, were as good as gold during hot, muggy weather last summer. Other mothers said their babies were cranky and miserable."

600 Manufacturing Plants in State Need and Use Wood

There are 600 manufacturing establishments in Maryland which depend on wood and wood products for their raw material, according to R. Thomas Thayer, Jr., district forester.

Included are seven primary pulp and paper mills which use wood or wood pulp as their raw material, 38 paper products mills whose products include envelopes, shopping bags, business forms, corrugated boxes, drinking cups, soda straws, paper towels and other articles.

Also listed are 400 sawmills and planing mills, five wood preserving plants and others. Output of all these plants is valued at about $260 million a year.

In 1939 the combined output of the lumber, furniture and pulp and paper products was valued at $42 million. By 1955 the value was estimated at $182 million.

The U. S. Bureau of the Census reported in 1957 that the larger forest products companies, those with 20 or more full time workers, employed almost 19,000 people. Almost six percent of all the manufacturing payrolls in the state were provided by these companies, $72,832,000. These same industries in 1957 added, by processing, more than $134 million to the value of the wood raw material used.

VOLUME 81 — OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY MD., DECEMBER 1, 1960 — PER COPY, 8c — NUMBER 10.

Loose With Figures . . . .

These planners of our recreational welfare are mighty loo e with facts and figures, it seems. We have been bombarded with statistics during these past few weeks, which point up our supposed lack of adequate space for recreational activities. These look just a mite ridiculous.

There are now about 17,000 acres of Maryland's land in state parks and recreational areas. The director of Forests and Parks, Joseph F. Kaylor, has declared Maryland would require 30 times the park land it now owns to meet requirements of its population in the year 2,000. By simple arithmetic this means 510,000 acres. Resources for the Future, Inc., said there should be 520,000 acres for recreation in the year 2,000.

The state population in the year 2,000 is estimated at 6.5 million people. A recent report revealed that the state parks, with their 17,000 acres took care of four million people last year, even though reportedly inadequately. But would we need 30 times the present area just to take care of half again as many people? As the State Planning director said, "that's a lot of land."

If you want to carry this a little further, just for fun, there are 423,680 acres in Garrett county and 46 percent or about 198,195 acres are in farms. If people followed Kaylor's recommendations, by the year 2,000 there would be more land in recreation areas than there is land in all of Garrett county, the second largest county in the state in land area.

For the sake of uniformity, multiplying these figures by 23 for the number of counties, we find a total of over 9 million acres in the state with over 4½ million in farm land, leaving, after you take out the 520,000 acres for recreation, less than 5 million acres for the six and one-half million people to reside in and for the offices and places wherein they would have to work. Perhaps by that time people would not have to work and we would have recreation all the time.

But if that is not the case, and we don't think it will be, this controversy over the proper amount of land for adequate recreational purposes is just a little silly. And what happens to our tax basis with all those acres in tax free status?

The State Department of Forests and Parks has done a good job of taking care of basic recreation needs. And people really don't have to have 100 percent of their lives planned for them. Let them recreate every now and then on some property that is not owned by the state. And they might even want to travel to other states for a diversion.

Legislators Plan To Meet Tuesday

Will Discuss Proposed Legislation With All Interested Citizens

The county legislators and County Commissioners will meet next Tuesday evening, December 6, for a discussion of any proposed legislation. They have invited interested persons to come before them to talk over any changes which they feel are needed in the county's laws or to discuss any new regulations proposed.

Attending the meeting will be State Senator Bernard I. Gonder, Sr., and Delegates Leslie E. Savage, Elza E. Bray and Elbert Buckel County Commissioners Carl A. Schell, Fred B. Glotfelty and Elra Garletts also will attend. Mr. Savage is chairman of the delegation and Mr. Schell is president of the County Commissioners.

Several district meetings have been held within the past three weeks, called by the members of the House of Delegates, and these have been held at Johnson, Avilton, Swanton, McHenry, Deer Park, Friendsville, Accident, Kitzmiller, Grantsville, Mt. Lake Park and Bloomington.

Senator Gonder said no unusual suggestions had been made at the area meetings, but that possibly there would be some significant items to come before the meeting next Tuesday. He emphasized that all the legislators would be happy to discuss any proposed legislation which may be suggested.

The meeting will begin promptly at 7:30 o'clock and will be held in the court room in the court house.

Improves From Burns

Mrs. Dorothy Kirk, 22, of Terra Alta, who was seriously burned in a fire November 8 which claimed the life of her three-year-old daughter, was reported 'greatly improved' this week in the West Virginia university medical center in Morgantown.

Mrs. Kirk sustained burns about her arm and face and her hair and head were badly seared when a kerosene explosion destroyed the family home on the Freeport road, four miles south of Hopemont. She was admitted to Garrett County Memorial hospital, Oakland and transferred to the Morgantown institution the following day.

The fire resulted when Mrs. Kirk attempted to start a fire in the family stove, located in the bedroom. A bottle of kerosene she was holding blew up in her hands.

Marilyn Kirk perished in the blaze, while her father, Golden Kirk 36, a sister, Helen Kirk, 4, and an aunt, Dorothy, 22, all sustained minor burns.

Plans Developing For Pageantry For Civil War Centennial

An outline of an historical pageant projected for the coming Civil War Centennial years was discussed at a meeting on Saturday of the Pageant Committee headed by Mrs. Carrie Kahl. Committee members attending were Miss Edith Brock and Mrs. Ruth Ashby.

Joseph P. Sollars of the University of Maryland faculty, submitted a preliminary plan for a pageant based on episodes of the Civil War in Garrett County. At the time of the notably successful Oakland Centennial in 1949 Mr. Sollars in collaboration with Felix G. Robinson organized and mounted the pageant, an elaborate one.

Another meeting of the pageant Committee has been scheduled during the Christmas holiday week, by which time it is expected the plans will be further developed.

Other present at Saturday's meeting were E. Herbert Shaffer, Carson B. Groves, Iret Ashby, Dennis Rasche, and Edward P. Kahl.

Training Course For Bus Drivers Held

A series of training courses in first aid, for school bus contractors and drivers, began Tuesday at Southern High school and will continue for the next several weeks.

Robert M. Martin, transportation supervisor for the Board of Education, said the first group is composed of drivers in the outer Oakland area. Two-hour courses will be held from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m., on December 1, 6, 8 and 13, at Southern High.

The second series of courses, for drivers in the immediate Oakland area, will begin on January 10 and continue on January 12, 17, 19 and 24. Dates for similar courses in the northern area of the county will be announced shortly, Martin said.

Miss Helen A. Teets, who is a qualified Red Cross instructor and who has had previous experience in conducting first aid courses for school bus drivers in West Virginia, is in charge of the instruction. She is assigned as a teacher to the Loch Lynn school.

The courses cover the recommended Red Cross first aid procedures, and at the conclusion official Red Cross cards will be awarded to the drivers and contractors who have attended.

"There are no substitutes for an accident-free driving record," Martin said. "However, should an accident occur in spite of all safety precautions, there are no substitutes for knowing how to administer first aid to those who need it."

Airport Drawings Are Now Available

Contractors May Want To Get Look Before Snow Covers The Area

Preliminary drawings for proposed excavation work at the proposed Garrett County airport, are available in the office of the County Commissioners, it was announced this week by Carl A. Schell, president of the board.

It is planned to advertise for bids in January but the Commissioners asked for the preliminary drawings so that prospective contractors might inspect the area before it is covered by snow. It is estimated that 192,815 cubic yards of earth will have to be cut, and some 204,543 cubic yards of fill.

The plans and drawings are prepared by Airways Engineering Corporation of Washington, D. C., and Mr. Schell urged interested contractors to examine the site while weather is still open.

Arrangements may be made at the Commissioners' office to obtain copies of the plans by contractors who may wish to submit formal bids when such bids are requested.

State and national aviation officials have indicated that bids will be advertised by January 15, so that work can get under way by April 1.

The new airport is to be located on the former White Face farm near McHenry, adjacent to Deep Creek Lake and 15 miles from Oakland. The location is in the center of the county.

The property to be utilized is part of a 640-acre farm formerly owned by C. M. White, of Cleveland, Ohio, former resident of Oakland. The farm was given to the county several years ago, the family reserving only a small portion for themselves if they ever want to return here to reside. The only restriction on the county's use of the land is that any money realized from it must go to the hospital.

Under the federal aid program for construction of the airport here, $153,000 was made available along with $37,500 in state funds. The county is to provide $79,150 and the state a similar amount, under the plan by Airways Engineering.

The proposal calls for an expenditure totalling $316,000 and the land valued at $31,000 would be a part of the county's share. The federal government's share includes $15,000 for site and clearing zones, $140,430 for construction of an east-west runway, 2,500 feet by 75 feet, with an apron 225 feet by 225 feet, with taxiway, approach clearing plus an access road to cost $2,870.

Mr. Schell and others have pointed out that the airport will be of considerable advantage to the county in its bid for more tourists, vacationers and as an added attraction for possible industrial locations. It would also be a safety factor to airplanes which traverse the mountain areas.

Found Guilty of Embezzling Charge

Michael R. Bowman, 22, Piedmont, W. Va., was found guilty Tuesday in Allegany County Circuit court on a charge of embezzlement of $603.43 from McIntyre's Bakery, Inc., Westernport, where he formerly worked as a driver-salesman.

He was sentenced to a term not to exceed two years in the Maryland Reformatory for Males but sentence was suspended on condition of good behavoir and restitution of the money taken.

Bowman had pleaded not guilty to the charge but acknowledged having taken $10 to pay electricity and gas bills. He contended it was a matter of enstomer being right and the driver-salesman being wrong.

Bowman visited about 130 homes in this county, primarily in the Loch Lynn-Deer Park area, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and points in Allegany on the even days of the week.

To Show Film

A color and talkie film, "Magic Highway, U. S. A.," will be shown at the weekly meeting of the Oakland Rotary club on Friday evening at the William-James hotel. The film is one of those distributed by the Portland Cement association. Paul Riley is program chairman for the month and will be in charge.

Patty Sacher Wins Citizenship Award

Patty Sacher was named the Southern High School winner of the D.A.R. Good Citizenship award this week by Kenneth Johns, principal.

Patty was one of three girls chosen by her teachers and students to compete for the award. Girls chosen were selected on the basis of dependability, leadership, service and patriotism. The two other girls chosen this year were Carol Campbell and Kathryn Blizzard.

Each of the three girls wrote an essay using as the subject, the theme of the National Society, "For What Avail - If Freedom Fail" with emphasis on the Patriotic motif.

Patty's essay, along with Northern's winner will be reviewed by a panel of judges for the Garrett County winner. This paper will then be submitted to a committee of state judges for the final selection of Maryland's Good Citizen.

During her school career she has consistently been named to the honor roll. Her attendance record has been very good, having missed only eight days in the past three years. She is a member of the Girls' Athletic Association, the senior chorus and the Future Nurses of America Club. A member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, she has been active in the church choir and Luther League. She has held the offices of President, vice-president and secretary in the Girl Scouts.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sacher, 57 Center Street, Oakland.

Park Land Lag Is Denied by Planner

Any implication that Maryland is lagging in acquisition of land for parks is "unjustified and unwarranted," James J. O'Donnell, state planning director, declared. This was in rebuttal to one last week by Joseph F. Kaylor, director of Forests and Parks.

Kaylor said last week that the state should step up its acquisition of land to a minimum rate of 10,000 acres a year. Kaylor said "The program of land acquisition contained in the master plan of this department which calls for 50,000 acres of state parks and recreation areas by 1965 should be followed."

O'Donnell said the state earmarked $5 million dollars for land acquisition between 1947 and 1969 and that there was a $2 million reserve. The money has been awarded to the Department of Forests and Parks which set its own pace for acquisition, O'Donnell added.

Kaylor cited a report by Resources for the Future, Inc., which estimated Maryland should have 520,000 acres of land for recreation in the year 2,000. It now has 17,000 acres. "That's an awful lot of land," said O'Donnell. "We have to keep some land available for houses unless we all live in a mile high skyscraper."

To Reactivate Cub Program at Park

The Cub Scout program at Mt. Lake Park will be reactivated this week, it was announced by area scout officials.

A meeting is to be held in the Community building at the Park on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at which time all parents and young boys interested in the cubbing program are urged to attend.

Glenn Simpson will be the new cubmaster. Area scouting representatives will be present.

Truck Is Damaged by Fire Monday Night

A truck thought to have been owned by Richard Nice, of Amboy, W. Va., was damaged by fire of unknown origin on Monday night about 10 o'clock.

The truck was parked near Shorty's Service station at Gortner, about four miles south of Oakland on U. S. route 219. The truck was loaded with poplar logs and there was no one around at the time.

Firemen estimated a loss of $200 and two tires.

Oakland firemen also answered an alarm Sunday morning about 10 o'clock, to the farm home of Fred George, on the Underwood road, as the result of a flue fire. There was no damage.

A third fire occurred on November 19, which failed to get mentioned in last week's issue. This was in the canopy over the H-P store entrance on Second street. Loss there was estimated at $200. Firemen responded to the alarm and extinguished the flames. This occurred about 6:40 p. m.

Hunters Will Take Full Adavantage Of Extra Hunting Day

Hunters by the hundreds appear to be making arrangements to take full advantage of the extra hunting day allowed for bucks this year. The same extra day was available last year but no records fell, because of the terrific snowstorm that descended on the county about two days after the season opened.

The deer hunting season will open Saturday, December 3, and will continue until sundown Saturday, December 10, excluding Sunday, December 4. This is the second year that an extra day has been added to the season to give hunters two Saturdays for hunting. The season formerly had run for the first full week in December.

During the season it will be lawful to kill bucks with two or more points to one antler and spike bucks with three-inch spike. During the deer hunting season the small game season will be suspended but will be resumed Monday, December 12 and will continue until January 5.

The deer checking stations are at Edwards garage in Grantsville, Matt Sterey's on Deep Creek Lake, near McHenry; Murphy's, in Friendsville; and Carroll Miller's Mt. Top Tire and Sport Shop in Oakland. Hunters may also check their bucks at Westernport or LaVale in Allegany county.

All indications point to a record number of hunters. Extra game wardens, usually assigned to other counties of the state, will be in Garrett county next week.

Third Felon Nabbed By Police Sunday

The third of five felons who escaped recently from the State Correctional institution at Huntingdon, Pa., was recaptured Sunday in Gettysburg, Pa. They had been seen at various times in parts of this county and nearby Somerset and Fayette counties. All five had been observed at one time around Markleysburg.

Two days after the five slipped away authorities caught Donald Davidson 23, as he crossed a road near Uniontown. On November 17, Robert Harn was captured shortly after he and two others were cornered in Ebensburg after they had abducted two men and held another family captive for nearly two hours in their home.

The third to be nabbed was Scotty E. Robinette 32. He was in a stolen car at a Gettysburg service station.

Authorities have said that the two men still at large must be considered dangerous and may be armed. The five escapees had been serving time for crimes ranging from armed robbery to forgery.

Improving Water Supply in the Park

The Mt. Lake Water company is engaged in improving its water mains in the Mt. Lake and Loch Lynn areas.

The company at present is laying 1,100 feet of new six-inch lines that are to replace two four-inch lines in the Loch Lynn area.

The improvement will increase the flow of water into both the Park and Loch Lynn. The company is planning to lay an additional 1,800 feet from Loch Lynn in the spring.

These improvements are being made as the result of a survey recently made and the plans are to replace all the obsolete pipe with new transite pipe, a type of asbestos cement, said to be more lasting than the present pipe.

Indian Summer To Winter In One Hop

From Indian Summer into winter—that was the story in Garrett county this week with the first real taste of winter appearing yesterday and depositing some three to five inches of snow over the territory. And the end was not yet in sight.

The mercury dropped to 10 above zero yesterday morning and throughout the day did not get above freezing. Strong winds whipped the snow into sizeable drifts and roads were slippery.

Snowplows got into action on both county and state roads and all roads were open with no difficulty being reported in any area. Cindering was also in progress because ice which had formed prior to the fall of snow made all highways extremely slick.

Police were recommending snow treads or chains for persons traveling in this area. The State Roads Commission reported that 19 pieces of equipment and 58 men were in service yesterday afternoon and evening in this county applying chemicals and abrasives to the roads.

The Weather Bureau reported that the area could expect more of the same weather conditions today. The temperature is expected to remain cold for the balance of the week.

Nearby areas in West Virginia also reported several inches of snow.

There were definite indications that there would be plenty of snow on the ground for the start of deer season and also plenty at the Marsh Mountain ski area for a successful official opening on Sunday.

Participates In War Games

Army corporal Roger C. Resh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Resh, Grantsville, recently participated with personnel from the U. S. first corps group, from a cavalry division, from ROK infantry and from elements of Turkish and Thai forces in the largest simulated war games held in the Republic of Korea this year.

The operation, Exercise Swift Tiger, was described as a normal distance semi-controlled, two sided command post maneuver. This was the first time that forces in Korea have used the two sided type control during a field problem. Both aggressor and friendly forces had their operation headquarters in the field.

The exercise tested application of doctrines and procedures in employing nuclear weapons under field conditions. This action was preliminary to a field training exercise scheduled for January.

Regularly assigned to Company D, 51st Signal battalion, Resh entered the army in March, 1959, completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C., and was stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., before going overseas last January.

County Sends 25 Inmates To Institutions In Year

Garrett county committed only 25 persons to state penal institutions during the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1959, according to the 52nd annual report of the Maryland Department of Correction by Governor J. Millard Tawes.

The number represents less than one percent of the 3,921 persons committed from Baltimore City and the 23 Maryland counties. Since 2,435 or more than 62 percent of them were confined from to the Reformatory for Women, Baltimore city.

Of the number sent from this part decisive that more than county 16 went to the House of Correction and three to the Reformatory for Males.

Of the 3,921 committed from Allegany Maryland, 2,197 were sent to the House of Correction, 256 to the Reformatory for Males, 391 to the Penitentiary, and 279 were sent to the Reformatory for Women.

Another table in the annual report shows that more than one-third of the committed persons were natives of Baltimore city, another 287 were born in some of the 23 Maryland counties and more than 300 were natives of north or west of the United States.

Medical Mirror — What Doctors Say About

Better Health Through Knowledge

Car Sickness

- Gritty Mouth
- Menopause Defined
- Tapeworm

Q. What can be done to help a child who gets carsick? Are there drugs to take or is it "all in the head?"

A. Several drugs are now available which help prevent carsickness. Your doctor can offer advice along these lines. Motion sickness isn't entirely "imagination," as anyone who has ever been sick can testify. However, excitement and suggestion do play a part. It would be best not to mention the possibility of getting sick to the child. If vomiting occurs, don't make a fuss. Otherwise, the child may employ this means of gaining attention.

Q. What can I do for a gritty feeling in my mouth?

A. If you wear dentures, keep them scrupulously clean. Although this may help, mouth grittiness is not unusual in persons past 50 or so.

Q. Does the menopause end with the cessation of the menses or does it continue?

A. We need to define some terms. "Menopause" literally means cessation of menstrual function. Another term — "climacteric" — denotes a transitional phase or "change of life," of which the menopause is but one manifestation. This transitional period of life normally extends through the 50th year.

Q. I think I have a tapeworm. What medicine can I take? And don't tell me to go to a doctor —I'm too embarrassed.

A. You need a spanking (and at your age). Forget your false modesty and see your physician. There are very effective drugs for this condition but they should be used only under the direct supervision of a doctor.

Answers do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician. Questions directed to Science Editors, P.O. Box 396, Madison Sq. Sta., N. Y. 10, N. Y. will be incorporated in these columns when possible.

More Urging For Early Mailing Is Voiced

Urges were made again for early Christmas mailing this week by Donald M. Brosius, postmaster.

He advised that persons not wait until mid-December to get Christmas cards and gifts in the mails. He also asked special cooperation in being sure that the return address and the recipient's address is plainly typed or written on all labels and Christmas cards. Those with first class postage will be delivered promptly and forwarded or returned, if necessary. Free labels are available at the postoffice which read "All for Local Delivery," and "All for Out of Town Delivery."

Mr. Brosius also suggested that business firms delay mailing circulars and catalogs until after December 25.

GOP to Study New Congress Seat Site

Maryland Republicans Saturday announced the formation of a committee to study where the state's new congressional district should be located.

Maryland is to receive an eighth district as a result of the population increase shown by the 1960 census.

D. Eldred Rinehart, chairman of the Republican State Central committee said the study group would report its recommendations to the 1961 general assembly which is scheduled to act on the re-districting matter. The legislature will be overwhelmingly Democratic.

Chairman of the committee will be Samuel Hopkins, Baltimore. Other members will include U. S. Senator John Marshall Butler and J. Glenn Beall.

Rinehart said the Republican party believed the new district should be formed "to help insure equitable representation for all the citizens" of Maryland.

Deep Creek Power Plant Engineers Shown In Photo

It was just thirty-five years ago, in 1925, that generators at the Deep Creek plant of the Pennsylvania Electric company were put into operation, marking the completion of the biggest construction job ever attempted in the county, then or since.

Some of those who carried the responsibility for this project are shown in today's old photograph, belonging to Robert Maroney, trial magistrate at Oakland. It was taken in 1924. Mr. Maroney is shown in the picture, third from the right in the front row.

Construction work on the dam and power house was done by Charles B. Hawley and Company, Inc., of Washington, D. C., acting as agents for the General Construction Corporation. Verne Clawson was the field superintendent and B. F. Weston the field engineer at Oakland. Mr. Weston is in the second row of the photograph, second from the right.

The completion of the dam in 1925 marked the realization of a dream which had been shared by many persons for more than a century. Among those who visualized the utilization of the waters of Muddy Creek and Deep Creek were Henry Ford and Thomas Edison, who camped in the area and noted in their later writings of the vast possibilities for commercialization of the streams.

Hiram P. Tasker, a local visionary made elaborate plans some 60 years ago to use the wasted water resources for the creation of electricity, and surveyed and promoted a proposed electric railway from the Swallow Falls area to Mt. Lake Park, to be lined with industrial plants using the power he proposed to generate.

Like many other dreamers, his vision outweighed his bank account, and it remained for others, many years later, to bring to reality at least a portion of his proposals.

Why Kitzmiller?

In last week's old picture story concerning the town of Kitzmiller, it was pointed out that the legal name of the town is actually Kitzmillerville. It has been brought to the writer's attention that the reason this name was never officially adopted by the Post Office department is because it was too long to engrave around the stamp cancellation die, and so the town became known as merely "Kitzmiller."

Readies Advertising For 250 Miles of Highway Contracts

The State Roads Commission of Maryland has tentatively programmed advertising of approximately 250 miles of highway work in the next eighteen months, John B. Funk, Chairman-Director of the Commission announced today.

The work scheduled involves the use of approximately $115,000,000, the Chairman-Director said.

Appearing on the tentative program is work on interstate, primary and seconday highways.

Most of the program involves projects on the so-called "Go" system of roads, the network of primary highways and expressways scheduled for completion between now and 1965.

This speedup in primary highways was made possible by revisions in the Commission's Twelve-Year Program. The revisions were approved by the 1960 session of the Maryland General Assembly.

The tentative program of advertising between now and June 30, 1962, includes the following roads in the four western Maryland counties:

U. S. Route 40, Frederick toward Hagerstown, December, 1960;

Assigned To Hawaii

Airman first class Harold C. Lantz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lantz, Crellin, left Saturday night from the Pittsburgh airport for Travis air force base in California where he left Sunday evening for Hawaii for a three year assignment at Hickam field.

Lantz is a teletype operator and had been stationed at Fallon, Nevada. He spent a 20-day furlough with his parents. Lantz has been in the air force for the past five years.

Promotion Council To Have Full Time Executive Director

The Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council will have a full time executive director, beginning today, Thursday, December 1, it was announced this week by the Board of Directors.

Appointed to the position is John O'Brien, 26, of Kalamazoo, Mich.

Mr. O'Brien will have full charge of all activities of the promotion council, answer all correspondence, arrange activities and programs and be on a full time basis. His offices will be located on the second floor of the Garrett National Bank building in Oakland.

Mr. O'Brien is married to a former Elkins, W. Va., girl and they have one child. He is seeking a home in Oakland where the family will reside.

This is the first time that a full time director has been provided for the activities of the promotion council and the board of directors felt that much more good could be accomplished with one person in charge of all the programs.

Ski Trail Ready

The Marsh Mountain Ski slope will be officially ready to open on Sunday, it was announced by Belmuth Heise, manager. All that is needed is some snow.

The ski shop will be open regardless of the snow and will be anticipating an active season. Heise said the ski tows and slopes were in excellent shape and would be ready to begin operations just as soon as the weather permitted.

Allegany Is Seeking Second Judgeship

Allegany county legislators are going to ask Governor Tawes to select the new judge for the Fourth Judicial Circuit from the Allegany county bar.

The appeal is to be made in a letter which is signed by legislators following a meeting in the court house. It is being pointed out that as a result of the approval of a constitutional amendment there will be an additional judge in the circuit.

The legislators said Allegany county should have the position on the basis of tradition and need, pointing out that for 60 years prior to March, 1938, two Circuit Court judges resided in Allegany county. At that time a judge was named for this county and one eliminated for Allegany county.

Last week Washington county asked that the additional judge be named from that area because of the number of cases handled there was greater than the number being handled in Allegany county.

Garrett county is not planning to make any bid for the extra judge.

SADDLES

...one helps keep riders up
...one helps keep GAS costs down

SADDLES. After all, what can you say about a saddle? It's made of leather . . . and it's either English, western or . . .

Whoa-oa-oa-oa. There's another type of saddle, you know. That's the saddle used by the gas company.

Just as the one saddle is important to the horseback rider, this other type saddle is vital to the gas company pipeliner.

The pipeliner's saddle is the final phase of a never-ending maintenance and inspection program on gas company supply lines.

A saddle is used to seal pin-hole leaks in pipelines. By tightening the saddle arms around the pipe, the saddle gasket seals the hole shut. The pipeline then is air-tight just as it was before the minute opening developed.

This repair process is a key safety practice.

In addition, neglecting to practice saddle repairs would mean a substantial loss of gas, as well as money spent to buy that gas. Other methods of repair—such as replacing small sections of pipe where a pin hole exists—would cost three or four times more than placing a saddle over the opening.

Use of saddles is another cost-cutting practice adopted by the gas company to keep natural gas the most dependable and economical fuel available.

Yes, a saddle is important to horsemen and horsewomen. This other type of saddle is important to gas customers, too.

Johnny built a snowman! From white, cold snow he made it. It was hard work, and Johnny was justly proud.

Johnny built a snowman—in a day! He packed the snow hard, put in coals for the eyes and nose, and Daddy's hat was placed on top.

But far more of Daddy than just his hat went into this snowman. Just as Johnny worked hard to build the snowman, his father is hard at work too . . . building Johnny. Daddy's greatest dream is to see Johnny moulded into a man of strength, vision, and charaeter.

Luckily for Johnny, Daddy is a wise father. He realizes that the most important single influence upon his son's life is the teaching of Christ. Daddy will see to it that his son receives that teaching by sending him to Church services regularly. In making certain that Johnny knows the beauty of God's words, father will see his greatest dream come true.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Bible Material: Jeremiah 31; Luke 1 57-66, 76-79; Romans 8.
Devotional Reading: Hebrews 9:11-15.

New Covenant

Lesson for December 4, 1960

ALL OF US live under laws we have never read. But there is one law in the United States which is at the base of all others. Laws which conflict with this one are declared to be "null and void" (empty and nothing, to you), unconstitutional." For the Constitution of the U.S.A. is the basic law of the land. It is not long. It can be read by any one with a high school education. If every community had a public ceremony once a year at which this Constitution would be read, preferably by every one there in unison, it might be a very good thing.

Dr. Foreman

Is there—it is a bold question—anything corresponding to the Constitution, having to do with the relations not among men, but between men and God? Is there any Agreement or Plan in line with which God and men can have dealings with each other?

Can God Be Depended On?

One answer to that question is NO. It is not the Christian answer, it is not the Bible answer, but you may hear it from many people. Such people believe that God is more like lightning, or the wind, than he is like a person. The expression "Act of God" often refers to something not only unpredictable, like a tornado or an earthquake, but something horrible and devastating, wiping out the works and the welfare of men. Granted, God is not all "sweetness and light." He is not a Grandmother-in-the-sky. Nevertheless, the Bible never speaks of God's wrath without a good reason for it. God is not a capricious prima donna with an ungovernable temper. God's wrath is anything but a tantrum. His goodness is not dependent on how he feels—as ours is. God does not have "mood-ish" behavior. He does not do what he does "just because . . ."

The Old Covenant

On the contrary, God's dealings with a people, the ancient people of Israel, followed a pattern. And that God is not free to act as he will; it is to choose His pattern, free to act on new lines, but on Lawful lines. Jeremiah, seeing, the way of dealing with men, God does not give us to do as we would without notice.

The classic example of God's dealings with men is the Covenant, or Agreement. It is a mutually worked out arrangement. "Bargain" is not a good word for it, because the word "bargain" suggests haggling, each side trying to get as much and give as little as possible. Covenant is a good word, if we remember that no agreement between God and man can be dictated by man. God, not man, sets the terms.

Many times in the Old Testament there is a story of the making and remaking of the Covenant. (Exodus 24 and Joshua 24 describe two such occasions.) The people choose God; God chooses the people. The people choose God and promise to obey him not in order to bribe him into choosing them, but because he has chosen them.

The New Covenant

Jeremiah makes two things plain about this "Old Covenant." One is that the people invariably broke it. The other is that God will make a new one, and this will be written on men's hearts, not on the wall or in some document outside them. If we give a name to the Old Covenant it would be Law; if we give a name to the New it must be Love. Jesus called the communion cup "the new Covenant in my blood," because his blood would be shed as a "pure sacrifice of love."

To put this in another way: God's dealings with men, with those who knew him best, once upon a time was in the pattern of Law. Now he acts in the pattern of Love. This does not mean that God never acted out of a motive of divine love before Christ came. We must not fancy that Christ somehow managed to induce God to love this world of men. We cannot believe (and the Bible does not suggest) that God began to be a God of love just recently. Some of the great saints and seers in Old Testament times saw that the law itself was an expression of God's love.

There's something basic about bread. Particularly Italian bread.

With all our streamlining we Americans have never made a bread with the earthy goodness of a real Italian loaf. To do it, you have to slow down the clock. And that's what we did with 'taliano—a bread that's actually aged a bit, after mixing, like a fine wine . . . then slow-baked in a hearth.

Try it toasted. Ah, she is so good. So very, very good.

Garrett County Board of Education
Oakland, Maryland
Gentlemen:

We have examined the statements of income collected and expenses disbursed of the Garrett County Board of Education for the year ended June 30, 1960. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary under the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements and exhibits present the Garrett County Board of Education's cash on hand and in bank at June 30, 1960, and income collected and expenses disbursed by the Board of Education for the year then ended on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

The records of the Board of Education are adequate and are efficiently kept. We had the complete cooperation of your staff in making this and prior audits.

Respectfully submitted.

New Boys' 4-H Clubs Formed

Two new boys' 4-H clubs, Sunset Valley and North Glade, have been organized in the county, it was announced by E. Rankin Lusby, extension county agent. The Sunset Valley club consists of [illegible] members from the Loch Lynn and Pleasant Valley area who are Freddie Beckman, Billy Baker, Roger Paugh, Ray Callis, Frank Harvey, Steve Harvey, and David Sisler. North Glade Boys' Club consists of nine members: Curtis Miller, Edwin Friend, Roger Mattingly, Marvin Beckman, Ricky Beckman, Edward O'Brien, Earl George, James Lohr, Roger Lohr.

Parents and interested boys in their respective communities decided to organize a 4-H club after a general meeting on 4-H Club work. The program of this meeting consisted of discussion on objectives of 4-H, a typical meeting, and a movie on project work.

"The term 4-H refers to head, heart, hands and health which are emphasized in the club program and which imply the educational objectives of the members", according to Mr. Lusby, who helped to arrange for the general parents meeting.

Any boy between 10 and 21 years of age in the community may join these 4-H clubs by agreeing to follow 4-H ideals and standards. The main requirement is the willingness to "learn by doing" through project work and to "make it the best better" which is the club motto.

As in the democracy in which they live, 4-Hers themselves largely run their clubs, elect their own officers, help plan and hold their meetings, and select their projects. Each club drafts its own programs to suit its members and the localities in which they live.

To guide these 4-H clubs, six men who are parents, serve as unpaid volunteers. These are for North Glade, Wayne O'Brien, Wilmer Friend, and Ray Mattingly, for Sunset Valley, Claude Harvey, Murray Paugh, Jr., and Willoughby Callis. Leaders advise and encourage 4-Hers in planning and carrying out projects, attend meetings, visit members to see how projects are getting along, offer suggestions where needed, and accompany members to club events outside the community.

MARRIED

Davis-Cox—Miss Beverley Joan Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John William Cox of La Plata, became the bride of Norman Winfred Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert M. Davis, of Cape Arthur, Severna Park, on Saturday, November 12, in the chapel on the campus of Western Maryland college at Westminster.

The 2 p. m. ceremony was performed by Dr. Reuben S. Holthaus, and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a gown of white silkened pean, fashioned along princess lines, and featuring long, fitted sleeves of pean d'ange lace. The lace motif was repeated at the neckline and on the full skirt which fell into a graceful cathedral length train. Her imported silk illusion veil misted from a high crown of pearls and crystal. Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and miniature ivy.

Miss Diane Cox, the bride's sister, was the maid of honor and was attired in a gown of amethyst velvet with a full skirt, scoop neckline and three-quarter sleeves. She carried a cascade arrangement of pink pompons and ivy.

The bridesmaids, all former classmates of the bride, wore gowns of the same design and color as that of the maid of honor. All the attendants wore crowns of amethyst satin, trimmed with pearls, and carried flowers of lavendar pompons with ivy in a cascade arrangement.

Mrs. Jack Woodrow Slick, Williamsport; Miss Mary Cay McCormick, Laurel; Miss Carol Lynn Luckemeier, New Jersey; Mrs. Hobart Wolf, Westminster, and Miss Mary Lou Eaton, Arlington, Va., were the attendants.

D. Maurice Davis, of Salisbury, was best man. Ushers were Donald Lee Levering, Roderick Naylor Ryan, Charles William Pugh and David Harrison Clark.

The bride's sister, Miss Cheryl Cox, and Miss Marilyn Davis, niece of the bridegroom, were flower girls. Their gowns were created of lavender velvet, with matching headpieces and they carried nosegays of pale pink cushion mums.

For the occasion the bride's mother chose a pink sheer crepe over taffeta gown with dusty rose colored accessories. Mrs. Davis, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a brocade of soft green with green and beige accessories.

Donald Ray Cox, brother of the bride, assisted in an impressive candlelighting ceremony which preceded the entrance of the bridal party.

Both the bride and bridegroom were graduated from Western Maryland college in the class of 1960. Mr. Davis majored in biology and is presently serving with the United States army as a lieutenant. The groom resided for a number of years in Oakland where his father was cashier of the First National bank.

For their wedding trip to Nassau in the Bahamas, the bride chose a wool tangerine and moss sheath costume with tangerine accessories. They will make their home "o the present at Fort Benning, Ga.

Missing Boy and Dog Found in Farm Cave

Last Wednesday afternoon was nice and sunny so a four-year-old boy who lives on the outskirts of Jennings decided to take his dog on a "hunting" trip.

Shortly afterwards he and his dog were missed by the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvan Stein. The word spread and immediately a number of residents joined in a searching party.

About three hours later the lad and dog were found unharmed in a cave on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shives, who located them.

Tfc. Glen D. Folk who joined in the search, said that the lad was missing since 1 p. m. Tfc. Donald R. Wade was enroute to join in the search when it was called off.

VOLUME 81 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY MD., DECEMBER 8, 1960 | PER COPY, 8c | NUMBER 41.

Court House Eagle Failing

The eagle that spreads its wings over the court house dome in Oakland, is in trouble. It is having a severe case of deterioration, a creeping type of disease for which there is no apparent cure.

The County Commissioners have been aware of its ailment for some time now. The most visible sign is a leaky dome on the court house, after the rain seeps through the decaying breast and tail of the big bird and drops through the center which is directly under the eagle and not protected by the copper that surrounds it.

The County Commissioners recently commissioned Bern Nally, painter and contractor, to see what could be done about it. He plans to send several companies a picture of the bird and ask if it can be duplicated, and if so—for how much.

Nally, who has painted the eagle upon several occasions, also has been among those to repair portions of it throughout the years. He said he put an 18-foot piece of tin on each wing of the bird in 1953 and used wire generously in holding portions of it together.

He described the bird as four feet from head to tail with each wing having a spread of four feet eight inches. It was made from some sort of casting material, probably plaster of paris, with a supply of pot metal in it for weight.

The eagle is perched upon a ball about 5 feet in diameter and is probably some seven feet from the copper dome. Nally said that years ago there were eight or more smaller birds around the edges of the hall, but these have disappeared from time to time and perhaps now reside on the mantel in some painter's or construction

Proposed Laws Are Discussed With Legislators

Forty To Fifty On Hand To Talk Over Community Betterment Ideas

Suggestions for possible legislation and general discussion aboot the betterment of economic conditions in the county featured the meeting of citizens and legislators at the Court House in Oakland on Tuesday evening.

Some forty or more persons were assembled to give the members of the General Assembly their ideas on various questions.

The legislators heard ideas both pro and con on the perennial liquor question that was brought to the floor Tuesday night by Mrs. Lais Dettmer, receptionist for Dr. E. I. Baumgartner. Those opposed to the legislation that would provide legal sale of whiskey pointed out about teen-agers, the lowering of moral standards, the opposition of various church bodies and the fact that the cost of law enforcement would increase in proportion to the amount of whiskey sold in the county.

Those favoring such legislation pointed out that people were bringing in liquor from other counties and the county was getting no revenue.

Mrs. E. I. Baumgartner suggested legislation that would make it possible for hospital patients and college students in Maryland not now eligible for absentee ballots, to exercise their right of franchise.

S. R. Pagenbardt asked for legislation to revise the trial magistrate system, saying the present system was quite costly to the county and was antiquated.

George Miller, Accident, suggested some changes in the deer law requiring stricter enforcement of having those killing bucks reporting the kill within 24 hours. He said many hunters kept on hunting after having killed their bucks, which was unfair to those endeavoring to follow the law.

Darrell Wotring, county roads supervisor, soggested regulations limiting the gross weight limits for trucks on the county highways. There is a law at present covering gross weight upon state roads but nothing for county roads. Wotring said that heavy trucks seriously damage the county's road system.

There was discussion on several matters which did not require special legislation. James Nally was inquiring if any person had knowledge of president-elect Kennedy's plans for Western Maryland, if there were any.

L. C. Hutson urged some action to bring industry into the county that would keep our young people employed here.

There were inquiries as to the status of the airport and the clearing of the Youghiogheny river of pollution. Stories on both of these items have been carried in recent issues of The Republican.

Promotion Will Be Full Time Job For Council Director

In spite of efforts of recent years, promotion of Garrett county and its recreational features has scarcely begun.

This is the opinion of John O'Brien, whose appointment as executive director of the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council was announced last week.

Since beginning his duties on December 1, Mr. O'Brien, a native of Michigan, has spent considerable time becoming acquainted with the county and has talked to numerous businessmen, securing their opinions on the task of promotion which he is to undertake.

Mr. O'Brien's appointment marks the first time the Council has had a full-time, salaried director, although the group has engaged in a large number of projects since its organization several years ago.

Like many other persons O'Brien's interest in the county was stirred last year while passing through, enroute from Elkins, W. Va., to his home in Kalamazoo, Mich. Being engaged in radio work, he considered the possibility of forming a broadcasting station in Oakland, but later discarded the idea, which has since been advanced by another group.

Mr. O'Brien is married to the former Miss Mary Menke, of Elkins, W. Va., and they have an eight month old son, John Albert. Prior to moving to Kalamazoo, he was for two years assistant manager of radio station WDNE, in Elkins, later transferring to WKZO in Kalamazoo, where he served as an announcer and an account executive for WKZO-TV.

O'Brien said he has a number of projects in mind which he will discuss with Promotion Council directors, and in the meantime will continue to familiarize himself with the area and its possibilities.

He will maintain an office in the Garrett National Bank building, and plans to move his family here when accommodations are secured.

$8 Million Hike In School, Welfare Aid Is Approved

Gov. Tawes on Tuesday approved more than $8 million in increased school and welfare aid to Baltimore City and the counties.

Just how much this would mean for Garrett county was indicated by Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools. Mr. Hawkins said it would mean an additional $2 per pupil for an incentive fund or approximately $9,600 which would go to the County Commissioners for debt service charges. This alone would mean a saving on the county tax rate of 2½ cents, he said.

In addition it would mean an increase of $280 per teacher across the board pay. Mr. Hawkins said he planned to ask the Commissioners for an additional $20 per year per teacher which would make it $300 per teacher, and which would make the teacher scale $3,900 to $6,000 instead of the present rate of $3,600 to $5,700. Teachers with master's degrees receive an additional $200 per year. Baltimore stands to gain $2.3 million under the program.

The governor made the announcement at a weekly news conference.

The program approved by the governor was drafted by the legislative Council's committee on Taxation and Fiscal matters. It consists of three basic parts: $3.3 million in State aid for schools under the equalization formula from which will have to come any salary increases given teachers; $3.2 for state's incentive fund for school building, with most of it going to counties experiencing population explosions; and $1.5 million for increased welfare aid.

The program still must be passed by the Legislature.

Tawes said the $3.3 million increase in equalization aid to counties would be the administration's

SHOT SEVEN TIMES, HIT FIVE—This young man, Gary Stine, 17, of Swanton, wanted to be sure he got his buck. He told the station checker he shot at the deer seven times, and examination afterward showed he hit him five times. Stine got his buck at Middle Ford near Savage river area. It weighed 142 pounds.

Deer Kill Record Almost Certain To Exceed 1958

First Four Days Of Seven Day Season Shows 647; Record Is 710

It was almost a foregone conclusion that a record number of bucks would be slain during the 1960 season. With four days of the season completed the count stands at 647 and only 64 more kills are needed to break the record of 710, set in 1958.

Last Saturday was the biggest day of the season with 337 bucks reported. This number was gradually reduced during the ensuing three days of this week, but they all totaled up to a sizeable number. Barring a recurrence of the disastrous snow storm of last year, there appears nothing to keep a record from being made, in spite of the fact that there seem to be fewer hunters this year than last.

More of the hunters who are out in the woods seem to be from within the county. It was an evident fact that the deer population was being spread more evenly over the entire state. Allegany county had a bigger first day kill than did Garrett county, but it was not believed the seven day record would be as large. The four day total there was 641.

The largest rack of horns reported thus far was a 19-point buck slain by George DeWitt, Sang Run, which weighed 162 pounds. Sigmund Balter appeared to have the heaviest. He caught an 11-pointer on Meadow Mountain weighing 196 pounds.

More and more women seemed to be getting into the act, making it more and more uncertain that deer season is completely a "man's world." Women bagging bucks include Rita Sweitzer, Oakland; Mrs. Tom Johnson, Oakland; Maleta Butler, Akron; Nina Tucker, Mt. Lake Park; Mrs. Virgil Jones, Oakland; Theta Shalfer, Oakland; Faye Frantz, Friendsville.

Elmer Grubb got his buck without firing a shot. He was trailing one Saturday morning and was following pretty close when he came to a fence. There was his buck entangled in the wires. He had attempted to jump the fence, got caught and the wires had tossed him over, breaking his neck. He admitted hunting for thirty years with this being his second buck. The other one he got 12 years ago. A buck walked up to him and just stood there, within 12 steps of him. He couldn't miss.

Another hunter was not so lucky.

State Recognition Given to Chicasaws

State recognition was given the Chicasaw 4-H Club, near Westernport, in the form of a certificate for safety accomplishments in 1960.

This club of eleven members received the honor as a result of club program and project work which included a safety check of homes and farms in the area. Safety programs involved discussions and demonstrations on topics such as "Electrical Safety," "How to Make Homes Safe", and "Farm Safety."

Farm safety was stressed in July in connection with the National Farm Safety Week. A safety tip for each day of the week was used to emphasize that "Safety Makes Sense" — Reverence for Life; Take Time to Care; Safety Begins at Home; Agricultural Chemicals; Prevent Falls; Highway Safety; Farm Machinery; Recreation Safety.

Mrs. Curtis DeVelbiss, local leader, assists and encourages the 4-Hers with their club programs and project work. She received State Alumni recognition at the county Achievement Program in November.

A recipient of the Maryland Bankers Plaque for the most outstanding 4-H club program in 1959 of combined Boys' & Girls' 4-H Clubs in the Western Maryland District, the Chicasaw group has an excellent record for this year according to F. Ranklin Lushy, assistant county agent. They attended all county educational workshops, increased their membership, were represented at camp, had five members and leader attending State 4-H Club Week, had exhibits in connection with National 4-H Club Week and County Fair, and served as host to Ivan Nagel, International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) from Venezuela for three weeks.

Individual accomplishments of the club members are numerous with many county and state recognitions.

Dr. Pullen Stresses Opposition to Report of Edwin Warfield

Some two hundred fifty teachers and other citizens gathered at Dennett Road school on Monday evening, for a full discussion of the advantages and disadvantages of a proposed Warfield Commission report that advocates the expansion of the University of Maryland by taking over the present teacher colleges.

Principal speaker at Monday's meeting was Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools, who made no secret of the fact that he was very much opposed to the Warfield recommendations.

He cited as some reasons for his opposition the greater expense involved, the delegation of too much power into one group, and the resulting lack of emphasis on the teacher training program that he considered so vital to the school program.

Dr. Pullen advocated retaining the Teacher colleges in their present form and the creation of a number of junior colleges throughout the state that would take care of the first two years of a student's college training.

Following Dr. Pullen's remarks these present divided into discussion groups with citizens as chairmen and instructors as consoltants and resource persons.

Kitzmiller Firemen Elect 1961 Officers

Members of the Kitzmiller Fire department elected officers for the year 1961 at a meeting held on Tuesday night at the fire hall in Kitzmiller. Delmar Martin was named president, succeeding Fred Burrell.

Others named were John DeLoach, vice-president, James Banning, secretary; Tony Sullivan, treasurer; Carl Schell, chief; Gerald Iman, first assistant chief; William White, 2nd assistant chief, Lee Reall, captain; George Wilt, sergeant-at-arms. Fred Burrell, absalom Robert Pritt, member of the standing committee.

Records Sought For Civil War Museum

The committee organized to set up a museum featuring Civil War exhibits during the coming Centennial years is steadily enlarging its listing of suitable exhibits.

Recently an impressive array of museum pieces was offered by Mrs. David L. Lind of Cleveland, Ohio, who before her marriage was Dorothea Sturgiss, daughter of Mrs. Everlyn Sturgiss and the late William A. Sturgiss.

The items include a Confederate flag captured at the Battle of Town Creek in North Carolina by Mrs. Lind's grandfather, Colonel Alfred G. Sturgiss. During the war he served with the 177th Ohio Infantry regiment. Three flags were taken by the Union troops that day, also two artillery pieces and 400 POWs including the Confederate brigade commander.

Also in the collection are three muskets, three swords, a mess kit, a canteen, and a carton of miscellaneous shells, missiles, and other relics.

The committee desires to locate the minute books or other records of Crook Post Grand Army of the Republic, believed to be stored away in some attic around Oakland. The Post was in organization during more than half a century until Taps sounded for the last of those persons who fought to preserve the Union. Anyone knowing the whereabouts of the records is urged to communicate with any committee member. These are John H. Wolf, chairman, Irvin R. Rudy, Jr., Kenneth Lawton, Edward R. O'Donnell, William D. Casteel, and Carson B. Groves.

A location for the projected museum has not yet been found. Any suggestions as to this by interested parties would be welcomed, committee members stated.

Leaving for Denver

Cecil Bittinger, just south of Oakland, has been selected to represent the Garrett County Farm Bureau at the 42nd American Farm Bureau federation annual convention in Denver, Col., to be held December 11 through 15.

He will leave Friday along with 43 other farm bureau leaders from Maryland, and will return December 17.

At the national meeting, resolutions concerning current farm problems and suggested solutions will be drafted for the coming year.

Roads Commission Will Make Study of Street Intersection

A study of warning signs at the intersection of state route 135 with U. S. 219, at 9th street, in Oakland, is to be made by the State Roads commission as a result of requests by the Mayor and City Council of Oakland, and State Senator Bernard I. Gonder, Sr.

At the November meeting of council a letter was authorized to be sent to the State Roads commission recommending better warning signs at the intersection where several accidents have occurred.

The letter was sent in which it requested the commission to better mark the intersection. The letter stated it was the opinion of council that stop signs on 219 were not properly set nor of sufficient size. The letter also pointed out the number of accidents occurring there in a short space of time and pointed out the possibility of more serious accidents occurring unless steps were taken to correct the situation. At Monday night's meeting of the city council, a report from the State Roads commission was discussed. The letter indicated that the present sign pattern had been placed in accordance with the Maryland Manual of Traffic Control Devices and that changes could not be made that do not conform with this unless they are subject of a traffic study by the Traffic Department and approved by the Roads commission.

The commission acknowledged that Senator Gonder had written to the Commission about the same intersection and the chief of the traffic bureau, George N. Lewis, Jr., has stated that he is to make a study of the intersection and would make recommendations.

Town Completely Metered

Mayor Russell L. Smith, informed the council Monday night that the survey of water meters in the town of Oakland had now been completed. There are 703 water taps and 676 active users at the present time, both inside and outside the corporation. Mayor Smith said that every customer is now metered, for the first time for many years.

Carl Jamison Is Seriously Injured In Auto Accident

Carl "Biff" Jamison, 30, of route 1, Oakland, was seriously injured in an automobile accident Tuesday at Hoyes. He was admitted to Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland and was reported in "poor" condition. He was unconscious when admitted.

Cpl. Robert D. Henline said Jamison was operating his four-door sedan eastbound on State route 42 when the mishap occurred. Police said the vehicle was traveling at an apparent high rate of speed when it left the highway, struck a utility pole and rolled on its top.

The state police reported Jamison was unconscious and sustained multiple abrasions about his body.

Two Cars Collide

More than $500 property damage was caused in another accident Tuesday evening when two cars collided on U. S. route 40, near Grantsville.

Tfc. Bernard I. Chabot, who investigated, said Ervin W. Jenkins, route 2, Swanton, was operating a 1960 pickup truck westbound on the highway when a small sports sedan being driven by James F. Green, Eckhart, pulled onto the highway from a parked position. Police estimated $250 damage to the truck and $400 to the sports car. No injuries were reported.

One For the Books

Here's one for the books—books of the Fire Department, that is—but it will never get on the list of 1960 fires.

Here's the story of why not. Billy Hinehaugh was cleaning up the fire hall the "morning after" the annual buckwheat supper, and there were several containers of trash. One of them ignited from some unknown reason and in his rush to get the can out of the fire hall he pressed what he thought was the button that would raise the door, but instead he pushed the fire alarm button.

The siren didn't quite get up to full speed before he corrected his mistake. He finally got the door open and the can out in the driveway where the flames were extinguished by some quick nozzle action. You can hardly get a fireman to admit that there was a fire in the fire hall—but it's a fact.

The Oakland firemen did answer one additional alarm this week. A 1955 Ford had ignited in front of the McIntire home on Oak street. The car was owned by Kenesaw M. Landis, of Deer Park. The flames were doused and there was only slight damage. The fire occurred Tuesday about 12:30.

Two Persons Hurt In Sunday Wreck

Two persons were injured in an automobile accident early Sunday morning on U. S. route 219, four miles north of Oakland. They were admitted to Garrett County Memorial hospital after their car overturned about 1:30 a. m.

Police said John Leek Wilt, 17, and Frederick Joe Bowser, 23, both of route 2, Deer Park, were injured when the vehicle in which they were riding struck a concrete abutment and flipped end over end before crashing on its top.

Bowser was identified as the driver of the car. Wilt had multiple lacerations of the head and scalp, while Bowser received lacerations, bruises and abrasions of the head and body and was in shock when admitted.

Ifc. D. A. Tucker investigated and said the 1953 model sedan was traveling north on route 219 at an apparent high rate of speed when it left the west side of the road, struck the abutment, crashed through a wire fence and rolled over several times before coming to a stop.

Temperature Drops To 7 Above Zero

The winter's first real snow of the season more or less faded away after getting an auspicious start last Wednesday and Thursday, but there were indications that more might be on the way for this weekend.

The abrupt end of the storm last Thursday blasted hopes of a good skiing week-end last Saturday and Sunday.

The snowfall last week amounted to some three to four inches. It was clear and cold Friday and on Saturday morning the thermometer took a drop to 7 above zero. There was some moderation on Saturday and on Sunday the thermometer dropped again to 8 above.

Clouds began to form Sunday afternoon but again on Monday it was clear and cold. Tuesday was overcast with rain beginning to fall in late afternoon. Wednesday was colder and it remained cloudy. Snow began falling early Thursday morning and there were indications it would continue to snow and remain cold for the week-end. The high reading for the week was 62 degrees, recorded at the Weber greenhouse on the 5th.

647 Deer Slain

Marvin Beeler, son of Ed Stevens, of Annandale, Va. He was in the woods Monday sitting on a rock and resting when a large buck brushed against his shoulder. Knocked him to the ground causing him to drop his gun. By the time he had collected his wits—and got his gun in position to shoot, the buck was just about out of sight. He fired, but nothing happened.

There was no special place where the hunters were more successful than other places. The tags indicated that the bucks had been killed at Herrington Manor, Marsh Mountain, Round Glade, Roman Nose, Piney, Strecker, Elder Hill, Muddy Creek, Deep Creek, Backbone, Meadow Mountain, Steyer, Gorman, Swaggy, Table Rock, Briar Ridge, Negro Mountain, Turkey Neck, Swallow Falls, Mt. Nebo, White Church, Dry Run, Patsons, Forest, Ryan's Glade, Red Oak, Miller's Run, Broadford, Fort Pendleton and numerous other places.

The tabulation for the four checking stations in this county and two in Allegany county were as follows, from the records of Harold Harmon, from the Mt. Nebo game reservation, Oakland, 120, 62, 25, 14, total 221; Friendsville, 42, 23, 15, 10, total 90; Storey's, 48, 32, 24, 11, total 115; Grantsville, 80, 27, 21, 18, total 146; Lavale, 20, 7, 5, 4, total 33; Westernport, 27, 9, 1, 5, total 42. Totals by days: Saturday, 337; Monday, 160; Tuesday, 91; Wednesday, 59; grand total, 647.

Below are some of the successful hunters with the size of their kill in pounds, and the number of points. Another partial list is found on page 16.

Elks Trim Southern In Opening Tilt

Elk Garden High trimmed Southern High Bloxom, Tuesday night in the Lions opening game by the score of 61 to 57. The game was played on the Elk Garden court.

It was a case of Elk Garden becoming back from an opening loss to Piedmont last week. Five Players scored in double figures for Coach Paul Kalbaugh's Elk squad boy spoiled Southern's basketball debut this year.

Gary Evans had 18 points, followed by Mike Burke with 17. Clif. Knotts with 14 and Bill Pangh and Don Shallingburg with 10 each. Harvey also got 2 points.

High for Southern was Dave Burdeck, a transfer from Elk Garden this year. He had 21 points on 10 field goals and one foul shot. Bolyard also had 3. Propst 10, Colaw 13, Stuck 9, and Craig 1. Riggs was non-scoring.

Elk Garden led 16 to 11 at the end of the first quarter but a rally by the Highlanders knotted the count at 29 all at halftime. Elk Garden made it a 10-point spread at the end of the third period, leading 50 to 40, and outscored the Highlanders 21 to 17 in the final period to win handily. Colaw was banished on five personal fouls in the final period.

Southern hit on only 7 of 17 foul shots, while Elk Garden was successful on 19 of 33 attempts.

Southern will open its home season on Friday evening against the Bruce Bulldogs of Westernport, and will play Valley High the following Tuesday evening, also on the home court.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1960

Letter to The Editor

Editor, The Repuhlican
Oakland, Maryland
Dear Sir:

As a subscriber, I wish to call your attention to an error appearing in The Republican in an article titled, "Capt. Charles Edward Hoye", by Felix G. Robinson in November 24th, 1960, issue of your paper, being a reprint from "The Glades Star."

Mr. Robinson has been contacted by another member of our family regarding the error and assurance was given that correction would be made in the next issue of that publication.

May I request that action be taken to correct the error which appears in paragraph referring to Capt. Hoye's first wife, Hallie Savage, who was my mother's youngest sister, and who was the mother of the three children, Carlota, William Rodney, and Edward Bnel Hoye.

The date of marriage and births of the children should, therefore, refer to the union of Mr. Hoye and my aunt, Hallie Savage, who was Mr. Hoye's first wife.

A correction in The Republican at an early date will be appreciated.

We enjoy your paper and look forward to receiving it each week.

HAROLD E. MOON,
Arlington, Va.

$8 Million Hike

answer to requested increases in teacher salaries. It will be left up to subdivisions whether to apply the money to salaries or use it for school purposes, he said. In Garrett county it will be used for salaries Mr Hawkins said.

Under the program the State will require that minimum salaries for teachers be raised from present guaranteed scales of $3,200-$5,000 to new levels of $3,600-$5,400.

The proposal also requires counties to set a local levy of 87 cents per $100 valuation for school programs instead of the previously required tax rate of 75 cents per $100. Most counties already are above the new required figure and Garrett county is among them.

The chief change in the incentive fund for school construction is to boost the State's contribution from $20 per pupil to a new standard of $22 per pupil.

The administration program is expected to be opposed by the Maryland State Teachers association which has sharply criticized the James committee report and is asking salary boosts totaling $13 million per year.

Tawes said he had made no decision on the James committee proposal that the state raise its 3-cent cigaret tax to a flat 6 cents per pack and refund the extra to counties.

The governor said he cannot tell yet whether any new tax money will be necessary to balance his budget because he won't get the official revenue estimates until later this month.

Dr. Pullen

The difference in the cost per pupil in teacher training under the two plans, and how many of the county's pupils who now are financially able to attend Frostburg State Teachers college, were two items demanding attention. Whether or not under the Warfield plan that special consideration would be given to the training for teachers, was also another item.

There was discussion on whether or not the University of Maryland would be better equipped to operate the state teachers colleges than the State Board of Education and its staff.

There were no definite answers to many of the questions involved, but there was an evidence of interest in the problem.

A preliminary study of the pros and cons of the program was made 1st Friday night at a meeting in the Center street school, at which time Dr. R. Bowen Hardesty, president of Frostburg State Teachers college, and William L. Wilson, Jr., Cumberland, member of the Warfield Commission, were on hand to explain both sides. Dr. Hardesty favored keeping the colleges in their present position.

Edwin M. Warfield III, a Howard county farmer and publisher, who head the committee reporting on the necessity of expansion for the University of Maryland, was in Cumberland on Monday night explaining his recommendations to a meeting of Parents and Teachers.

The proposal may come before the people in the near future through a referedum, and the question to be decided will be whether or not education in Maryland would be developed into a University system governed by a Board of Regents of the University, or whether the state would continue to have centers at Frostburg, Salisbury and Towson, operated under the State Board of Education.

Warfield claimed in his report that there would be more education for more people at lower cost, but Dr. Pullen disputed this at Monday night's meeting.

The Southern High senior chorus presented a program of music prior to the opening of the meeting. Maurice Brookhart, president of the Board of Education, presided. He introducted a number of platform guests. Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, spoke on the improvements and needs in the Garrett county school system.

Athletic Boosters Elect Officers

Alfred "Blue" Marucci was elected president of the Southern High School Athletic Boosters' Club at a meeting held at the school last Thursday evening.

Other officers elected were Emile Germain, Vice President, Jean Stuck, secretary and Chippy Mosser, treasurer.

Dick Travis, athletic director, presented a copy of the budget for the year to each member present. A total of $1783.19 was taken in as gate receipts from the four games played this year. Three games were played under the lights. The Northern contest gate receipts of $597.75 was the highest total.

In his acceptance remarks, Mr Marucci praised the work of Marvin Jones, retiring president, for his promotion and erection of the lights on the football field. He also indicated the direction in which the club should work in the future. "It will be necessary to complete the present bleacher wall which was begun late this past fall. After that, I believe we should work toward enlarging the seating capacity on the field," he said.

The next meeting of the organization will be held at Southern High School on January 12. Any interested person is invited to attend.

Addresses Iris Lovers

Harold H. Harned, Second street, was the principal speaker at the fall meeting of the Mountaineer Iris Society at Morgantown, W. Va., last Friday evening. He spoke on hybridization.

Mr. Harned has been growing and breeding iris for over thirty years and is reputed to have one of the outstanding collections in the east. His three gardens in Oakland may be seen each May and early June.

Mr. Harned's greatest interest centers around hybridizing, especially with two of the most difficult color fields, pinks and reds. Since it requires from two to four years after completing the cross to check the seedling results this requires much patience plus a lot of understanding on the part of the hybridizer. Mr. Harned is a member of the American Iris Society as well as many state and regional groups and is an accredited judge of the A. I. S.

Fire Destroys Station Wagon Of Deer Hunter

Flames destroyed a station wagon of Albert Woodrow Miller, of Baltimore on the River hill bridge, west of town, on Saturday morning, December 3, about 6 o'clock. The 1959 Plymouth was being driven by his son, Douglas Miller, at the time.

The Oakland firemen were called but were unable to prevent a total loss. Mr. Miller said he thought the blaze started from defective wiring.

Miller told Assistant Fire Chief John Sharps that he was headed to the woodland area to begin deer hunting when the car suddenly was engulfed in flames. The car was towed to an Oakland garage after the fire was extinguished.

One hour later the Oakland firemen received a second call, this time as the result of a flue fire at the home of Mrs. Paul DeWitt in Loch Lynn Heights. There was no damage.

Sunday evening the Oakland firemen were called to a point on Oak street where a flame from a light bulb was threatening to spread. There was no damage.

The Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Co., was authorized to raise its rates effective December 15 to provide an additional $570,000 in gross revenue annually.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:
Better Health Through Knowledge

Girdles
• Late Walking
• Tea In Hospitals
• Milk And Eczema

Q. I know several women who won't wear a girdle because, they say, it weakens the abdominal muscles. Is this true?

A. All voluntary muscles respond to normal activity and use by developing tone or "firmness" even when the muscle is relaxed. When continued support is provided to muscle, there is less work done, and, as a result, the muscle becomes weaker. It is doubtful, however, that the modern garments now available to women give enough support to weaken the abdominal muscles.

Q. My two-year-old hasn't yet tried to walk. Could something be wrong?

A. Late walking is sometimes a family failing, and this calls for no concern. However, before this optimistic view can be taken, late walkers should have a medical checkup.

Q. My husband says that tea is as hard on the system as coffee. If so, why do they serve tea in preference to coffee in hospitals? Does tea contain caffeine?

A. Tea contains caffeine, tannin and aromatic substances. So does coffee. Both are mild stimulants and mild diuretics (increase kidney action). Tea is said to promote stomach emptying and does not upset stomach secretions. However, since tea and coffee are not too different chemically, the supposed advantages of tea over coffee may be due to psychological factors associated with the tea-drinking ritual.

Q. Is goat's milk helpful in treatment of eczema in babies?

A. Eczema in children is generally considered an allergic condition. If a baby or young child is allergic to cow's milk, the replacement of cow's milk by goat's milk would probably help.

Wed Saturday In New Jersey

Miss Sandra Christine Eastwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Cecil Eastwood, of Woodbury, New Jersey, became the bride of Douglas Ellsworth Smith, of Bethesda son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin S. Smith, Third street, Oakland, last Saturday afternoon, December 3, in Kemble Memorial Methodist church in Woodbury. Dr. W. Neal Raver, pastor, officiated.

The church was decorated with palms and white chrysanthemums.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a floor length gown of peau-de-soie. It was simply fashioned with a sculptured bodice embellished with pearl and iridescent sequins, scooped neckline, with long sleeves coming to a deep point over the hands. The bell skirt was enhanced with self cord scroll embroidery with pearl and iridescent sequins in a chapel train.

Her scalloped finger-tip veil of imported French pure illusion was edged in iridescent sequins and arranged from a queen's crown adorned with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. Her flowers were a white cascade of roses and Stephanotis.

Attendants were attired in identical waltz length gowns combining velveteen and satin. Tin maid of honor was Miss Elaine Eastwood, sister of the bride, of Woodbury. She was in opera green and carried a bouquet of green and white blended carnations with silver holly.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Joseph Dougherty, Ocean City, N. J., and Miss Suzanne Hunter, Huntington, Long Island, N. Y. The bridesmaids wore scarlet red and their flowers were Mamie Eisenhower carnations with a cascade of green holly. The gowns were simply but effectively styled with a ¾ sleeved empire bodice, scooped neckline, the waist encircled with a matching satin cummerbund caught in the back with self roses. The bouffant skirt was worn over crinoline. A matching satin tailored bow caught with a matching circular veil completed their outfits.

The bride's mother was attired in grape sheer wool with matching bodice of silk chiffon in myriad pleats. She had a matching silk chiffon hat. Her corsage was of lavender orchids.

The bridegroom's mother wore a royal blue printed silk dress with a finely pleated chiffon skirt over silk printed straight skirt. The bodice was of chiffon with a draped neckline. Her feather hat matched the delicate pink of the dress print. The orchid corsage was of the same pink.

Ervin Smith, Jr., of Towson served his brother as best man. Ushers were Donald Lowe, Baltimore, student at Duke seminary, Durham, N. C., Samuel Asherfelter, Keyser, W. Va.

Soloist was Miss Doris Hastings, Woodbury, N. J., accompanied at the organ by Cyril E. Radcliffe of Woodstown. He also played the traditional wedding marches.

A reception followed immediately in the church social room. A wedding trip to the Pocono mountains is planned over the Christmas holidays, and they will reside at 19 Butler road, Glyndon.

The bridegroom received his B. A. degree from Western Maryland college where he was connected with Pi Alpha Alpha fraternity. He is occupied by Operations Research in Bethesda.

The bride received her degree from the same college where she was a member of Delta Sigma Kappa sorority. She is a teacher of art in the junior high school at Reisterstown.

Pictures Out Of The Past

More About Deep Creek Dam Today

Advantages Of Railroad To Swallow Falls Argued Many Years Ago

Last week's old photograph of construction engineers at the Deep Creek Lake power site brought to light an interesting view of actual work on the big project, which was completed thirty-five years ago, in 1925.

The locomotive to the left of the photograph operated on standard gauge tracks and hauled building supplies from Oakland to the site of the dam, by way of the golf course, Round Glade and Red Run. Traces of the tracks can still be found along the old right of way.

Like the power project itself, the advantages of having a railroad along this route were foreseen many years ago, and in fact in 1908 a charter was issued to the Swallow Falls and Uniontown Electric Railway company to build an electric line from Oakland to Swallow Falls, a project which never materialized.

The route of this proposed railway would be, according to the charter, "Beginning at the hydro-electric plant which will be built two miles below Swallow Falls on the river, and coming south on the east side of the Youghiogheny river, passing through the inexhaustable deposits of coal, iron ore, fire clay, and so forth, on the route to Oakland.

"It will be built to Oakland, coming in by the way of Center reach, to Wilson, down Wilson to B. and O. station.

"Another branch will continue down Center street to Third street and cross Third street to the square belonging to Thomas and Jack Harne, but now optioned to the Swallow Falls and Uniontown Electric Railway company.

"There will be room there for car barns, repair shops, and dwellings. Houses will probably be erected on this optioned land after it is paid for, as will passenger and freight depots."

The proposal also outlined plans to "reserve sufficient land for a steam heating plant to supply the town of Oakland with much needed heat for winter."

The promoters also expected to extend the railway to Mt. Lake Park, Deer Park and north to Deep Creek, from there to the proposed power plant.

Foresee Water System

Chief promoter behind this proposed development was Hiram P. Tasker, a planner beyond his day, who was mentioned in last week's article. Later in 1908, in a letter to the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, he stated that "I have finally discovered a banking house in Philadelphia and New York which is willing to finance the erection and equipment of our hyro-electric plant near Swallow Falls.

"As soon as this important enterprise is started we will be in position to insure installation of your pure water system, sewerage and fire protection system at a less cost than the $36,000 authorized.

"I respectfully offer to you my opinions on and concerning certain features in which you will encounter many difficulties in the installation of the proposed Oakland system.

"Many of our citizens seem to be wedded to imaginary gravity systems, but I have sought in vain to find a sufficient supply of water at a sufficient head anywhere in reach of Oakland."

And here Mr. Tasker strikes another prophetic note:

"Hence, you will be obliged, sooner or later, to abandon the idea of an underground supply altogether, the only visible and practicable supply in sight is in the Big Yough, above the B. and O. Railroad bridge about one mile from Oakland.

"A six inch pipe from that point, with a high pressure pump, to be propelled by electric power, will throw a stream of water 280 feet high from the highest building in Oakland.

"It is believed that a six inch pipe will convey sufficient water to supply Oakland for many years, including the numerous villages and cottages that it is hoped will be built along the proposed trolley line."

So, although Hiram P. Tasker failed to carry out any of the numerous projects he planned, many of them eventually were brought about by others during the years following.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Tasker's ideas concerning the Oakland water supply coincide exactly with the current water project here. Oakland will receive its water from the Youghiogheny, from a point exactly proposed by him, and it will be carried by electrically-driven pumps to the homes and business places of the town, as foreseen over fifty years ago.

Offutt Again Heads Heart Fund Drive

Nelson T. Offutt, Baltimore insurance man, and former resident of Garrett county, will lead the 1961 heart fund drive in Maryland for the second straight year.

Mr. Offutt is a past president of the Heart Association of Maryland. In accepting the appointment Mr. Offutt pointed out that local Heart Fund contributions will make possible the support of heart research in the state and aid scientists in clinics and university laboratories. This year the Heart association is providing $130,000 for support of research projects in Maryland laboratories.

Mr. Offutt will direct the work of an estimated 30,000 volunteers in Maryland communities expecting to participate in the campaign. The Heart fund has grown immensely since the first campaign in 1949, he said.

Mr. Offutt is an alumnus of the University of Virginia and a member of the Elkridge and Maryland clubs. He is a member of the campaign advisory committee of the American Heart association. He has been a member of the board of trustees of the association of Maryland since 1953 and served as chairman of the association's finance committee from 1956 through 1958. He received the distinguished service medal of the American Heart association and Heart Association of Maryland in 1959.

Communist World leaders' summit conference ended with little progress in composing major differences on global policy.

LIFT A CHILD

...and hold him above you.

You don't expect a child to stand toe to toe with a man. You lift a child . . . and hold him above you.

You don't expect a child to understand fully what is right and wrong.

You don't expect a child to comprehend every spiritual ideal.

You don't expect a child to sense instinctively the constant concern of God in his life.

You lift a child . . . you give him the opportunity in his Church and in his Christian home to gain moral and religious insights.

And you hold him above you . . . dedicating your own time and strength to your Church so that you and your child can find together the spiritual foundation on which men should build their lives.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY DR. KENNETH L. FOREMAN

Bible Material: Isaiah 9; Matthew 4:12-17, 23-25; Colossians 4:1-7.
Devotional Reading: Isaiah 11:1-9.

The Great Promise

Lesson for December 11, 1960

NOTHING that happens is a surprise to God. Human beings are sometimes surprised when they need not be. The birth of Jesus was surely no surprise to God, for it was he that planned it. It need not have astonished any one, for it had been promised.

The trouble was, nobody had looked for just this kind of answer to their long prayers—long in the sense that for centuries the Jewish people had been praying for a Deliverer (that is what "Savior" means in the Bible).

Dr. Foreman

Furthermore, this Deliverer had been promised, for many of the prophets had pointed forward to the coming of One to whom they gave various names—Son of David, God's Anointed, God's Servant, Shepherd, and so on. One of the names was not a name, it simply expressed the great hope in a word: He that is coming (all one word in Greek or Hebrew).

Peace and Justice

The problem at this point may turn the mind to thinking about what Jesus really means to Christians now and eventually to the world. The problem, to make it short, is this: Why was it that the Jews, the very people who had cherished the Great Promise, the Hope of "One who is to come," the people in whose sacred books alone this Promise was preserved, the people whose prophets had pointed down the future to that great Coming—why was it that these very people of the Promise failed to see the fulfillment of that Promise when it came to pass?

One reason was that they expected everything to happen all at once. For example: in Isaiah 9, one of the famous prophecies about the Coming One, any reader can see the hope and expectation of justice, righteousness and peace. The coming Savior will set up a kingdom of peace and of justice. But when Jesus came he was born in a stable because of an injustice on the part of the government; and he died as a criminal, again because of probably the most unjust death sentence in the history of the world. Looking at the world today, peace and justice still seem far off. What has happened to the Great Promise?

Short Perspective, Long History

Travelers in very dry flat country have noticed that distances are deceptive. You see a watertank or a tower or a hill apparently a mile or so down the road, but the thing just seems to back away from you, the mile or two may turn into 25 miles before you reach it. What the prophets did not say (and maybe did not see) was the perspective; they had no time table of things to come. So when justice and peace did not descend on the world all at once when Jesus came, many thought then, and many nowadays think, that he couldn't be the One that God intended.

The Mighty God?

Another reason why people found it hard to see that the Great Promise of a Savior was fulfilled in Jesus of Nazareth, is the presence in some of the prophecies—Isaiah 9 notable among them—of startling language more than hinting that this Coming One was going to be far more than man, indeed no less than God. The "child," the "son" of Isaiah 9:6 is presently named "Mighty God, Everlasting Father." How can this be? And can we believe such high things of the Carpenter of Nazareth? Yes, we can believe it, we do believe it. But what the Christian church has come to see (not to understand, it passes human understanding) is something that most people in his life-time did not see: namely, that God does not always make himself known in awesome and terrible ways, but in gentle, yes even humble ways. The wonderful truth which the Christian accepts is that this very Carpenter of Nazareth, not only on the occasion of great miracles but every day in all the things he did and said, was God himself upon earth. We believe that Christ was saying the truth when he said, "He who has seen me, has seen the Father."

"Walleyes Pay Off" Fish Report Shows

Draining of the McHenry Reservoir on Deep Creek Lake was completed recently by William Harman, Regional Fish Supervisor and for the first time young walleyes were taken. This gives renewed encouragement for the development of this important fishery in the Deep Creek Lake Reservoir, he said.

It was reported that the success of Great Northern eggs planted in April of 1959 and 1960 and Walleye Fry eggs planted in 1959 and 1960 showed success for the predator program initiated in 1955.

Four 11 inch walleye were taken, indicating survival of the '59 year group. Eighteen Great Northern Pike averaging 9 to 30 inches in length were also recovered.

Fishery biologist, Harold Elser stated that the 8 inch group were from the 1960 egg plantings, and the 24-inch group from the previous year. The Chain Pickerel continued to show promising survival rates; the three year olds running 22 inches and the one and two year old groups in the 8 inch size.

Forage fish such as Golden Shiners were up, and Yellow Perch are showing signs of increase in size and decrease in numbers, according to the study.

When it comes to food, every American is an Italian at heart. And does anyone bake better bread? We think we've captured that early goodness in 'taliano — a bread whose recipe came right out of an Italian kitchen.

The mix is extra-light and yet has the wine, then the plump loaves are set into a hearth to bake to a golden brown.

Try it toasted. You'll never stop at one slice.

But then who wants to?

Nixon Trails Now By Only 131,845 Votes

Sen. John F. Kennedy led vice president Richard M. Nixon by just 131,845 votes as official returns from the 50 states neared completion.

With official returns from 33 states and only a fragment of the votes still uncounted in the remaining 17, an unofficial United Press tabulation on Sunday was:

Kennedy, 34,195,470

Nixon 34,063,625

Others, 471,043

Total votes cast, 68,733,138

Nixon Gains at Chicago

Nixon gained 43 votes on president-elect John F. Kennedy in a partial recount of Chicago paper ballot precincts. A recheck of 151 precincts out of 906 paper ballot precincts, the election board said, showed Kennedy polled 40,001 votes over the original count of 39,959, a gain of 42. Nixon's recheck showed 25,211 votes, a gain of 85 over the earlier 25,126 votes accredited to him. Thus Nixon outgained Kennedy 2 to 1. Kennedy carried Illinois by a narrow 8,656-vote margin.

The electoral vote stands at 300 for Kennedy and 223 for Nixon. Should Illinois go to Nixon, Kennedy would still have 273, four more needed. Nixon would have 290, nineteen less than needed.

Eagle Failing

worker's home, having been taken for souvenirs.

The big bird is at least 55 years old, for it was placed on the building sometime between April, 1907, and November 19, 1908. The notice to contractors was advertised in April, 1907, with the cornerstone being laid October 17, 1907, and a notice of inspection of the completed building set for November 19, 1908. W. A. Liller, of Keyser, was building contractor and his price was $60,962. A. D. Naylor and Company had the plumbing and heating contract for $5,822. Supposedly the eagle was included in the construction cost of the building.

Grover C. Stemple, veteran plumber and electrician, vouches for the fact that the eagle had been atop the court house since its construction, except for one time when it was removed for repairs.

This Mr. Stemple says, was following the hurricane which descended upon parts of Oakland in 1912, removing trees on Ferguson's hill and taking the third floor from the Naylor building, corner of Wilson and Liberty streets. At that time the wind loosened the wings of the eagle causing them to flap dangerously. Stemple and several others removed the bird and repaired it. He seemed to feel the eagle was made of some light material similar to aluminum.

Several people had thought that at first there was nothing atop the dome except the ball and a decision to erect the eagle was made several years after the building had been completed. Henry Arnolds scrap book disproves this however for an architect's drawing appearing in The Republican showed the eagle perched right where it is today.

Apparently the eagle has been ailing for some time, because Mr. Nally said that when he did repairs in 1953 there were evidences that somebody had also done repair work of some description years prior to that.

It was also pointed out that with the breast deterioration, it might serve as a pocket for a strong gust of wind that might bring the bird tumbling down from its perch and cause possible injury to anyone who might be caught underneath.

People who glance at the eagle at night, which is possible since the commissioners ordered that it have flood lights trained upon it after darkness settles, are unaware of the extent of the disease that plagues this feathered friend of thousands of Garrett countains.

Northern Huskies Lose to Bruce High

Northern High Huskies opened their 1960-61 basketball season with a loss to Bruce High school at Westernport on Tuesday night. The final score was 66 to 60.

The Bruce Bulldogs led at the end of every period with Bill Wiltison pacing the victors with 25 points on nine goals and 8 of 9 at the foul line. The victors won the game at the foul line with 21 of 33 while Northern had only 18 of 36. Each team scored 21 field goals.

George Patton, high scoring center for the Huskies, paced the losers with 21 points. He had nine goals and 6 of 9 at the foul stripe.

Northern started out fast and Bruce trailed during part of the first quarter until the score was knotted at 13-all. A foul put the winners ahead and they were never headed, leading 33-26 at halftime and 49-39 at the end of the third period.

McCurdy had 14 points. Yommer 2, Patton 24, Thomas 9, Finzel 4 and Smith 7. Frazee and Speicher were non-scoring.

This Week Known As Careers Week

Governor [illegible] proclaimed the week of December 4 to 10 as Careers Week in Maryland, to coincide with the observance of American Education Week, December 4 to 10. The Governor's Council on Education and Economic Development, in announcing the proclamation by Governor Tawes, said it was designed to emphasize the importance of scientific and technical training. The Council further emphasized that the development of the state's economy depends upon the creation in the state of an intellectual atmosphere which would provide professional encouragement for scientists with the support they need to do a good job.

This concept has played a key role in the work of the state's Department of Economic Development, which has continually emphasized the ability of Maryland colleges and universities to provide the research support required by so many of today's technical industries.

Governor Tawes' proclamation called particular attention to the opportunities for research and development industries available in that section of Maryland surrounding Washington, D. C.

Plan Advanced For More Representation

A proposal to eventually add 17 delegates and 21 senators to the Legislature was drafted by a unit of the Maryland committee for fair representation.

Under the proposal small counties would retain at least the one senator and two delegates they now have but 29 additional delegates and 14 senators would be assigned to Baltimore City and the four big counties, Baltimore, Anne Arundel, Prince Georges and Montgomery.

A feature is a provision to set up senatorial districts of several smaller counties and have one senator at large from each of them, in addition to the present one-senator per county set-up.

The districts would be composed of Allegany and Garrett; Harford and Cecil; Frederick, Carroll and Howard; Charles, Calvert and St. Mary's; Wicomico, Worcester and Somerset; Kent, Queen Annes, Talbot, Caroline and Dorchester. Besides the six districts the subcommittee suggested the possibility of a second senator for Washington county.

The metropolitan area additions would include six new senators for Baltimore city, three for Baltimore county; two each for Prince Georges and Montgomery and one for Anne Arundel.

The committee has brought court action to force the Legislature to reapportion the Legislature, which now gives smaller counties the lion's share of 123 seats in the House and 29 in the Senate.

Gov. Tawes has indicated he again will support a less dramatic reapportionment plan to give additional senate seats only to the city and four metropolitan area counties. A similar plan was defeated in the 1959 legislature.

Algerians were rioting in Venezuela. Martial law was declared.

A son was born to president-elect and Mrs. John F. Kennedy on November 25.

Enlistees May Get Fifteen Days Leave For Reporting

United States Army officials at the Fairmont Recruiting Main Station, Fairmont, West Virginia, announced this week that all personnel enlisting or re-enlisting in the Regular Army on or after December 12, 1960, through the Recruiting Service may receive up to 15 days delay enroute to their first assignment station if they so desire.

Arrangements may be made through local Army Recruiter located at City Hall, Kingwood, West Virginia. He will also be at the Oakland Postoffice on Wednesdays during the hours of 9:00 A. M. to 3:00 P. M.

This authority, received from Department of the Army, means that individuals may enlist in the Regular Army during the month of December and then remain at home during the Christmas and New Year holidays. The leave, or delay enroute, which they will be authorized will be charged against the 30 days per year which is accrued by every member of the Regular Army.

An additional incentive is the fact that army pay starts on the day of enlistment and will cover the entire period of leave.

For further information contact local Army Recruiter M Sgt. Joseph E. Sherren at the above address, or phone Kingwood 42, or 230 after 500 P. M.

Robbins Concludes 41-Year Gas Career

Carl C. Robbins ended last week a 16-year job that began as a temporary two-week assignment for the gas company in Cumberland.

Mr. Robbins, aged 65, had a service record of more than 41 years upon his retirement.

He was sent to Cumberland in 1944 as general foreman to take charge of some 10 days work. Following that assignment, he was made district manager for Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company.

In this position, he supervised gas deliveries and service to C. & A.'s 21,000 Maryland customers and 7,900 Gettysburg area customers of Manufacturers Light and Heat Co., a sister firm of C. & A. Until earlier this month, gas deliveries to 16,500 West Virginia customers of C. & A. also were supervised from the Cumberland district office.

During his 41 years of gas utility duty, Robbins worked at four jobs, in four different locations for four separate gas companies, all members of Pittsburgh Group Companies, Columbia Gas System.

A native of Lisbon, Ohio, Robbins returned to that town after serving on five European fronts in World War 1. He went to work for Natural Gas Co., of West Virginia there in 1919 as meter reader and laborer.

Ten years later he was promoted to foreman and transferred to the Bradford-Warren, Pa., area of Manufacturers Gas Co. In 1936, he was assigned to the Pittsburgh general office of Manufacturers Light and Heat Co. as general foreman.

He was working in this capacity in 1944 when he arrived in Cumberland on the temporary assignment.

Following his retirement, he and his wife plan to take a brief vacation, and then return to Cumberland. Mr. Robbins indicates he will continue his current spare-time hobby, fishing.

An Open Letter To The People of The Oakland Area

Dear Folk:

After several months of noisy campaigning, the nation has now calmed down to its normal state of political indifference. In back of the campaign noise stood the two party platforms. One of the planks both party platforms promised to use concerning the ever present rural problem was to encourage light industry to locate in rural areas for rural redevelopment.

As we take a quick look at the Oakland area, we see the crying need for redevelopment and light industry. This community pours hard earned money into its fine public schools, only to see the majority of its high school graduates move to other cities and states for employment. The small family farmer tries to earn an average living on a farm which has too few acres and cows. Many people in this area are now unemployed. Light industry would offer job opportunities for our high school graduates and for the "part time" farmer, as well as the unemployed.

These are all problems which have been considered before, but now we feel it is time for the Church of Jesus Christ to offer some guidance. The Scriptures report that we are our brother's keeper and that we should love our neighbor. When a community faces the problems the Oakland area should realize it faces, can we honestly say we are keeping and living our brother and neighbor as the Church teaches? This assumes of course that many people in the Oakland area are Christians who acknowledge the authority of Christ in their own lives. It also assumes that Christian love expresses itself in more ways than mere talk.

Most church denominations speak highly of man's vocation as service to both God and fellow man. We are not advocating a communistic economic system by any means. In our society the question is not whether we live in a big house or small house, the question is, do we live in a house or a shack? The question is not whether we eat steak or hamburger regularly, but do we have regular balanced meals? The question is not whether we have a mink coat or a leather jacket, the question is do we have warm clothing?

The Oakland area is in a depleted financial situation and it is time to do something about it before it becomes drastic! Inviting light industry into our community would offer more people more jobs at decent wages than are now available. The standard of living for the whole community would be improved.

Because we live in a Democracy we the people have at our disposal the means to make the wishes of the majority possible. If we make it clear to our city, county, state, and national representatives in the government that we expect them to help meet our needs and problems, they will, for they know that it is the public who votes them into office and it is the public who can vote them out!

Sincerely Signed,

Another Winner . . .

For the fifth time in thirteen years a Garrett County farm family has won the regional championship in the Farming For Better Living Program, which covers five counties. As we have said previously, this doesn't happen just by accident or by good luck. There is much initiative, spirit and hard work behind it.

Congratulations go this week to Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wagner, Jr., of near Oakland in being chosen as the winner among this five-county area. They follow the footsteps of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Crowe, Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Bittinger and Mr. and Mrs. Clark Schlossnagle, who won in previous years. The Schlossnagle and Bittinger families went even further and were named sweepstakes winners in 1952 and 1957 which meant the top farm family in 25 counties throughout the Upper Monongahela Valley in West Virginia.

It is quite remarkable that for five of thirteen years in which this county has been enrolled in the Farming For Better Living Program, a county farm family has topped the region, but every bit of the honor is deserved.

Garrett county has some of the best farms in any of the counties. This year 70 farm families engaged in this program to make farming more profitable as well as enjoyable. Two years ago slides of the progress made on the farms was emphasized. They showed an amazing amount of improvement going on. They showed improvement in the dairy business, a keen interest in beef cattle and sheep. They showed new construction of dairy barns, milk parlors, sanitary barns. They showed improved practices in farming and modernization of farm kitchens, making them much more convenient and providing "a good life as well as a good living."

The FFBL program spurs farmers on to better living and their interest remains high because there are rewards that can't be counted in a monetary sense. For the ninth year too, Garrett county won a special award for having 100 percent completion for all who enrolled in the program.

We continue to be proud of the accomplishments of our farm people.

Churches Plan Special Events For Christmas

Pagenhardt, senior warden; Fred A. Thayer III, junior warden; Robert T. Hoffman, secretary; and Dr. W. W. Grant, treasurer. Other officers are appointive and will be named in the near future.

Board Studies 1961 Budget For Schools

A study of the school budget for next year, and a discussion of the possible elimination of school sales designed to raise funds for various school activities, were among some of the items on the agenda of the Board of Education at its regular meeting on Tuesday.

Among the budget items for which some action already has been taken was the awarding of the contract for installation of a new furnace at the Friendsville school, and the announcement that bids had been requested for replacement of the gymnasium floor at Northern High school.

William E. Shirer and Son, low bidder, received the contract for installation of the Friendsville furnace during the Christmas holidays, to replace one which is 32 years old and which has been condemned by boiler inspectors. His bid was $2,374.50. Other bids were by Lewis and Burge, $2,381; A. D. Naylor and company, $2,680; and L and Y Plumbing company, $2,875.

The work on the gymnasium floor is to be done during the coming summer months. Specifications were provided by Altman and Altman, architects. Bids are due Monday, December 19.

Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent, pointed out that the overall increase over last year's requests in the budget would be not

Tops 1958 Record Of 701 Kills By 103

An all-time record number of 804 deer were killed in Garrett county during the seven-day season which ended last Saturday. Ninety-five bucks were felled on the final day of the season, which was the third highest day of the week. Thursday and Friday kills had diminished greatly with only 13 and 38 being reported on those days.

The number of deer kills in this county topped all other counties of the state and topped the former record of 701, by 103. This record was accomplished with less hunters than in previous seasons.

Joseph Minke, regional game warden, estimated 25,000 sportsmen had hunted in Allegany county, which is a far cry from the number hunting in the forests of Garrett county. Either the more accurate hunters were in this area, or the deer population is much greater.

The complete report for the seven days is given: Saturday, 120 at Oakland, 42 at Friendsville, 43 at Storey's, 80 at Grantsville, 20 at LaVale and 27 at Westernport, total 337; Monday, 62 at Oakland, 23 at Friendsville, 32 at Storey's, 27 at Grantsville, 7 at LaVale and 9 at Westernport, total 160; Tuesday, 25 at Oakland, 15 at Friendsville, 24 at Storey's, 21 at Grantsville, 5 at LaVale and 1 at Westernport total 91; Wednesday, 14 at Oakland, 10 at Friendsville, 11 at Storey's, 18 at Grantsville, 7 at LaVale and 5 at Westernport, total 65; Thursday, 5 at Oakland, 4 at Friendsville, 1 at Storey's, 6 at Grantsville, none at LaVale and 2 at Westernport, total 18, Friday, 10 at Oakland, 8 at Friendsville, 4 at Storey's, 11

Car Thought Stolen Found Against Tree

A car, thought to have been stolen, was recovered about an hour later, against a tree, after leaving a parking lot under its own steam.

The story was reported this week by Henry Arnold, police chief.

Arlie Fike, custodian at the hospital, was preparing to leave work, so he went outside and started his car, wanting to give it an opportunity to warm up a little before he "took off." This was about 10:45. At 11 o'clock he went to the parking lot, but no car, so he reported it stolen.

While police were checking highways and by-roads, the word came that Arlie's car had gone over the hill at the hospital, having drifted from the parking lot, and was lodged against a tree, with the motor still running.

The radiator was broken and the car sustained about $200 in other damages.

County Takes Storm In Stride; Business Continues As Usual

While many parts of the nation were paralyzed by the pre-season snowstorm of Sunday and Monday, and while the storm caused schools to close in neighboring Allegany county, Garrett county came through with flying colors and no disruption in traffic.

There was a total snowfall of 12 inches with 7 of that coming down on Sunday and 5 additional inches falling on Monday morning.

Fortunately there was little drifting reported and the winds did not begin to blow until Monday evening after the snow had a chance to "set."

Both State and County roads officials said all highways had remained open throughout the storm, although there were icy spots in some areas. Chains were being recommended for those not having snow treads.

Other parts of the country were not so fortunate. High winds caused much drifting in Pennsylvania. Seventeen inches of snow brought activity in New York to a standstill. Baltimore and Washington were hampered by an eight to twelve inch snow in those areas. Nine inches fell in Cumberland causing Allegany county to cancel school on Monday.

All schools, on the other hand, were open in Garrett county, although there was reduced attendance. Some 200 or more were absent at Northern High and a corresponding reduction in most of the other schools on Monday and Tuesday.

Road crews were out in full force, clearing the highways and cindering.

Zero weather hit the county Tuesday morning with the official reading at Weber's being just that. Other thermometers in the area had as much as 8 below. The mercury read 10 above on Monday morning but did not rise much above that during the day. The high was 22 degrees. Two below zero was recorded on Big Savage Tuesday morning.

The sub-freezing weather also continued to prevail Tuesday and there was still some snow in the air.

For the balance of the week the weather was varied. There was an inch or more of snow last Thursday with the temperature dropping to 21.

Wednesday was clear and warmer with 10 above reported in the morning after a four above reading during Tuesday night.

The weather rose above freezing this morning but it was cloudy and there were prospects of snow or rain.

Fire Damages Frame Dwelling at Hutton

The two-story dwelling owned by Frank Severe, and occupied by Dale Severe, his mother, sister and brother, at Hutton, was partially destroyed by fire last Friday night about 8 o'clock.

An overheated flue caught the second story floor joists, causing considerable damage to the interior of the building and destroying quantities of clothing and furniture.

Loss on the building was estimated at $2,500 and the contents at $1,500, with no insurance coverage.

The Oakland firemen responded and succeeded in extinguishing the blaze. Firemen reported the fire started in the left front upstairs bedroom which contained all the clothing belonging to Dale Severe. They said the exterior of the building and the roof were still in fair condition.

Car On Fire

Oakland firemen were called again on Tuesday morning to extinguish some flames around the engine of Hervey Bittner's Chrysler sedan which was parked in front of the postoffice.

Mr. Bittner had trouble starting his car that morning and was letting the motor run while he went into the postoffice for a few minutes. The flames started shooting from under the hood before he got back to the car. The motor was slightly damaged.

Another overheated flue brought another fire alarm this week to the Oakland department. This occurred Tuesday evening about 8 o'clock, at a frame dwelling in Crellin occupied by Fred Fulk. Damage to the building was estimated at $50 by firemen. There was no loss on the contents.

Man Held in Jail On Murder Charge

Authorities Say John Sherlock Was Responsible For Death Of His Mother

John Sherlock, 58, of Angola, Ind., was ordered held for action of the Garrett County Grand Jury during a preliminary hearing yesterday before Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney, in Oakland.

The man is being held without bond in the county jail, being charged with the death of his mother, Mrs. Bridgett Sherlock, 58, who died last Friday in the Brownsville General hospital, Brownsville, Pa., of a fractured skull and lacerations of the liver.

W. Dwight Stover, state's attorney, said yesterday it was possible an early trial would be held.

The accused man earlier waived extradition at a hearing before Judge Edward Dumbauld, in Fayette county court in Uniontown, Pa., and was turned over to the county authorities.

Also turned over to the county authorities were Sherlock's sons, John, 12, and Michael, 11. The boys will be placed in a foster home in the county.

Mr. Stover said he and other officials are still trying to clear up some of the details of the killing.

Police said Sherlock apparently beat her in a county motel along U. S. Route 40, where they and the two boys stopped while driving from Norfolk, Va., to Angola.

Stover identified the place as Sky View motel, east of Grantsville, opposite the Route 40 school.

They reported that Mrs. Sherlock was admitted to Brownsville General hospital, Brownsville, Pa., near Uniontown, last Thursday and died the following day of a

Gas Company Gives New Rate Increases

The Cumberland and Allegheny Gas company this week submitted a schedule of rates to the Maryland Public Service commission to produce the $570,000 in additional revenue allowed the utility last week.

Under the rates filed, average Maryland customers who do not heat their homes with gas, but use it for appliances, will pay about three cents a day more.

For the average residential heating customer, his monthly gas bill will increase about $2.65. Rates originally proposed showed a $1 monthly increase for heating customers.

The new rates become effective today. C and A serves some 21,000 Maryland gas users in Allegany and Garrett counties. The monthly rate schedule submitted to the commission:

First 500 cubic feet, $2.50 $3.55 heating customer; next 9,500 cubic feet $1.08 per 1,000 cubic feet, next 250,000 cubic feet, 82 cents per 1,000 cubic feet; next 700,000 cubic feet, 77 cents per 1,000; next 1,000,000 cubic feet, 72 cents per 1,000; next 5,000,000 cubic feet, 57 cents per 1,000.

Minimum monthly charge $2.50 3.55 heating customer.

Mrs. Johanna Stull Resigns Position

Mrs. Johanna M. Stull, assistant home agent for the State Extension service, has announced her resignation from the county extension staff, effective December 31.

Mrs. Stull was appointed to the county extension force here on July 1, 1956, working primarily with the girls' 4-H club program. She will join her husband who is now working and continuing his studies in Frederick. Any further future plans are indefinite at this time.

Miss Ethel Grove, home demonstration agent, will assume responsibility for girls' 4-H work until a new assistant agent is secured by the University of Maryland.

Republicans Spent Over $2,900 In Campaign Expenses

Republicans spent $2,958.14 during the recent election campaign, according to figures filed last week by William L. Fitzwater, Jr., treasurer of the Republican State Central committee.

Receipts totaled $3,511.04 which included a balance of $518.31 on hand from the last campaign. The committee received $2,250 from the State Central Committee of Maryland and $103.50 from the Mathias for Congress committee, in addition to local contributions from $100 to $5.

There is a balance on hand of $552.90 but it was estimated there would be additional expenditures of possibly $150 for electricity, telephone, travel etc.

Among the amounts distributed to district committeemen who in turn would distribute to various party workers on election day, was $300 to H. L. Pettit, Grantsville; $200 to Laurna J. Savage, $200 to Jesse Walker, $160 to A. A. Callis, $100 each to Allen S. Paugh, E. W. Adams, Hubert Friend, Ed Baker, Thomas Hetz, and Stephen DeWitt, and lesser amounts to about ten other party workers.

Six youths from the junior ski club of this area were selected to be among the 31 from West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia to be selected to attend a ski camp being held December 27 to 31 at Laurel Mountain, Ligonier, Pa.

The camp is being sponsored by the Laurel Mountain Ski club, which is managed by Doc Des Roches. He has engaged a professional coach from New England to give these juniors, from 13 to 17 years of age, some race training.

The names of those selected were announced at a meeting of the Western Maryland Ski club in Cumberland on Tuesday evening. They are Mary Kay Alvarez, Jan Naylor, Guy William Hinebaugh, James Gibson, Robert Lohr and Dave Nordeck. Bob Stuck is first alternate. The only expense involved is transportation to Ligonier.

Howard Naylor, president, of Oakland, said committees for the coming year were named and plans discussed concerning the forthcoming 1961 Maryland State Championship Ski races, scheduled for January 21 and 22 on Marsh Mountain ski slope at McHenry, Deep Creek Lake.

Traffic Light On The Blink

The three-way traffic light at the corner of Liberty and Second streets went on the "blink" last Friday and refused to wink at traffic properly.

Henry Arnold, police chief, explained that the relays stuck but the motor kept moving, which threw the timing out and the light began giving four reds, four greens and four walks in succession.

Some Cumberland concern sent a man up on Tuesday and he promised to have it back yesterday, in tip-top working order. And he did just that.

Postoffice Prepares For Rush Season

The Oakland postoffice employes are prepared for the expected Christmas rush which is beginning to unfold this week.

Donald M. Browning, postmaster, said he was urging that all persons sending Christmas cards bundle them and mark them either for local distribution or out of town delivery. One of the windows will be left open especially for these Christmas card bundles.

Another window will be for stamp sales only, with another window for parcel post.

Starting today six additional persons are being employed to take care of the expected Christmas rush. Wilmer Graves and Herbert Turney will serve as city carriers, while Charles W. Mason, Jr., will serve as a clerk and carrier.

Thomas F. Bernard will serve as a carrier, Carlton Edward Bowser, Jr., and Wade Janoske will serve as rural carriers.

Starting Thursday also there will be two deliveries daily in the town of Oakland.

Browning also announced that before long there would be a new stamp vending machine installed in the lobby of the post office which would make stamps available to people when the windows were closed. The machine would make change, it was believed.

List of County Civil War Veterans Totals Some 64

By Wilbor W. Close

Researchers into Civil War records, as they pertain to the Oakland area, will find scant mention in official documents.

In fact, an examination of "A Compilation of the Official Records of the Union and Confederate Armies," containing almost 100,000 pages, lists Oakland only twice in its copious index.

But nowhere in these documents can be found the human story—the names of those from this county who served in this most bloody of all conflicts, the centennial commemoration of which is now being planned.

From various sources, the writer has secured what is probably the only complete list of Garrett countians active in this war all of whom were members of Oakland Post No. 35 of the Grand Army of the Republic. Many of the names are familiar, and their descendants still live in the area.

At the time the post was organized, A. G. Sturgiss was commander, and for many years the records were in the possession of his son, the late William A. Sturgiss. Their present whereabouts are unknown. The post was named in honor of General George G. Crook, an officer of Civil War fame, who made his home for a number of years on Crook Crest in Oakland.

Most of the men enlisted as privates, and their rank upon discharge is known when known.

more than $3,000. He also pointed out that the legislature would likely improve the salary status of teachers by passing, if not the MSTA bill, then the James bill which is approved by the governor. The bill would provide more money for the County Commissioners to increase receipts from road and a greater share of the 5c motor vehicle revenue.

Requests being made of the County Commissioners in this year's budget include salary for elementary music teacher in northern part of county $3,000; Friendsville furnace and piping, $3,000; farm home replacement, $7,000; additional bus shelters $1,000; boiler explosion insurance $1,000; deficit in county cigarette tax yield for classes $4,000, and supplementary salary for teachers to round off amount expected from legislative action, $3,800, total, $22,800.

In the matter of elimination of school sales, it was stated that the board members objected to the practice of schools engaging in selling campaigns such as seeds, student pictures, Christmas cards, fruit cakes, etc., feeling such practices were not within the realm the schools should serve.

The board also said it realized that funds were not available to care for all expenditures me' through funds derived from such sales. It was estimated about $5,000 would be needed to replace income from such projects.

The problem is under study by superintendent, principals and board members.

Other Business Items

Among other items of business the board:

Approved purchase of new cafeteria stove for Center street, at $350;

Approved extra pay for Miss Helen Teets, teacher at Loch Lynn, for services in conducting a weekly first aid course for bus drivers;

Approved immediate purchase of new school bus by Joseph Welch;

Accepted resignation of Mrs. Grace Sisler Reckart, office secretary, and appointed Mrs. Lela Paugh, present secretary to principal at Southern, effective January 1;

Approved appointment of Mrs. Lawrence Faith to fill vacancy at Loch Lynn, beginning January 1, caused by maternity leave granted to Mrs. Ruth Ryan. Mrs. Faith will be graduated from Frostburg in January.

Changes Holiday Date

The board agreed to change the date when schools reopen after the Christmas holidays from Monday, January 2, to Tuesday January 3.

The board also gave consideration to possible make-up days on Saturdays in case of loss of school time due to inclement weather, to prevent extension of the school term in June, but no formal action was taken. Three Saturday sessions were held last year.

Delegation Appears

A delegation of parents from Bloomington appeared before Mr Hawkins recently requesting immediate consideration for an improved school plant for their community. He said they argued that their community development was being retarded due to lack of adequate school facilities.

Mr. Hawkins said the board already had preliminary plans drawn up for a two-room addition, plus small library, health room and all-purpose room, but felt that another year should elapse to see what aid for school construction might be arranged by next session of Congress. The cost of the proposed project was estimated between $60,000 and $70,000.

The new law requiring all Maryland operators' licenses to be renewed every two years, according to the holder's birthmonth, was announced by John R. Jewell, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles. The renewal would come in the odd year if born in an odd year, or in the even year if born in an even year.

Applications have been mailed to persons born in January of the odd year, whose present licenses are more than one year old. Each month applications will be mailed to holders of Maryland operators' licenses according to birthmonth. Applicants are required to sign the application and forward it to the Department of Motor Vehicles, with a fee of $2.

[illegible] Love at LaVale and [illegible] Report, total 38. Saturday at Oakland, 13 at Friendsville, 27 at Grantsville, 6 at LaVale and 15 at Westernport.

Figures for 38 stations [illegible] Friendsville 11a Storey's, [illegible] LaVale 15; Westernport 61, grand total 804.

County officials said there might be a few more from stations in Washington or Allegany counties that had not yet been reported.

The total for Allegany county was also a record, beating the former mark of 571. Garrett county's record was made in 1958. Last year there were 611 killed with the hunters hampered on several days because of a severe snow storm.

The Game and Inland Fish department reported unofficially that Maryland hunters bagged at least 4,124 deer during the season. The kill was short of the 1958 record of 4,596, but additional reports were expected to push the number ahead of the record year.

George B. Shields, chief game warden said the unofficial total was 4,026. He said the totals for the season at Aberdeen Proving Ground and the Army Chemical Center were not immediately available. During four days of the season 598 kills were registered.

Washington county had 110 kills. Other counties with over 190 kills: Dorchester, 328; Worchester, 260; Frederick, 232; Kent, 223; Cecil, 201; Charles, 119; and Wicomico, 168.

Conference Center Idea Gaining Some Support Thru State

Proposals for a combination recreation "field house" and "conference center," to attract more and larger conventions groups to Western Maryland, and to be built as a public facility on State recreation lands are being eyed with practical consideration and substantial support by civic and business leaders who are working to "broaden the economic base" in Western Maryland.

A story in "The Old Line Accent," published quarterly at Annapolis by the Department of Forests and Parks carries the idea rather fully.

The article says in part:

"As a general proposal the idea has already been given tentative support from the Maryland Commission of Forests and Parks. The core of the proposal would be to provide a presently non-existing facility in the mountain country to accommodate and attract major business, social, fraternal, and industrial group meetings or conventions. Many such groups some of them regional or national in scope would welcome the opportunity to meet in Maryland's mountain country if more adequate meeting facilities were available.

"The idea came out of a session of the Governor's annual conference on recreation, held at Oakland and Herrington Manor last May in its original form the center would be a non-competitive public facility built in a development perhaps at Deep Creek Lake. It would include a large group meeting center, combined with a general recreation service-center for the accommodation of other groups wanting to make day to day use of existing recreation facilities.

"The convention hall facility would provide neither housing nor catering services as such, beyond the possibilities of a snack-bar concession for general use. It would provide space where dining facilities could be set up for luncheons, dinners or banquets, but catering would be by private arrangement. Housing accommodations would also be competitive in existing private facilities or in expanded facilities in nearby resorts and communities.

"The one thing the proposed public facility would provide would be adequate meeting space for reasonably large gatherings, a facility that is difficult to provide by private subscription or individual enterprise.

"With this facility the mountain counties would be in a position to compete favorably with other Eastern communities.

"Specific plans have not been worked out. In general and in its present form the suggestion embraces the inclusion of meeting rooms or halls of various sizes, and expandable by the use of movable partitions.

Given tentative approval at a meeting June 14 at Annapolis by the Maryland Commission of Forests and Parks, the proposal would be worked out under several alternate recommendations with sketches, plans and prospective costs and submitted to Governor Tawes for consideration as a part of his 1960 Capital Improvements program. If approved by the governor, there would be some plans worked out in further detail.

Vo-Ag Dept. Reaps 1800-Bushel Crop

Northern's vocational agriculture department harvested 1800 bushels of corn from the 11-acre school farm this November.

The 1800 bushel yield average slightly above 150 bushels per acre or 100 bushels above the national average.

School farm land has been used for demonstration of the possibilities of field corn for the past several years. This year's demonstrations were centered on fertilizer, hybrid varieties of seed corn and chemical control of weed growth.

Varieties of hybrid corn used were Wisconsin 335, Penn State 333 and Michigan State 350. These varieties were selected because they will mature in the short cool growing season of Garrett County. All three varieties used matured efficiently to cure.

"As a side interest experiment," said Lawrence Faith, head of the agriculture department, "we produced a hybrid seed corn of our own—North High Viking."

pany, to be used for the county 4-H activities.

Some 145 people attended the dinner from the five counties and from the state staff of the agricultural extension service, West Virginia university, other state agricultural organizations and Chamber of Commerce members at Morgantown.

Speaker was Dr. Festus P. Summers, who outlined plans for the forthcoming West Virginia Centennial program, 1961-63.

Present from this county were Nordeck Shaffer, Howard C. Riggs, Henry Hupp, Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty, James McHenry, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Schlossnagle, Mr. and Mrs. Guy S. Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. Lenwood Bittinger, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert A. Friend, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Crowe, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hummell, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wagner, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Gerald H. Glotfelty, Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Glotfelty.

Previous regional winners have been Mr. and Mrs. Schlossnagle, Mr. and Mrs. Bittinger, Mr. and Mrs. Crowe, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley H. Baker. Sweepstakes winners have been Mr. and Mrs. Schlossnagle, 1952; and Mr. and Mrs. Bittinger, 1957.

Continues Progress

Continual progress in building their farm operations is the principal reason that Mr. and Mrs. Wagner were selected as regional champions for 1960, according to those in charge of the judging.

In the printed program outlining the FFBL activities, the following was included about the Wagner family:

"The past year has seen many improvements on the Wagner farm, improvements designed to keep pace with agricultural progress and to take advantage of new management ideas. Installed in a barn remodeling program has been a bulk milk tank, improved milkhouse, barn gutter cleaners, a new water line to the barn, new lighting, and a ventilating system.

"Keeping up with the mechanical improvements have been the production record Wagner's 30 cow Holstein milking herd. In 1957, when the Wagner's won the Garrett county FFBL honors, they listed a production record of 11,131 pounds of milk per cow in a 22 cow herd. Now they list an average of 12,715 pounds for the 21 cow herd.

"An example of how farming has changed can be gained from one remark in the Wagner's FFBL report: 'Farmed with horses the first four years we were married and milked by hand.' The horses are gone now and electrically-produced horsepower is taking over not only the milking chore, but also watering, barn cleaning, and many other jobs.

"The Wagner farmstead is a model of neatness. A large pleasant home sits in a little cove surrounded by the farm buildings. It is a good looking farm in a county that specializes in good looking farms.

"The Wagner family members are all active in farm activities. The oldest son, Larry, 13, is president of the Green Mountain Boys 4-H club, and the youngest boy, Dale, 12, is treasurer. Larry took a blue ribbon in the county tractor driving contest, and both have taken ribbons in heifer, corn, and fitting and showing demonstrations. Mr. Wagner is chairman of the Artificial Breeders Cooperative board, treasurer and secretary of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association, a director of the Garrett County Fair Board and superintendent of the dairy department of the Fair. Mrs. Wagner is a member of the PTA, Homemakers Club and Southern States Home Advisory committee. The Wagner herd not only had the Grand Champion of the show in the 1959 Garrett county fair but also took three blue ribbons."

skull fracture and lacerations of the liver.

An autopsy revealed she was beaten to death. Dr W. Ralston McGee, coroner, said her injuries resulted from heavy blows inflicted by another person.

She was apparently in a coma when she died.

Sherlock was taken into custody and police quoted him as saying his mother had taken an overdose of sleeping pills.

Pennsylvania authorities said he first told them he had fought with his mother in a motel in this county last Thursday afternoon. He later changed his story and said she had suffered an epileptic attack, and fell in a bathtub after taking some pills.

Fayette county authorities said Sherlock and his two sons went to the home of Mrs. Virginia McMaster in Brownsville for food and lodging after his mother was admitted to the hospital. Authorities were summoned when they failed to leave the McMaster home at her request.

Cpl. Robert Henline, Stover and Wayne Wilt, deputy sheriff went to Uniontown on Monday to question the man which resulted in the formal charge of murder the following day and the subsequent hearing yesterday.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

Better Health Through Knowledge

Shifting Bulges

- Eye Blinking
- Thumb-sucking
- Special Delivery

Q. Is it possible to lose weight by massage?

A. At body temperature, fat is semi-fluid or jelly-like in consistency. It may be shifted about to some extent by massage (and thus change contours slightly) but massage will not reduce weight. There is no easy way to lose weight.

Q. What could cause persistent "blinking" in a child?

A. "Blinking" is most often a nervous habit, and is not unusual in children who pull their hair, fiddle with their nose and ears, bite their fingernails, and suck their thumbs. If there is no physical cause for the blinking, efforts should be made to ignore it completely. If it's "nervous blinking," undue attention will tend to prolong the habit.

Q. What makes a baby suck his thumb?

A. This problem was studied in 2,650 infants and children, almost 50 per cent of whom sucked their thumbs. The most logical reason seems to be that the child derives pleasure from stimulation of the lips and mouth. Once this satisfying sensation is experienced, there is a desire to continue it. In the group studied, the average age at which the thumb-sucking habit stopped was about 4 years.

Q. What is the best way to tie the umbilical cord? — A police officer

A. Completely satisfactory ligation (tieing) of the cord can be accomplished with a piece of linen twine, coarse silk thread, a rubber band, or a narrow strip of cloth torn from a clean sheet or handkerchief. Only a small piece of the cord should be left on the baby. The tieing knot must be secure. To accomplish this, tighten the knot slowly and uninterruptedly.

THE REV. LUTHER SEIBERT
St. John's Lutheran Church
Red House, Maryland

Why Give Gifts At Christmas?

Most of us usually "celebrate" Christmas each year by exchanging gifts. Probably the majority of us try to be practical, in the purchase of our gifts. We try to give others gifts that are needed and will prove useful. To help us make our gift selections we have "special" Christmas catalogs which offer us "special" Christmas prices. To help us pay for our gifts we have "special" Christmas clubs or lay-away plans. To help us present our gifts especially to the children we have Santa Claus.

Before we go on, let us answer the basic question, why do we give each other gifts at Christmas? Those of us who have been to birthday parties know part of the answer. It is a time honored custom to give birthday gifts to a person on his birthday. Christmas is the regular birthday party of Jesus, the Christ. The Wise Men gave Jesus gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh at his birth 1,960 years ago. (Matthew 2:11).

But then, why do we give gifts to each other on Christmas, instead of to Jesus? There are several reasons. First, Jesus as a human, no longer walks this earth. God is a Spirit and we must worship Him in Spirit and in Truth. Second, every time we support the Church of Jesus Christ with our tithes and offerings, we do offer Jesus gifts. God loves a cheerful giver" (II Corinthians 9:7). Third, Jesus said, "Truly, I say to you, as you did it to one of the least of these my brethren, you did it to me." (Matthew 25:40). This can mean that if we consider ourselves among the least as sinners should, then our gifts to each other, if motivated by Christian love, are in a sense gifts to Jesus Himself. Fourth, and most important, what Jesus gives us at Christmas is more important than what we could possibly give Him. He forgives us of our sin and offers us Everlasting Life IF we believe He is the Christ, the Son of God. Jesus is God's gift to us!

It is "more blessed to give than to receive" (Acts 20:35), and God has given us so much. Doesn't it even seem a bit ridiculous to even consider giving God a new airplane, Cadillac, bicycle or roller skates. After all, God is both Creator and Savior. Jesus, our Savior, is God! Perhaps this is the best reason of all to include Santa Claus in the Christmas Birthday party each year. It offers our children and us a comparison.

"Good old Santa" brings toys and other objects for earthly pleasure (even though God the Creator should receive much more credit). The little Baby Jesus brings us salvation and the Promise of Everlasting Life. Thus our children are confronted with a choice at a very early age, a choice which will follow them all the days of their life! What gift in life is the most valuable? The decision is not as easy as it sounds, is it, Mom and Dad?

Pictures Out Of The Past

One of First Treats Is Shown This Week

Today's old photograph does not show the first children's Christmas treat in Oakland, but it is one of the first. The year is 1936, and at that time the annual affair was sponsored by the Oakland Rotary club.

Other committee members that year were John H. Carter and Mr. Polden.

The weather was unfavorable for the community tree lighting and treat that year, causing a postponement of several days. However, on the day finally selected, 1175 children showed up for their package of candy and holiday delicacies, about half as many as are expected to be distributed this Saturday by the Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the affair for the past ten or twelve years.

The year before, in 1935, approximately 1100 packages of candy and oranges were distributed. Weather that year was not favorable, either, for it was reported that "The elements no doubt caused many of the little tots to be deprived of their package because parents hesitated taking the very young ones outdoors in the piercing atmosphere, the thermometer not rising above sixteen, although the sun emerged brightly but it had little effect upon the cold driving wind which prevailed."

The picture belongs to W. E. Shirer.

Jr. Senior Choruses To Present Program At Southern Tonight

Tonight, December 15, at 8:00, the Junior and Senior Choruses of Southern High school will present their annual Christmas program in the gymnasium under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Brown and Miss Barbara Colabrese.

A candle-light processional, "O Come, O Come Emmanuel", will open the Senior chorus affair after the Junior chorus concludes its part. "O Rejoice, Ye Christians Loudly", will be sung by the complete Senior chorus.

A French carol by Willan, "What is This Lovely Fragrance", will follow the above songs. "Carol of the Bells", a Ukranian carol by Leontvitch and "The Prince of Peace", will conclude the program before the cantata is presented.

Carl DeWitt, Patty Sacher, and Carolyn O'Brien will be the narrators of the cantata which will be based on "The Song of Christmas," by Ringwald.

Soloists include Linda Teets, Shirley Warren, Carolyn Bittinger, and Brenton Propst, while group songs will be sung by Kathryn Blizzard, Sue Martin, Martha Burrell, Sue Martin, Jay Umstot, Stanley Hardesty, Fred Bell and Mike Cook.

A duet by Jerry DiSimone and Mike Cook will be given while a trio consisting of Sunny Riggs, Clayton Winters, and Tom Forman will sing a selection.

"Hallelujah Chorus" from the "Messiah" by Handel will be presented after the cantata with the final number being "Joy To The World," which will be the Candlelight Recessional.

Special numbers will be given by "The Talons," Linda Teets and Shirley Warren, the Martin sisters, Stanya Snyder, Ron Colaw, and Fred Bell.

No admission will be charged, but a silver offering will be taken.

Earle Cobey Named New Circuit Judge

Allegany County once again has two judges sitting on the bench in the Fourth Judicial Circuit with the appointment on Tuesday of W. Earle Cobey, Cumberland attorney, to fill the second judgeship created by the 1959 legislature and ratified by the voters November 8.

Mr. Cobey, native of Frostburg, was named to the judgeship by Gov. J. Millard Tawes. The appointment became effective immediately and Cobey will serve until the 1962 general election when he may run for a full 15-year term.

Mr. Cobey will serve as an associate judge in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties. A Democrat, he and William A. Gunter, Republican, were endorsed for the position by the Allegany County Bar association. The new judge who will serve with Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris, Cumberland, and Associate Judges Neil C. Fraley, Oakland, and D. Kenneth McLaughlin, Hagerstown, was also recommended by the Maryland Bar association.

Mr. Cobey was born in Frostburg, attended Beall High school, Mercersburg Academy, and was graduated from Princeton university in 1929. He received his bachelor of laws degree from Harvard university School of Law in 1932.

He is currently a member of the law firm with William R. Carscaden, C. William Gilchrist and Gorman E. Getty. He served in the Navy during World War II where he saw service as a lieutenant commander in the Pacific theater of operations and in the Panama Canal Zone.

Mr. Cobey is a past president of the Cumberland Kiwanis club, belongs to various Masonic bodies. He is president of the Fidelity Saving bank and is serving as secretary of the Cumberland Industrial Development corporation.

Washington county had also sought the second judgeship in the circuit, pointing out that the load was heavier in that county than in Allegany county. Allegany county had two judges for many years but this was abolished when a judgeship became available in Garrett county.

County Is Getting $10,776 From State Income Tax Money

Garrett county is receiving $10,776 from the advanced distribution now of state income tax revenues, according to State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein.

Garrett is one of eight in the state, which along with Baltimore City, had elected to participate in the advanced distribution, provided by Chapter 26 of the 1960 Laws of Maryland. The money comes from second and third quarter receipts from employer's withholding and estimated income tax installments.

Mr. Goldstein explained that previously the income tax revenues had not been distributed until after the income tax returns had been filed and had come at the close of the state's fiscal year.

An amendment to the Maryland income tax law which would permit the distribution of part of the subdivision's share of income tax receipts before the return actually had been filed and on a more current basis, was passed last year.

Baltimore City and the counties on a calendar year basis of accounting will get a "windfall" from the advanced distribution for the first time. Allegany county will receive $98,263; Baltimore city, $2,188,525; Calvert, $15,335; Harford, $120,174; Kent, $19,320; Montgomery, $1,319,737; Queen Anne, $21,917; and Washington, $127,401.

To Plant 1,820,000 Trees in 4-county Area During 1961

Some 1,820,000 trees will be planted in the four Western Maryland counties during 1961, R. Thomas Thayer, Jr., district forester, reported this week.

Garrett county is scheduled for 828,060 of the number. Some 654,000 will be planted on privately owned land and the other 171,000 on state land.

Allegany county will get 355,050 trees, all to be planted on privately owned land. Washington and Frederick counties will receive 637,000 trees, divided almost equally between the two counties, and will be planted on private land.

All trees will come from the state nursery in Anne Arundel county. Mr. Thayes said the most popular varieties for the 1961 planting will be white pine and spruce. There also will be many red pine, Scotch pine, larch and tulip poplar.

The planting will begin in early March in Frederick county with planting in Garrett county in early April. A major development in tree planting in the past five years has been the upsurge in machine planting, with more than half of the trees now being planted by machines. All of the trees are planted by independent contractors. Formerly the job was done by state employes.

Mr. Thayer pointed out the importance of planing soft wood trees in abundance. To replace the soft wood trees being harvested each year, some 36,000 acres in the four Western Maryland counties should be reforested by 1975. That would require some 36 million trees in 15 years on the average of 1,000 trees for each acre. That would require an average annual planting of 2,400,000 trees in the district.

Market Street! Just a handful of shopping days before Christmas! The best-organized parade of the year!

Every marcher has been summoned by advertisements . . . elated by the music and decorations . . . inspired by the joy of giving. Each has a destination, an objective, a mission. And there's a kind of desperate dedication in it all: everyone searching for something someone else needs!

But never confuse the December parade with the real dedication of Christmas.

What every soul needs is not displayed in windows.
And Christmas means nothing unless it means:

ALL WE REALLY NEED . . . GOD HAS GIVEN!

In the church of your choice, dedicate your life anew to the Christ Child.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Promise Come True

Lesson for December 18, 1960

"IF OXEN could invent a God, it would look like an ox." So a scornful Greek wrote, long ago. He was making the point that men make gods in their own image—we like to think that God is like ourselves. This is all true; so the real God is not always like our pictures of him.

Dr. Foreman

Last week we recalled that although the Jewish people had long looked for a Deliverer, when the "coming one" came, they did not recognize him. This week we have an opportunity to look into this further. If Jesus, the Son of God, did not exactly match what people had expected, what was he like.

Worker

If God himself took human form and walked our world's streets, what would we naturally expect? One thing we should look for is that he would surely do some great thing. A God, visible or invisible, who would only sit silently upon a throne, never lifting a finger, would be no sort of God at all.

So the ancient Hebrews thought, and so we think, and it is true. But when Jesus came, although his life was very busy, though he worked with all his might, he did not do the kind of things people looked for. He did not leap off a temple roof unharmed, as he was tempted to do. He did not send for 12 troops of shining angels to rescue him when his life was in danger. He did work miracles, but most of the things he did were not miraculous. And the miracles he did were simple, quiet, almost shy acts, never done to show off, always done to help some one. When Jesus said "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me" he made it plain that this Divine Spirit in Him showed itself in the healing and the helping he did day by day.

This brings out the second point. The ancient Hebrews expected, and we should all naturally expect, that if God were here on earth he would be of course the monster over all men. He would be known by the absolute authority of his commands, he would be known by the way he lord all men to his almighty will.

Again they were disappointed, and it can be doubted whether we should have been any smarter if we had been there. For Christ, the Son of God, was not known by the way he commanded, but by the way he served. One of the greatest passages in the Gospels, in which Jesus claims a knowledge of God such as no other has, comes to its climax through the words, "my yoke is easy, and my burden is light." The Son of God—we should expect him to wear a crown! But no, he carries a yoke. Only animals wore yokes, only animals and slaves carrying burdens. Christ speaks of himself in such a way as to call up not a picture of radiant glory, but just a simple servant ready to carry on his shoulders whatever burdens may be laid there. Is that too humble?

Friend

People who listened to Jesus talk were familiar with oxen and how they were harnessed. Yokes for two were very common. Jesus (who perhaps had many a time carved out ox yokes in the carpenter shop) speaks of this kind of thing when he says "Take my yoke upon you." Let us go back a minute. Let us ask once again the question, if God himself walked upon this earth, what might we expect him to do and to be? One thing that would be natural would be to hope that he would befriend us, be on our side, and take our part. And so it is, but not the way most of us would expect and hope. We would want him to take us out of trouble, to shelter us from responsibility, to make things easy for us. Well, this is true, but again is a surprising way. Christ the Promised Son "comes true" in a way we had not wanted. He offers us his friendship—in work. Take my yoke—share my yoke—lift the burdens of life by my side. We cannot know his friendship if we never share his work.

THEY WORK HARDER BECAUSE THEY RIDE EASIER!

Chevy Independent Front Suspension. Wheels flex independently, minimize tire abuse as well as body stress.
Because they ride easier they last longer, too. They take better care of payloads and they make a long day's work a lot more pleasant for the driver. All that—primarily because of Independent Front Suspension (I.F.S.). If you think it's stretching a point to attribute that many advantages to a suspension system, you haven't driven a new Chevy with I.F.S. Take the wheel and feel its road-leveling ride, its almost total absence of shimmy and wheel fight, its ease of steering even in the big rigs. Spend hours behind the wheel and you're not nearly as tired. You're not and neither is the truck. That independent suspension soaks up the worst shock and vibration—the kind that can twist sheet metal and loosen joints and increase your maintenance costs. That's why Chevy trucks keep on working and saving for extra thousands of miles. Try one.

Southern Speaks

By Dale Ellis

Southern's annual College Tea Program will be held on December 21 from 1:30 to 3:00 under the guidance of Miss Roberta Conley and her sixth period creative writing class.

Tom Forman, Susan Gibson, Jerry Hitchcock, and Dick Stuck are in charge of arrangements. Attending the guests will be Stephanie Jenkins and Gilmor Custer.

Invitations are being issued this week by Pat Sacher, Dennis Sanders, Tom Anderson, Shirley Warren, and Brooks Hamilton.

Members of the Tea Committee are Barbara Warnick, Joael Clary, Fred Bell, Carolyn O'Brien, Carl DeWitt, and Eleanor Vetter.

Guy Hinebaugh, Tom Schaible, Brenton Propst, Boone Roderick, and Rodney Barkhurst are heading the Questionaire Committee.

Some invitations may have been misdirected or not sent in time, so all college students are asked to accept this notice as their invitation to attend the program.

F. F. A. Regional Meet

Saturday morning, the Oakland Future Farmers of America Chapter will host a regional meeting of Region One of Future Farmers of America at the school from 10:00 a. m. through 1:30.

Southern will open the affair which will be followed by remarks made by the local advisor, Richard Bishoff.

He will introduce James House, Oldtown, Bob Saville, Flintstone; John Rockner and Lawrence Faith, Northern; all faculty advisors. H. H. McDonald, Maryland State Supervisor, will be present at the meeting.

A discussion on qualifications of officers by all attending boys will precede the election of officers for the coming year. Nominations will be made from the floor but all boys nominated must be present.

The closing ceremony will be handled by the new officers.

Girls' Phys. Ed. News

Plans are being made for several girls' athletic events in the near future, according to Mrs. Lucile Kerins, one of the physical education instructors.

A basketball unit for instruction and sportsmanship purposes pertaining to basketball will start approximately the second week in January. Time and regulations will be announced later.

Southern's Girls' Athletic Association will motor to Romney tomorrow night as one of its basketball projects to witness and cheer for the Highlander Team.

Cheers are available on paper to students who are interested in receiving them to back the teams and cheers are taught in physical education classes. Yells will be posted on the bulletin board in the main lobby of Southern.

Mrs. Kerins and Mrs. Tarn Johns are in the process of contacting Elk Garden and Northern High Schools and requesting an extramural basketball play between the schools.

Extramural activities find Southern's seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grade intramural winners playing the six intramural winners of the above schools.

Mrs. Kerins said "We would host these schools or be happy to travel there since we would like to promote girls' sports activities."

Christmas Parties

Seventh, eighth, and several ninth grade homerooms will hold their annual Christmas Parties on December 21.

While the junior high holds their parties, the senior high and the remaining ninth graders will view an assembly program in the gymnasium.

Tomorrow's Game

It was the second straight victory for Bruce Bulldogs, they having defeated Northern High 66 to 60.

Coach Leonard Ritchie's team hopped off to a quick 8-0 lead against the Highlanders and Southern never overcame the deficit, although getting to within four and seven points upon several occasions.

The visitors led 25-18 at halftime leading 18 to 9 at the quarter. Southern pulled within four points at 36-32 in a third-quarter rally, but Bruce caught fire once more and built the lead to 17 points midway in the final stanza, to coast to victory.

Bob Wilson and Riggleman paced the Bulldogs with 18 and 19 points while Dick Stuck had 13 and Ron Colaw 12 for Southern.

Also scoring for Bruce were McDowell 6, Dayton 5, Wilson 10. Non-scoring were Pence, McIntyre, Jones, Shaw, Price and Wright.

Also scoring for Southern were Bolyard 4, Propst 6, K. Jones 2, Burdock 5. Non-scoring were Thrasher, Riggs, DiSimone and Craig.

Bruce got 16 of 27 foul attempts while Southern shot 8 of 13. Jones went out of the game in the final quarter on five personal fouls.

For we have seen His star in the East and are come to worship Him." Nearly two thousand years have passed since the herds and kings travelled afar to pay homage to the Christ-child. ★

★ As we celebrate the true meaning of Christmas, in our churches and homes, let us again give thanks to Him for His great gift to mankind. Let us all pray that Christians, and those of other faiths, unite and stand firm to meet the challenge of Godlessness. ★

★ Let us remain steadfast in our Faith in God and the teachings of Christ. Civil War Article Stirs Variety of Interests Here

by Wilbur W. Close

Enough interest and comment has followed the publication last week of an article concerning Garrett county Civil War veterans to warrant another story explaining and elaborating on the previous information.

A number of persons, most of whom are descendants of these veterans, expressed appreciation for the roster. Others have challenged the list's accuracy of completeness, and still others have supplied additional information which will be retained for possible use in the future.

As was stated in last week's article, the names comprise a complete list of those veterans who were members of Crook Post No 35, Grand Army of the Republic. Since the records of this post have apparently disappeared, it was felt that this membership roster might prove of value at this period of accelerated interest in matters pertaining to the Civil War and its effects on this area.

Of course, there were other local men who served in the Civil War, but who never became members of the G. A. R. post, just as there are many veterans of more recent conflicts who do not belong to present-day veterans' organizations.

To compile a list of all persons from this county who bore arms during the Civil War, for either the Union or the Confederacy, would truly be a task of major proportions. However, this is being attempted by Ross C. Durst, a former teacher and resident of New Germany, now residing in Ohio. Mr. Durst, who for years has contributed articles on many facets of local history to The Glades Star, expects to eventually secure between 200 and 300 names.

Complicating this project, it would seem to the writer, would be the fact that at the time of the Civil War Garrett county as a subdivision of the state did not exist, but was a part of Allegany county, not receiving its political independence until 1872.

The only possible lead the diligent historian might have in sepa-

Man Is Fatally Hurt While Cutting Wood

John Wilbur Swartzwelder, 33-year-old Salisbury, Pa., woodsman, was fatally injured Tuesday morning when he was struck by a falling tree while cutting timber on Negro mountain in neighboring Somerset county.

He died in an ambulance enroute to Meyersdale Community hospital, of a broken neck and fractured skull.

Born at Salisbury February 12, 1927, he was a son of Karl and Margaret Hotchkiss Swartzwelder. He had served in the Navy during World War II and was a member of the United Church of Christ. He was deputy commissioner for the 24th district, American Legion, treasurer of Salisbury Borough Council and a member of the Salisbury Volunteer Fire company and the 10 & 8, at Somerset.

Surviving besides his parents are his widow, Rachel Garlitz Swartzwelder; two sons, Jack B. and John W., Jr., both at home; a sister, Mrs. Hazel Fay, Salisbury.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Thomas Funeral home in Salisbury with the Rev. Paul L. Westcoat, Jr., pastor, officiating. Burial will be in the Salisbury IOOF cemetery.

Early Morning Fire Damages Milk House

Fire of undetermined origin badly damaged the block milk house of John Teets, near Eglon, W. Va., early Monday morning, December 19.

Oakland firemen received the call about 2:30 o'clock. They said the cause of the blaze could have been one of three things, the flue, defective wiring or an overheated stove.

They estimated the damage on the building at $1,000 and damage to the contents, $1,500. They issued a call for the second truck which caused many persons to think that two fires had occurred.

Two local firemen sustained injuries during the stubborn fight. Allen Naylor received burns to one ear and his neck when melting tar from the roof fell on him, and Carlton Hinebaugh sustained a back injury.

The local firemen also answered a call on Friday when a 1950 Ford automobile owned by Virgil J. Lattea, of West Virginia, was reported ablaze on the highway at Rosedale, west of town. The fire was out on arrival and damage was slight.

The cause: a bursted heater hose line igniting the alcohol in the hose.

Episcopal Mission Will Build Parish House In Spring

Approximately Seven Acres Of Land Is Purchased Along Route 135

The Episcopal Mission, under direction of the Diocese of Maryland, has purchased approximately seven acres of land on State route 135, outside of Deer Park, and upon this land the Episcopal church will build a $50,000 parish house and vicarage. The announcement was made this week by the Rev. Fr. Thomas P. Staup, vicar of the Garrett County Episcopal mission, at Deer Park.

The property was purchased from Mrs. Donald Loomis, of Chapel Hill, North Carolina. Approximately two acres of the land was a gift from Mrs. Loomis as a memorial to her husband who died two years ago, Mr. Stamp said.

The Parish house will contain six class rooms for future Kindergarten and Church school use; a large 30 by 60 hall, with the vicarage to be in rear of the building. Several rooms will be used for a chapel.

S. Russ Minter, Cumberland, has been assigned by the Diocese of Maryland as architect and preliminary sketches of the building have been submitted for consideration.

Funds for the new building will come from several sources, it was stated. Several years ago the Mission raised nearly $1,000, and to this fund other contributions over the years now amount to nearly $9,000. The Episcopal Advance fund has appropriated $25,000 for the building, and the remainder

Wrenches Shoulder In Tuesday Collision

Lyle Lee sustained a wrenched right shoulder on Tuesday afternoon when a 1960 Chrysler automobile, driven by Miss Frances Fast, of Grafton, W. Va., crossed the white line and collided with Lee's trailer truck, in Fairmont, W. Va. The young lady is seriously injured and is a patient in a Fairmont hospital.

West Virginia State police absolved Lee of any fault. His trailer was not loaded at the time. The impact caused the tractor to run up on the Chrysler, completely demolishing it.

Lee was thrown from the cab of the tractor, landing on his shoulder, but apparently was not otherwise injured.

He notified his wife and parents, who reside in Loch Lynn, who went to Fairmont to get him. The tractor was brought to the Sharps Motor company in Oakland by the garage wrecker.

Trooper Tucker Hurt

Trooper First class Donald E. Tucker was painfully but not seriously injured last evening about 10:30 o'clock when he was forced off the highway in trying to avoid hitting a county snow plow.

The accident occurred on the Steyer and Gorman road. It was explained that the plow had hooked its blade on a rock and was attempting to back when Tucker rounded a rather sharp turn in the narrow road.

In attempting to avoid the plow he slid over an embankment.

Trooper Tucker was treated in the emergency room of Garrett County Memorial hospital about 11:15 and later released. He suffered chest injuries.

For the New Year's week-end the court house offices will be closed all day Saturday and Monday. Mr. Davis' office will again remain open until Saturday noon, but will remain closed on Monday.

Special Christmas Events Yet To Be Presented In Area

Dillsworth Fined In Fatal Mishap

Elmer Hunter Dillsworth driver of the car that collided with another automobile November 17, to cause the death of Mrs. Bernadine Louella Neal, of Evans City, Pa., at Crellin, was found guilty of one motor charge and not guilty of another when tried last Saturday, December 17, in Trial Magistrate's Court at Oakland.

Dillsworth, 43, of route 2, Oakland, was fined $15 and costs on a charge of failing to yield the right of way. He was freed on a count of reckless driving.

The evidence was presented before Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney by State Trooper First Class Donald Tucker. The case was tried by W. Dwight Stover, state's attorney.

Mrs. Neal was dead on arrival at Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland. She died of a fractured neck.

Her husband, 51, her four-year-old daughter, Deborah Kay Neal, and two-year old son, Edward Dale Neal, were given emergency treatment at the hospital for contusions and lacerations. The two children were admitted to the hospital and remained until November 19. Mr. Neal was treated as an out-patient. Dillsworth was not hurt in the accident.

The investigation by Tucker, assisted by Stover, brought out the fact that for some reason Dillsworth apparently turned toward the left on the highway. Neal applied the brakes on the small foreign car and skidded about 60 feet prior to hitting the Dillsworth car. They said the front of the small car struck the right front fender of the Dillsworth auto. Mrs. Neal was sitting in the right front seat.

1,800 Children Treated

The annual Christmas treat was distributed to children of the community last Saturday afternoon but the inclement weather served to limit the children to about 1,800, it was announced by Charles L. Briner, in charge.

The treat is sponsored annually by the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce and funds for the event are provided by voluntary contributions from business places, organizations and individuals.

Usually more than 2,500 children receive this treat.

Russell H. Brown Passes Suddenly

Russell H. Brown, aged 55, died suddenly at his home on Liberty street in Oakland on Tuesday morning, December 20, about 6:45 o'clock. Death was due to a series of complications. He had been in ill health for a year or more.

Deceased was a son of the late Luther and Elizabeth Compton Brown and was born in Oakland September 13, 1905.

He was a graduate of Oakland High school and attended Cornell university. He became an employe of the C. and A. Gas company some thirty-five years ago and was at the present time local manager of the company, having succeeded R. R. Gilbert. He entered the employment of the company in 1925. He served as foreman for the Oakland territory and was promoted to the management post about ten years ago.

Musically inclined, he was a director of the Gilbert-Brown Boys band in Oakland for a number of years and also directed the Mt. City Band and St. Peter's choir. He was a former member of the now defunct Presbyterian church in Oakland.

He also held membership in the Oakland Rotary Club and the Woodmen of the World.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Ruth Cealey Bueva, an instructor in music in Southern High school, one son, John Brown, senior student at West Virginia university, Morgantown; and a brother, Robert "Beety" Brown, Salem, Ohio.

Funeral services will be conducted on Thursday afternoon, December 22, at 2 o'clock from the Minnich Funeral home in Oakland with Rev. Fr. Michael K. Carney officiating. Interment will be in Oakland cemetery.

Members of the C. and A. Gas office and members of the Oakland Rotary club, and James Spencer are honorary pallbearers. Active pallbearers will be James McHenry, Maurice Brookhart, George Hanst, Robert T. Hoffman and Edward Callis, of Oakland, and Reeves H. Blandford, Upper Marlboro.

Youth, 13, Dies In Sledding Mishap

Ronald Russell Sharpless, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leslie Sharpless, of near Kitzmiller, was killed in a sledding accident last Saturday afternoon, December 17, in Vindex.

According to Cpl. R. D. Henline, of the Maryland State police, who investigated, James Solomon Nelson, 43, and of near Kitzmiller, was operating his car westbound on the Vindex road, traveling toward state route 38 when the youth on the sled shot out of a driveway on the driver's right and went under the wheels of the moving car.

Snow piled to a height of three feet along the road obscured the driver's vision and made it impossible for him to see the boy on the sled. Road conditions were also described by police as "hazardous."

Corporal Henline lodged two charges against Mr. Nelson, one for operating an uninspected car and one for operating at a speed too great for road conditions. A hearing is set for after Christmas.

The victim sustained a crushed chest and multiple abrasions and contusions of the body. He was pronounced dead on arrival at the Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland.

Born in this county August 31, 1947, he was a member of the Eighth grade class at Kitzmiller elementary school.

Survivors include his parents, Charles Leslie and Sarah Elizabeth White Sharpless; a brother, Charles Leslie Sharpless, Jr., at home, two sisters, Susie Sharpless, at home, Rebecca Jane Sharpless, Baltimore.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Mt. Zion Methodist church. Rev. Clifford Schell officiated and interment was in the Sharpless cemetery in Mt. Zion.

Rev. Blair Heads Mt. Top Ministers

Rev. Bryan Blair, pastor of the Loch Lynn E.U.B. Church, was elected president of the Mt. Top Ministerial association for 1961 at the regular meeting of the group on Monday. Rev. M. L. Brown, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, was elected vice president, and Rev. Luke Walters, pastor of the Loch Lynn Baptist Church, was elected Secretary-Treasurer. The association meets the third Monday of every month at the Williamstown Hotel providing an opportunity for fellowship and inter-church cooperation on common concerns.

Monday's program featured Rev. M. L. Brown who discussed the doctrines of the Church of the Nazarene and responded to the questions of the group. The business meeting was consumed by a discussion of the Church's witness in current civic problems. The meeting was adjourned with lunch.

People as a general rule, mailed out their Christmas cards earlier than usual, which gave the post-office officials a break for which they were expressing thanks this week.

Postmaster Donald M. Browning, of the Oakland office, expressed his thanks for cooperation of persons in the annual "mail early for Christmas" campaign.

The Christmas mail, outgoing mail that is, reached its peak on the 13th, four days earlier than last year.

The total picture shows an increase in cancellations over last year up to the present time. The December list of cancellations during December, up to and including Tuesday the 20th had reached 121,458, in comparison to 116,009 for the same period last year.

The top day was on the 14th this year when 13,583 pieces of mail went through the cancelling machine. Top day last year was on the 18th when 14,693 pieces were cancelled.

Mr. Browning said that deliveries would be made locally on Saturday so that all incoming mail would reach its destination by Christmas.

Postmaster Browning announced that the windows would remain open Saturday afternoon until 5 o'clock and that all mail and packages would be delivered prior to closing.

He also stated that rural patrons expecting packages could telephone to see if their packages had arrived and that they also would be able to get them by calling at the office anytime up to 5 p. m.

Winter Officially Opens With Storm

Most Of Week Is Blustery —Schools Dismissed On Wednesday

Winter officially began yesterday afternoon, December 21, at 3:27 o'clock, and it was ushered in with another storm such had been prevalent over the past several days.

It also signified the first day when schools were officially closed. Children had been sent home early Monday when a snowstorm developed, but the early dismissal probably did not count against the record.

Visibility on Wednesday morning was practically zero, and roads were icy and hazardous for any kind of travel. Most of the buses, however, had already arrived at the schools when the order came from Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent, to take the students back to their homes.

The new storm was calculated by weather officials to dump about a foot of snow here, the same as was recorded in Chicago on Tuesday evening. However, only about four inches had fallen up to Wednesday evening.

There was four inches of new snow on Monday after a particularly cold night. The thermometer at Weber's, south of town, registered 16 degrees below zero in the middle of the night, but as it became daylight the atmosphere became warmer, bringing it to about zero by 7 o'clock.

Blizzard like weather also prevailed last Friday night and Saturday morning with a snowfall of some two inches. School children were sent home about an hour earlier than usual due to the storm. The temperature had hit 13 degrees above zero during the night.

Snowfall during the week had reached a depth of 15 to 18 inches, and drifting has piled the snow in many places. State and County highways remained open throughout the period although roads were slippery and dangerous.

The threatened snow of Tuesday did not materialize until about 7 o'clock p. m., when an additional four inches was let down during the night. The temperature got above the freezing mark and remained there until about 7:30 o'clock when snow began to fly again and the temperature dropped rapidly into the low twenties.

Sunday was a clear and warm day, unlike the balance of the week.

Schools Resume

The storm apparently ended about sundown Wednesday and clearing skies brought another below zero reading on Thursday morning. The thermometer registered 4 below zero.

Schools were resumed this morning, although attendance was not up to par. It was the final day of school prior to dismissal at 1 o'clock for the Christmas holidays. They will resume on Tuesday, January 3.

BE SAFE

Make Christmas A Happy Time

Christmas is a time for feasting and joy throughout the land. And it is a time of sadness and tragedy for hundreds because of carelessness.

Every Christmas lives are lost or ruined by careless accidents. Some occur from falls while putting up decorations, or burns while cooking, or fires in the home. But the greatest toll takes place on the nation's highways.

Traffic accidents on both Christmas eve and Christmas day are about twice as high as the annual daily average.

Be Careful

Early darkness plus bad weather add up to poor visibility. Fogged windshields also make it difficult to see and avoid accident situations. Rain, snow and ice mean slippery streets and highways, but thousands of holiday drivers fail to adjust to these hazardous conditions.

Loss of lives in home fires is always greater at Christmastime because of decorations and Christmas trees.

Some Tips

Here are a few Christmas safety tips:

1. A small tree can be just as pretty as a large one and is less of a hazard.
2. Stand the tree in water to retard drying and set it up in the coolest part of the room.
3. Use fireproof decoration of glass and metal.
4. Don't set up the electric train near the tree.
5. Check lights for defective wiring.
6. Discard gift wrapping immediately.
7. Don't leave lights burning on the tree when away from home and inspect it often to see whether it is drying out.
8. Discard the tree when the needles start to fall.

Select Toys That Suit Children; Not Their Parents

Many parents forget when choosing a child's toy for Christmas that the use of the toy is the most important thing to consider.

Adults are inclined to choose toys that appeal to them, forgetting to consider what the child might like and what would be most practical.

For instance, intricate windup toys have a limited use since they do only one thing and are very apt to get broken quickly.

Useful Toys

A toy with a variety of uses would be best. Blocks and other construction toys can be used in many games and do not break easily. Boys enjoy dump trucks and transportation toys, while girls like toys that imitate mother's appliances.

Beautifully dressed, expensive dolls are a temptation but most little girls like a doll that can be handled and carried about with them.

They are noisy, but peg boards, hammers and construction toys are popular with the pre-school set. They like active toys—wagons, toy horses and sleds.

School-age children like games with numbers and letters, crayons, pencil boxes and notebooks. Books are popular and will provide much quiet entertainment.

For Girls

Little girls like to play dress-up and it is a clever parent who can fashion an inexpensive gift by cutting off old clothes to fit the children and find old gloves, shoes and hats.

Above all, however, consider appeal to the child rather than to the adult.

New Point System For Highway Safety Going Into Effect

A new point system designed to promote "more respect" by Maryland motorists for traffic laws and rid the highways of chronic offenders, goes into effect New Year's Eve.

Trial magistrates met Tuesday in Annapolis with Department of Motor Vehicles for a detailed briefing on the act and how it will operate. No trial magistrate from this county attended, due to the inclement weather.

The new system was explained as a yardstick and a standardization which is badly needed.

The system involves assessing various points against a driver, ranging from 1 from running a stop sign to 12 for more serious offenses such as drunken driving or homicide.

Eight points mean automatic suspension of a license. For a 12-point offense licenses are automatically revoked by the commissioner.

The law, enacted at the 1959 Legislature, was delayed until the Department of Motor Vehicles could get set for keeping more elaborate records on drivers. It sets up the following points:

1 point—Minor offenses such as running through a stop sign or speeding less than 9 miles an hour above posted limit

3 points—Violations contributing to an accident; exceeding the speed limit by 10 miles per hour or more; reckless driving.

4 points—Permitting an unlicensed operator to operate a motor vehicle.

5 points—Failure to report an accident.

8 points—(automatic revocation) —Leaving the scene of an accident involving personal injury; operating a motor vehicle after suspension or revocation of a license; obtaining or attempting to obtain a driver's permit by misrepresentation; loaning or altering a permit; conviction for any homicide or assault with an automobile; driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotic drugs; any felony involving the use of an automobile.

After getting 3 points persons receive a warning letter from the commissioner of motor vehicles. Five points and the person must come in for a conference about his driving. Eight points and license is suspended (2 to 30 days the first time, 5 to 90 the next time) twelve points and it is revoked until reinstated by the commissioner.

Points assessed will remain active on a driver's record for two years from the date of offense.

Payola Scandals Will Have Effect On Business Gifts

Businessmen will give Christmas gifts in greater numbers this year, but the value and suitability of each gift is being examined with greater care, according to the Business Goodwill Advisory Council.

"Extravagant business gifts of the type associated with the 'payola' are on their way out, replaced with modest gifts selected with an eye toward value and good taste." That's the finding of this non-profit research organization supported by gift-conscious sales managers, the business gift industry's two national trade associations and the industry's trade information service.

The average cost of a 1959 business gift was about $7.50, BGAC reports, down from $14.00 only five years ago. But, the number of individual gifts is estimated to be running 22% above last year; 110% more than five years ago.

Because of the considerable increase in number of gifts, the sales volume of the business gift industry will be close to $300,000,000 this year; up from $253,000,000 last year and $276,000,000 the year before. And these figures do not include liquor and other gifts purchased through retail stores.

"The 'payola' scandals have alerted businessmen to choose their business gifts with greater care," a spokesman said. "Businessmen are now striving earnestly for tasteful gifts that can be presented in a truly thoughtful manner as honest tokens of appreciation."

COMMUNITY TREE

The custom of community Christmas trees, which will be observed this year by thousands of towns and cities, started in 1909 in Pasadena, California, when citizens erected a tree on Mount Wilson.

The first National Christmas Tree was set up on the Capitol steps in 1923 and came from Vermont.

The tallest Christmas tree on record was erected by the Northgate Community near Seattle in 1950. It was 221 feet tall when cut. After trimming, it weighed 25 tons and towered 212 feet in the air.

Christmas, Or JUL: Baked Cakes & Boar

In Scandinavian countries the celebration of JUL, or Christmas, begins on Christmas Eve and continues for 13 days, ending with a "twelfth night party."

Baked delicacies and sweets are abundant during the 13 days and cakes are baked in the shape of a boar, recalling the ancient feasts of the Norsemen which always centered around roast boar.

Scandanavian Christmas trees are decorated with bright gold and silver stars and long strips of gaily colored paper. A small figure of a goat constructed of straw serves as a reminder of the custom of saving the last sheaf of the harvest for the magic it was supposed to possess.

Presents are brought by the TOMTE, tuny, gnome-like figures dressed in Christmas outfits.

Holiday Cards Now In Many Languages

Foreign-language greeting cards, once available only on a limited basis, now are available for a number of foreign countries.

For example, if you wish, you can send holiday greeting cards in respective languages to such countries as Norway, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Sweden, Hungary, Poland, Lithuania, Czechoslovakia. The cards are available in many colorful designs ranging from religious motifs to the traditional symbols of Christmas such as holly leaves and candles.

Much the Same

Actually, manufacturers say, people in other lands have just about the same taste in greeting cards as we here in America. The Three Wise Men, for example, one of the most popular motifs in the United States, is also greatly favored by people of foreign lands. Church scenes, angels, bells, and Christmas decorations—all familiar scenes on American cards—are prominently featured on their foreign counterpart.

Whether the message on the card says "Smagui Kaledu," "En God Jul," or "Buon Natale," it is a universal wish, "Merry Christmas To You."

—o—

UNIQUE DECORATION

Chrismas isn't exactly the season for moth balls, but they can be used to make a unique Yuletide decoration.

Use modeling clay to anchor a tall red or green candle in an apothecary jar. Put in a handful of moth balls and then a quarter cup of vinegar plus a teaspoon of soda for every glass of water needed to fill the jar.

The results may surprise you. The moth balls will dance merrily around the candle for an hour or so. When they stop, another dash of vinegar and soda will start them dancing again.

Holiday Customs

In Norway, there is always an almond hidden in the Christmas pudding and the finder, according to tradition, will be married during the next year. In Sweden, the Yule table is laden with buns, cakes and loaves of varying shapes and colors. Roast goose is the holiday menu headliner for the Danes, who stuff the bird with apples and prunes, and serve it with cabbage and potatoes.

First Aid Course Is Completed By 13

Thirteen adults passed their final examination and completed an 18 hour course in Standard First Aid.

The course was sponsored by the Bureau of Mines, with Harry Buckley serving as instructor. Mr. Buckley is the Bureau of Mines Inspector for Garrett County and has been active in First Aid contest work. His teams have achieved national recognition on more than one occasion.

Some of those taking the course were doing so to qualify for Civil Defense positions; others were enrolled so that they could serve on the Ski patrol at Marsh Mountain.

Those completing the course were Charles H. Bowman, Barney Dunbar, Helmuth Heise, Charily Hinebaugh, Robert Hoffman, Regis Kerns, Tarun Johns, Frank Lambert, John Marple, Audrey Naylor, Howard Naylor, Richard Welch, and Harvey J. Winters.

Wrapping Hints

Do you have trouble gift-wrapping such items as vases and bottles? If so, aluminum foil will solve your problem. The foil molds easily to the shape and makes a very attractive package when set off with a pretty bow.

Don't Overdo It

Be careful not to overdo your outdoor decorations. Your house and yard might end up looking like an amusement park. Even the most expensive decorations will have this effect if not used in good taste. Harmony and simplicity are the key words in planning an attractive outdoor display.

Make Candle Fit

Often a candle is too large for the opening in the candlestick. To remedy this, dip the base of the candle in very hot water, then press it gently into the holder.

Plant Your Tree

Why not plant that living Christmas tree after you are through with it this year? Be sure to get it in the ground as soon as possible after Christmas. The sooner it is planted, the better chance it will have to survive.

Original Gift

Want to give mother and her little girl an original gift? Make them both aprons of similar design and material. Make one for the doll, too.

A Solution

Christmas shopping bags always seem to fall over when set down. But there's a solution. Place the top of a cardboard shoe box in the bottom of the bag.

Deer Park Firemen Elect Officers

Other officers elected included John R. Thrasher, vice-president; George Comp, Jr., secretary; Thomas Beckman, treasurer; Harley Wildesen and Dwight Clary, trustees; William Clatterbuck, chief; Carl Thrasher, assistant chief; Edward Sollars, captain; John R. Thrasher, chaplain.

Deer Park firemen were called to the home of Franklin Welch, in Deer Park, on Saturday, December 17, about noon, when a fire started in a closet. Flames were quickly extinguished and no damage resulted.

Christmas Music

Many are aware that the famous hymn "Silent Night" was written by Joseph Mohr, a German priest, but the origin of some of our other Christmas music is not so well remembered. "O Come All Ye Faithful" is a Portuguese hymn written in the thirteenth century. "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," and "Joy To the World" were written by Englishmen, Charles Wesley and Isaac Watts, respectively.

About Holly

Superstitious Britons considered it unlucky to bring holly into the house before Christmas Eve. Even today, the superstition persists that if the leaves of holly brought into a home at Christmas are smooth (rather than rough) the wife will "rule" the household during the following year.

—o—

Tree Trimming

In most things, one has to start at the bottom and work up. This is not the best approach when decorating a Christmas tree. Trees are much easier to trim from the top down. The tree trimmer who starts elsewhere runs not only the risk of knocking off some of the ornaments but as well the danger of knocking over the tree.

A Christmas Prayer . . .

We thank Thee for this place in which we dwell, for the love that unites us, for the peace accorded to us this day, for the hope with which we expect the morrow, for the health, the work, the food, and the bright skies that make our life delightful; for our friends in all parts of the earth and our friendly helpers in this foreign isle. — Spare to us our friends, soften to us our enemies. Bless us if it may be all our innocent endeavors. If it may not, give us strength to encounter that which is to come, that we may be brave in peril, constant in tribulation, temperate in wrath and in all changes of fortune, and down to the gates of death, loyal and loving one another.

R. L. S.

This year our annual Christmas message takes the form of a prayer, written by Robert Louis Stevenson while he was striving in vain to regain his health. At the time this was written, Mr. Stevenson was living among the natives in the islands of the South Seas.

Decrease Fire Danger

A suggestion for decreasing fire danger because of Christmas trees, trimmings, etc., has been made for the benefit of the general public.

Many fire hazards can be decreased by making flame resistant the tree, decorations, costumes, and heavy draperies. An easy to mix solution contains 9 ounces borax, 4 ounces boric acid, and 1 gallon of water.

The fabrics should be well saturated, wring out by hand and allowed to dry. The mixture can be sprayed on the tree and decorations.

Opening day of deer season in Allegany county was marred by fatal shooting of Glen Burnie man on Town Hill mountain.

The holiday auto death count neared the 400 mark with fire and other miscellaneous fatalities making the grand total 542.

I've Found A Friend

A minister relates how he and a group from his church were holding a cottage prayer meeting in a boarding house. One of the young man lodging there entered in a fun seeking manner to see what was going on. After having a song, a prayer and reading a chapter out of the Bible, this young man asked that they sing a hymn for him, choosing "I've Found a Friend, Oh Such a Friend." And after having sung one versa he began to shed tears, through the singing of that old hymn, he gave his own heart to God. The next morning thiis young man left a note for the preacher which read, "I asked you to sing that hymn because it was a favorite of my sister who is waiting for us at the gates of heaven. I have now promised to meet you in heaven" Dear reader Jesus is the trust of friends, the One that is aver with you to lead and guide you as you travel life's journey. But the important question is, have you found this Friend? Do you know Him as being your personal Savior and friend.

How Can Daddy Leave The Store

Among the things which cause people to forget God is the CARES OF LIFE. Often times business men are too busy running their business to pay any attention to the Lord's business. Their stores are open long hours in the week time and when Sunday comes they do not feel like stirring from their homes, and thus their soul is entirely neglected and God is not in all their thoughts. Perhaps you have heard the story of the little boy who asked his mother, "Mother, will Daddy ever go to heaven?" "Yes, son, what makes you ask such a question as that?" "Well Mother, how can he leave the store?" That Father couldn't leave the store to go to church and to worship God so the little boy wondered how he could ever leave his place of business to go to heaven. But rest assured, my friends, that Papa will leave the store when death comes and calls his name. Yes, and you may get too busy with your little affairs to pay any attention to the Lord's affairs, but, when death calls around, you are going to give up your little affairs and you are going to find out that, after all, they are not so very important.

Mighty Mistletoe

Perhaps the reason that most young ladies do not object too strongly to paying the penalty for standing beneath the mistletoe stems from an ancient superstition—that the maiden who was not kissed at least one time beneath the mistletoe at Christmas would not be married in the following year. In olden times, a berry was plucked from the mistletoe with each kiss.

Christmas Question

For some reason, most of us have come to look upon the first day of the year as the ideal time for examination of conscience and for the setting up of a new set of ideals. Would not Christmas be a much better time? What better time than Christmas for all of us to ask this question of ourselves: "What am I contributing to my fellow man; to Christianity; and to the world in which I live?"

An air force bomber flew 10,000 miles without refueling to set a world record.

Biblical Star Still Puzzles Astronomers

The mystery of the Biblical Star of Bethlehem has for centuries intrigued scholars and astronomers.

Some scholars believe it may have been a supernova, or exploding star. Others think it might have been a comet or perhaps a conjunction of the bright planets Jupiter and Saturn.

If it was a supernova in the Milky Way, astronomers say, it would have unquestionably filled ancient stargazers with awe and the feeling that a great event might be taking place.

A "nova" implies a new star, but actually is not. It is rather an old star that suddenly flares up in a display 20,000 to 50,000 times brighter than the sun. A supernova is about 100 million times more brilliant than the sun.

Guest Star

Japanese and Chinese documents report a "guest star," so bright it could be seen in daylight, appeared in July, 1054. This, no doubt, was a supernova, astronomers say.

Astronomers do not know what causes a supernova. One theory is that the star's supply of hydrogen becomes exhausted. As the star contracts, the core temperature rises to 110 million degrees centigrade. The incredible temperature sets off helium-fusion processes, and the star becomes a huge nuclear fusion reactor which eventually flies to pieces.

ATTRACTION . . . There's something about a Christmas tree, burning brightly in the night, that warms the heart, no matter how chilly the weather may be. Reflected against a background of city lights, this tree is a colorful reminder of the significance of this great holiday season.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

Better Health Through Knowledge

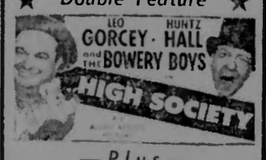
If It's A Boy

- Plant Rash
- Hospital Care

Q. What is the best age for circumcision? Is it always desirable?

A. The time-honored age for circumcision is about the end of the first week of life but it can be done earlier just as well. Give the doctor leeway by making arrangements before the baby arrives. For young babies the procedure is simple and all but painless—later it's quite painful. Aside from the important factor of personal hygiene, there are other possible advantages of circumcision. There is evidence that local cancer in the male and cervical cancer in married women is less frequent among people who routinely practice circumcision.

Q. I have recently developed a skin condition that looks like poison ivy but I have not been near ivy. I do have a recently acquired philodendron plant on my desk. Could this cause the trouble?



A. Yes. Doctors have reported cases of skin eruptions due to this plant. Remove the plant from your desk for a week or two. The rash may clear up.

Q. What is meant by "progressive" hospital care?

A. It is a method of tailoring hospital services to the needs of the patient. The very ill patient receives round the-clock attention comparable to that provided by private duty nursing. As the patient improves he is given intermediate care as needed. The last step is assignment to a self-help unit. Here, the almost-recovered patient does nearly everything for himself. This method, now being tried in a number of hospitals, is intended to provide better overall services without additional cost to the patient.

Three o'clock in the morning is not the time to acquaint your physician with symptoms that have bothered you for days. If you develop trouble, call or visit your doctor during his office hours. Don't wait until the illness becomes acute.

Doctoring Dolls Rewarding Task

Tears filled the eyes of a little girl as she handed her doll to the "doctor."

"My Nancy is hurt. Can you help her?"

"Don't worry," the doctor told her, "Nancy will be all right."

And one hour later Nancy was all right.

The "doctor" who worked this non-medical miracle is one of the nation's foremost experts in the forgotten art of repairing dolls—Irving Chase.

"Doctor Chase" handles "patients" from all over the globe, but most of them come from New York, his home base.

Handed Down

Doll repair has been the Chase family's vocation for at least three generations. Irving Chase learned from his father and grandfather, the latter of whom repaired dolls in Germany.

Chase is referred to by his customers as "Doctor Irving." He refers to the dolls as "patients" and calls his assistants "nurses."

During a typical day Chase does everything from repairing a damaged head to complete refinishing a doll's surface color.

His busiest season is from December through February. In December, dolls are brought in to be repaired so they can be used as Christmas gifts. Following Christmas, his "hospital" is literally swamped with newly broken dolls.

Tree Customs

The Christmas tree custom was started in the United States by Hessian soldiers fighting with the British Army in 1776. German immigrants who later came to this country continued the custom as they had done in the "old country." Christmas trees were in general use in America by the mid-eighteenth century. The first White House Lawn Christmas tree appeared in 1923, placed there by President Calvin Coolidge.

Assessable Basis May Reach Forty Million This Year

The assessable basis of the county this year may run as high as $40 million dollars, it was indicated by the County Commissioners who were busy this week preparing the annual levy.

The assessable basis last year was $38,865,932 and although the Board of Supervisors of Assessments were still working on the assessment records, it estimated the increase would amount to one and one-half million and possibly more. The increase comes from new properties placed on the tax books within the past year, and from discovering various properties that for some reason or another had escaped taxation in past years. There has also been action on the part of the supervisors to make the tax structure more equitable for all persons.

The levy must be completed by January 15. At that time it will be known whether or not the tax rate will be $2.35, the same as last year, or whether it will be higher or lower.

Last year the Commissioners tacked a 35-cent increase on the rate for a total of $2.35 per each $100 of assessable property. It was the first time since 1946 that the rate had been other than $2.00.

The tax rate was set at $2.30 on each $100 with a special levy for fire departments of 5 cents on each $100. The latter was to raise some $24,000 which had to be paid to fire departments as the result of a special law passed at the 1959 session of the legislature.

The Commissioners said this week that most of the departments were asking for some increases in their budgets.

BUSY BUYERS . . . Scenes like the one above are repeated all over the land at this time of the year as holiday gift shoppers throng in and out of department stores, toy shops, and gift centers. This is part of the fun of getting ready for Christmas — and the crowded streets and stores only seem to add to the enthusiasm.

Penn Alps Sponsors Adult Education

During the early months of 1961 Penn Alps, Incorporated, will provide a new service for the people of the Casselman Valley in the form of an adult education program, with three night classes as the main feature of the first term.

Courses will be offered one evening a week over a period of six weeks. These courses, open to 15-20 persons, will include Hymn Study and Appreciation, Conversational German, and Nutrition for Today. Tuition for the six weeks period will be $6.00, this fee to include textual material, which will upon completion of the course become the property of the student.

Vita Schrock, Ph. D., currently on the staff of the Science Department of Frostburg State Teachers College, will serve as director of the program. Other instructors aiding in the program, in addition to Dr. Schrock, will include Rev. Norman Teagne and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Yoder who have recently returned from Germany.

If sufficient interest is shown in the first session of the program, further courses are projected for the future with crafts classes to be featured during the summer months. It is expected that a number of the some 265 producers of handicrafts now marketing through Penn Alps will want to take advantage of such courses.

A meeting of all prospective students will be held on Thursday evening, December 29 at 8:00 p. m., at Penn Alps Headquarters in Grantsville on Route 40. Registration for courses will take place during the evening, and prospective students will have the opportunity to discuss a suitable time for class sessions.

Persons unable to attend the meeting should write or call Penn Alps tel. Twinoaks 5-5121 and make an appointment for registration. This is important so that books may be ordered at once for use during the February-March session. The sum of $3.00 is payable upon registration.

Deer Kill Higher During 1960 Season

Maryland deer hunters scored higher than 1959 in the number of deer kills reported to the Department of Game and Inland Fish during the regular firearms and special archery seasons.

The 1959 figures are 4,993 deer killed which includes 161 animals taken during the special archery season. More reports will be received from two Military Posts, Woodmont Rod and Gun Club and the three day antlerless season, December 29, 30, 31 on the lower Eastern Shore.

These figures compare to a grand total of 4,561 deer killed in 1959 which includes 121 animals taken during the special archery season.

Game officials predict that the 1960 total deer kill will exceed 5,000 animals.

Again this year Garrett County leads all Counties with a total kill of 881 deer. Allegany with 786, Washington, 415, Carroll 16, Frederick, 251, Howard, 11, Anne Arundel 18, Calvert, 25, Charles, 127, Prince George, 18, St. Mary's 15, Baltimore 72, Cecil, 207, Harford 105, Kent 246, Queen Annes, 56, Caroline 62, Talbot, 90, Dorchester 316, Somerset, 31, Wicomico, 113, Worchester, 279, Army Chemical Center, 185, Aberdeen Proving Grounds, 328.

Golden Bough

The "golden bough" which the egendary Aeneas is fabled to have plucked to insure his safe ourney to the nether-world most ikely was the green mistletoe with its white berries. The ancients credited mistletoe with many strange powers. In reality, mistletoe does have medicinal properties. Its active ingredient is gnapsone, which relieves superficial com, a common ailment of old age.

HOLIDAY TREE . . . This is one tree, for sure, that didn't grow on the hillside. It's a sparkling aluminum foil tree, widely available this year, which has a beauty all its own when simply decorated with Christmas ornaments or lights of one color.

New Company Will Furnish Gas For County Customers

Natural gas service to Allegany and Garrett county customers will be furnished by Columbia Gas of Maryland, Inc., starting Jan. 1, 1961.

Columbia Gas takes over the function of Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Co., in Maryland as part of a long range program by Columbia Gas System to simplify its operations throughout its seven state area.

Personnel of Columbia Gas of Md. will be the same gas company people who worked to maintain C & A service to Maryland customers, vice-president G. E. Wilson says. Columbia Gas will adopt the present Maryland rates and charges of C & A, the official said.

Columbia Gas of Md., will sell gas only at retail to residential, commercial and industrial customers in Garrett and Allegany counties. C & A, however, will continue to serve its West Virginia customers, produce gas and maintain its gas transportation supply system.

Gas used by Maryland customers will be purchased by Columbia Gas at wholesale rates from C & A.

Under the Columbia System realignment program, one retail company will operate in each state. Today, in some states two or more companies do business as a retail gas utility, but also produce gas, store it and operate gas transportation systems. Ultimately, production, storage and transmission operations will be performed by one large wholesale pipeline company in the System selling gas to each state-wide retail utility.

Pictures Out Of The Past

One activity of former days which is gone but not regretted is the fine art of cutting ice, shown in this weeks old photograph.

Before the days of household refrigeration, or even central ice manufacturing plants, ice cutting was a necessary and important task, for enough had to be accumulated in specially built ice houses and caves to last through the summer months when no other refrigeration was available.

The picture above was taken about 1885 at Wilson Lake, then a sizeable body of water on what is now the property belonging to Lowell Loomis, behind the Garrett County Memorial hospital.

Some idea of the size of this activity locally may be judged from an account published in 1886, in which it was stated that "Quite a number of people gathered to watch the workers on Youghiogheny lake, about three and one-half miles from Oakland, who were engaged in the cutting of ice for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Sixty men were employed, cutting as 500 tons each day."

Another reference a few years later discloses that 25 men were employed on each of two shifts to cut ice on Broderick lake in Oakland, also for the Railroad.

The ice was usually cut when it was between 12 and 15 inches thick.

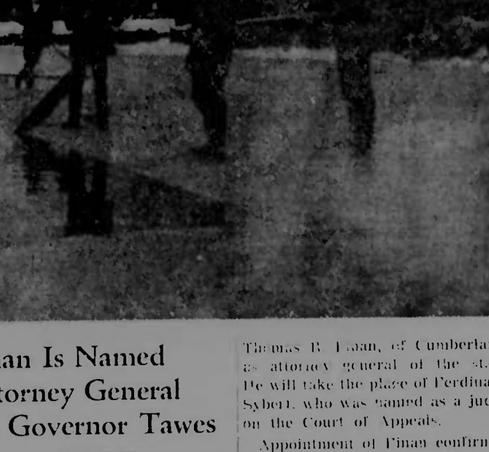
A report in 1902 states that "Cutting ice on Mountain Lake Park lake is the business of the day. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad closed a contract with Mr. Rudisell (general superintendent of the Mt. Lake Park Association) for 2,300 tons of ice. He is cutting ice twelve inches thick and at the present time free of snow. Eight pieces of ice 22x30 inches weigh 2,200 pounds."

Finan Is Named Attorney General By Governor Tawes

Gov. Tawes on Monday appointed Thomas B. Finan, of Cumberland, as attorney general of the state. He will take the place of Ferdinand Sybert, who was named as a judge on the Court of Appeals.

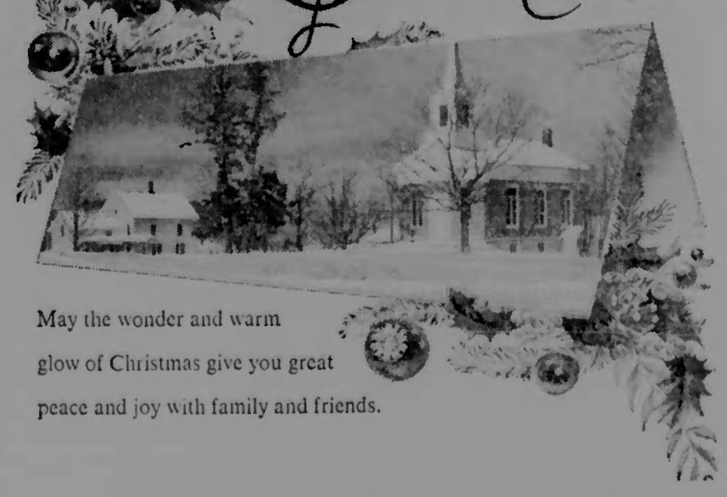
Appointment of Finan confirmed earlier speculation that such appointment would be made. He is expected to be in his new duties when Sybert is sworn in on the high court. He said he planned to continue temporarily as state chairman of the Democratic party.

The governor has not designated who will succeed Finan as secretary of state, an appointive post.



Christmas Party Held By Woodmen of the World

Rev. Charles Godwin served as Master of Ceremonies at the Annual W. O. W. Christmas party, held Saturday evening, December 17th. Members of the Southern High School Senior Chorus who entertained were Sue and Patty Martin singing "Silver Bells," Carolyn Bittinger and Mike Cook singing "Oh Holy Night"; Ronald Colaw and Fred Bell singing "The Birthday of a King". Ronald Colaw, Fred Bell, Brenton Propst and Clayton Winters, known as The Talents, sang "The Christmas Story" and "Winter Wonderland." Tom Forman accompanied the group and Susan Gibson president of the chorus, announced the selections.



Deanna Fike performed two dance specialities a tap dance to "I Can't Wait Till Christmas," and a modern jazz dance to "In The Mood."

W. O. W. awards were presented and refreshments were served. Several members of other camps were present.

It's wonderful to receive "the world" for Christmas—but think how much more wonderful it would be if we could give Christmas to the world! If the true Christian spirit could permeate the globe, all fear of war, destruction, extermination, would be over.

It is only through the Church that Christian teachings can hope to reach to the darkest corners on earth, bringing enlightenment in their wake. By proclaiming God's eternal message, the Church can bring the hope of peace closer to reality.

But if Christmas is to be given to the world, then all of us must first do our part by living our own individual lives in the Christian way. Start now—by attending regularly the church of your faith.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

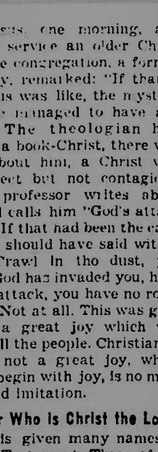
LUTHERANS BELIEVE...

That the Christ Child looked like any other baby.

Yes, He looked like any Hebrew baby of His day. He did plenty of sleeping. He got hungry. He cried. And, as He grew up, He looked like any other boy in Nazareth.

Yet, when He was older and started preaching, He claimed to be God. At one point in His life He declared in no uncertain terms, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father."

That a baby, born of a woman, in a stable, in an insignificant land, should claim to be God is an offense to some people, but not to a Lutheran.



To a Lutheran this is a miracle . . . a miracle performed by the God of creation, in order that He might show man His love by sending His Son to become a man, living among men, feeding and healing men, and finally dying on a cross for man.

It was more than a human baby who came that first Christmas Day—it was God in the flesh.

Hence, Lutherans believe God became man and was born of a virgin and was called Jesus Christ.

God's Gift

Lesson for December 25, 1960

ON THE last Sunday of the Old Year, it is fitting that our thoughts should go back along memory's lane through the shadows and sunshine of these past 12 months. But since the last Sunday is also Christmas, our minds go far, far back on the road of time, to a story we all heard as children. It is a story that ordinary prose can scarcely tell. The story of the first Christmas is told in poetry. The light of beauty shone on the child at Bethlehem. Not only in the gospel of Luke, but all through the New Testament, whenever a writer speaks of Christ's coming to earth, joy and wonder break all bounds. A baby was born on that first Christmas, a baby who was a statistic in the Emperors census. Some people live and die, no more than numbers in a census-book. But with Jesus it was altogether different.

Dr. Foreman

"A Great Joy Which Will Come"

Looking only at Luke, we select three expressions out of the first words about Jesus after he was born. The reader can do no better, if a little open time comes on this Christmas afternoon or evening—no better than to sit down with this second chapter of Luke and mull over the other things that were said about the baby and the child Jesus. The three thoughts where we center attention all come from the angel who spoke to the shepherds.

The first thing he said was "Be not afraid." It would have been a good thing if all the creeds, and all the thinking about Jesus that learned and unlearned men have done for the 20 centuries now nearly gone, had started at this point. A scholarly theologian had just finished preaching a sermon about Jesus one morning, and after the service an older Christian in the congregation, a former missionary, remarked: "If that is what Jesus was like, the mystery is how he managed to have any friends." The theologian had preached a book-Christ, there was no joy about him, a Christ who was correct but not contagious. Another professor writes about Jesus and calls him "God's attack on man." If that had been the case, the angel should have said with a scowl, "Crawl in the dust, you worms! God has invaded you, he is about to attack, you have no room to hide." Not at all. This was good news of a great joy which will come to all the people. Christianity which is not a great joy, which does not begin with joy, is no more than a sad imitation.

"A Savior Who Is Christ the Lord"

Christ is given many names in the New Testament. Three of the most important are here in the angel's words to the shepherds: Savior, Christ, Lord. What Christ had, and has, to do with the forgiveness of sins, was left in God's providence for other men to learn. God did not send his angel to instruct the Shepherds in a Theory of the Atonement, they were not told a word about a Virgin Birth. They were shepherds, not theologians. They would not have understood such matters. But they could understand "Savior." It was an Old Testament word, sometimes it meant God and sometimes it meant a man. "Deliverer" expresses the meaning the Old Testament puts into the word. A Savior was always one who did for others what they most desperately needed and did for them what they could never do for themselves.

The shepherds understood the other words too, Christ and Lord. Christ the Messiah, God's chosen King, we have seen how this promise was clung to through long centuries. If this baby was the Christ, it meant that the long waiting and hoping was over, God's Kingdom was now at hand. And Lord—the word was not new. It was on imperial documents, it was on the imperial statutes, men had died cruelly, and would die again, because they would not call the Caesar "Lord." But here was a Lord, THE Lord of mankind, even of Caesar.

Students and faculty members will be dismissed from school today at 2:30 for the Christmas holidays, with school resuming on Tuesday, January 3 at 8:55.

The annual Christmas dinner was served yesterday consisting of hot turkey sandwich, whipped potatoes, mixed vegetables, Christmas salad, bread and butter, ice cream, brownies and milk.

F. N. A. Christmas Projects

According to Carolyn O'Brien, club reporter for the Future Nurses of America, they have several projects completed for the Nursing Homes in the area.

Club members made placemats, which are Christmas cards cut out and glued to construction paper with a Bible verse on them.

Name cards for each member in the area nursing homes were distributed earlier this week and decorations for doors were sent also.

Christmas cards were sent to college students who graduated from Southern in recent years and were members of the Nurses Club.

Hold Open House

Mr. and Mrs. W. Kenneth Johns held an open house for the faculty members, their wives and husbands, and the custodian staff last Sunday at their home in Mt. Lake Park.

Secretary Resigns

Southern's school secretary, Mrs. Lola Paugh, resigned effective January 1 to move to the Garrett County Board of Education offices.

Mrs. Paugh has been at Southern since its opening in 1952. Everyone at Southern wishes her the best of luck in her new work.

Miss Joy Hamill, a graduate of Southern in 1957 and from Zion Bible Institute Class of 1960, will assume the secretarial duties.

School Youth Seek Holiday Season Free From Fire Hazards

Elementary school children in Grantsville, Accident, Friendsville are joining this week in a campaign to make the approaching Christmas season free from the hazards of fire.

These youngsters, who qualified as Junior Fire Marshals during Fire Prevention Week in October, will visit stores, markets and tree nurseries to attach to Christmas trees tags listing seven fire safety rules.

Dan Hershberger, Grantsville insurance agent sponsor of the local year-round Junior Fire Marshal campaign, pointed out that last year more than 1,000 American homes were struck by fires traced to Christmas trees and decorations.

The colorful "Golden Rules for a Happy Yule" tag list these ways to keep trees safe from fire: Stand tree in water or bucket of wet sand; check tree lights for frayed wire, loose sockets; keep tree away from radiator, fireplace and doors; use only fire-resistant decorations; turn off tree lights when you go out; keep gift wrappings and electric trains away from tree, and when needles start to fall, remove tree from house.

The special holiday safety tags, Mr. Hershberger explained, are part of the winter phase of the public service fire prevention program sponsored locally by the Hartford Fire Insurance Company in cooperation with schools and fire departments.

The Junior Fire Marshal program was started 11 years ago by the Insurance Company. Built to the seven-old youngsters qualify by completing fire hazard inspections of their homes during Fire Prevention Week. To date more than 30-million boys and girls have become Junior Fire Marshals.

Health Department Reports on Activity During November

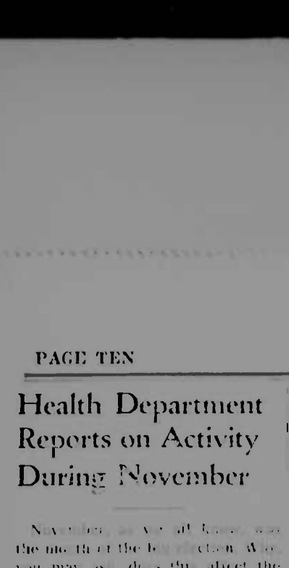
November was a busy month at the Health Department. The month that the heaviest election work was done, but you may ask, does this affect the Health Department? The answer is that not one deceased person in this County, as has happened at places at times, voted in this election.

The Maryland State Department of Health is charged with the responsibility of keeping all vital records and statistics of the counties of Maryland. (Baltimore city keeps its own) and in the future may even keep the records of the marital status of its citizens. Birth [illegible] 1898 but many [illegible] records go back to [illegible] about 1880. These records are [illegible] duplicate the original [illegible] in Baltimore and a copy is kept in the County Health Department. Copies of the birth record of persons born in County [illegible] outside of the county are sent to the local departments and the duplicates also to the death records of residents who die outside of the county. The county Health Department supplies the election board monthly with a list of all county adults who expire so that their names are removed from the voting records. The same list is sent to the Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles allowing them to free their files of dead wood. It should be pointed out here that those who were born in this county but whose birth was not recorded should apply to the local Health Department for instructions and forms of obtaining a "delayed birth certificate."

Public Health Nursing

This month the School Board finished the sight screening with the Massachusetts Vision testing apparatus in the public schools. Only the second, fifth and seventh grades were tested in 1960 but referrals were accepted of any school child suspected of having eye faults. Some 180 children failed the test. These records are sent to the Health Department where it becomes the responsibility of the health nurse to see that these children are examined by an eye specialist. Parents who are financially capable of paying for this are asked to do so, whereas for the children of parents not able to do so arrangements are made to see these children in the eye clinic. This means that the children who cannot be seen by the county's one Optometrist must find transportation to Cumberland to be seen in the Allegany County Clinic. It is hoped that the County Health Department may soon be able to establish an Eye Clinic in Oakland that would service all these children. This is not a County Health Department budget item. It is financed through the bounty of the Oakland-Mountain Lake Park Lions Clubs, the Friendsville and the Grantsville Rotary Clubs, the American Legion, and the Red Cross.

Medical Care



At the staff meeting of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital held the evening of November 3rd the speaker was Doctor Alice Tobler, Chief, Division of Home Medical Care from the Central Health Department. Doctor Tobler's address and explanation of the Medical Care Program with the long question and answer period was of such interest that all other business had to be dispensed with for the evening. It seems that several matters brought up for discussion in the course of the evening will become incorporated in the state program. This program is not a budget item in the local Health Department other than the salary of the local medical care clerk.

The local activities of this Department were: Prescriptions, 750; Indigent, 143; Medically Indigent, 89.

Sanitation

On the 30th of November and the 1st of December a Food Service School was held by the Health Department at Deep Creek Lodge at McHenry. This was conducted by John Meadows, Supervisory Sanitarian of the State Health Department, in charge of food and drink establishments. This was presented in two morning and two afternoon sessions with movie films, exhibits and lectures. Unfortunately, the time of the school coincided with Garrett County's introduction to winter and although the school was well advertised by a hand bill to all food and drink establishments, the attendance was rather disappointing. Those who attended both days were given a card certificate. The total attendance was sixty. Those who attended unanimously expressed a desire for more schools of the same or an extended order.

You don't have to spend all your money to have a beautifully-decorated home at Christmas. Use ingenuity. Make most of your own decorations. In adition to the savings, you'll find that it's fun—and highly satisfying.

For example, stir up your own tree ornaments in a mixing bowl. Combine plastic starch and laundry detergent to make a stiff mixture. Then make frosty icicles by dipping bobby pins into the mixture. A loop of string tied through the closed end of the bobby pin serves as a handle for the dipping and as a hangar to put it on the tree.

Burned out flash or light bulbs make lovely tree balls if painted in gay colors. Stick on colorful seals, sequins, or ribbons for a finishing touch.

Popcorn strings, an old favorite, are colorful Christmas-tree ropes if you pop the corn two or three days before stringing, and dip it in a thin sugar syrup colored with vegetable coloring.

Save lids from paper ice cream cups, then trim by pasting on colored designs cut from old Christmas greeting cards. To hang, slip a paper clip or wire through a hole punched in the tab of the lid.

ANNOUNCING PAYMENTS TO RAMBLER BUYERS AS RAMBLER'S SALES VOLUME INCREASES

Why You Should Join Rambler's New Crusade For Adequate Progress Sharing With Customers

GEORGE ROMNEY
President, American Motors Corporation

"I believe participation by all consumers in economic progress is absolutely necessary in meeting the nation's economic needs."

Rambler's rise to a top position has put us in position to undertake a new crusade. This program, which could provide greater individual and national benefits than any we've yet undertaken, calls for customer progress sharing.

As volume goes up, costs come down. So, sharing economies that would result from a 50% Rambler sales gain over last year for the period December through March could provide payments to customers of $18,698,062.

But, before presenting our new Rambler crusade, let me review some highlights of the last one.

When we forged our basic Rambler concepts, U.S. cars were in a size, horsepower and styling-change race that cost the car buyer money. So, we developed the compact, economical, modernly engineered Rambler.

CONSUMER BENEFITS FROM LOWER PRICES

Because of low volume, we had to price our first Rambler Americans about equal with Chevrolet and Ford, traditionally "lowest priced."

As our output and economies increased, we shared the resulting economic advantages with Rambler customers. Despite inflation, we kept prices low. We also concentrated on durability and quality. That is why Rambler excels in trouble-free operation, as shown by trade surveys made by others.

What has this done? It has increased our sales—made us a vigorous new competitive factor, compelling all competitors to introduce compact cars. Their compact cars unquestionably are better buys than their big cars, because their big cars don't have the compacts' advanced engineering.

Despite these moves to meet Rambler competition, Rambler American models are now priced not only below competitive big cars but below their economy compacts as well.

In addition, Ramblers provide customers several exclusive trouble-free engineering advances such as the acid-proof, rustproof Ceramic-Armored muffler and tailpipe.

The Rambler line includes three basic sizes of compact cars—Rambler American, Rambler Classic and Ambassador, the latter two developed after the original American series.

RAMBLER SALES SOAR

In two years, Rambler's per cent of market has more than doubled. For the last 38 straight months, Rambler sales have established a new record for that month. We want to continue this growth by serving you even better.

THE NEW RAMBLER CRUSADE

Our new Rambler crusade, like our compact crusade, is based on sharing Rambler progress with car buyers.

We believe the new Rambler crusade has timely significance. Our country currently is experiencing a mild economic slowdown—with rising foreign competition and weakness of the dollar. Our larger competitors are considering partial manufacture and importation of cars for the U.S. market from abroad. There is a general profit squeeze.

We believe the greatest single economic cause is that relatively too much of the fruit of industrial effort has been going to a few well organized economic groups, not to the consumer.

CUSTOMERS TO SHARE RAMBLER PROGRESS

We decided there was something we could do. We decided to share future progress with ALL customers who take delivery of a new Rambler or new Metropolitan between December 1, 1960, and March 31, 1961, from an authorized Rambler dealer (excluding governmental sales), giving them most of the benefit of additional cost reduction resulting from further increases in Rambler sales volume.

This can mean a sharing with Rambler buyers during the 4-month period of government savings bonds (Series E) with a maturity value from $3,679,850 (10% sales increase), to $24,930,750 (50% increase). See chart for details.

HOW PAYMENTS TO BUYERS WILL BE DETERMINED IN AMERICAN MOTORS' CUSTOMER PROGRESS SHARING PROGRAM

IF SALES ARE UP (over last year)	BUYERS RECEIVE U.S. SAVINGS BONDS (Maturity Value)	BOND PAYMENT SALES LEVELS DECEMBER (Dec. sales)	JANUARY (Per. Jan. total)	FEBRUARY (Per. Jan.-Feb. total)	MARCH (4 month total)
50%	$125	45,247	97,671	140,139	195,946
40%	$100	42,231	91,159	130,796	182,883
30%	$ 75	39,214	84,648	121,453	169,820
20%	$ 50	36,198	78,136	112,111	156,757
10%	$ 25	33,181	71,625	102,768	143,694
SALES FOR SAME PERIOD LAST YEAR		30,165	65,114	93,426	130,631

NOTE: In all cases, "BUYERS" means a person who actually takes delivery, not places an order.

WHY IT WILL PAY YOU TO BUY NOW. This unique program is cumulative and retroactive. Early buyers can get more, but never less bonds, than buyers in succeeding months. Your Rambler dealer will be happy to give you the complete details of the plan but here is a quick example of how it works and keeps on working for you:

If December Rambler deliveries increase 20% over last December, December buyers of new Ramblers or Metropolitans will receive $50 bonds. As the four-month period progresses, additional bonds will be mailed to the December buyers each time the cumulative sales reach a higher bond payment sales level.

Also, if sales increase for the four-month period exceeds 50%, proportionate additional payments will be made to all buyers during any of the four-months.

Monkeys are caught by filling a coconut shell with chopped coconut meat. The monkeys grasp a fistful and, unwilling to let any go, cannot withdraw their paws. So, they are easy victims. The U.S. consumer is not yet as scrawny as shown, but unless there is a more equitable division of the productivity increases, he will get that way. One of the three American groups must let go and set an example—or all will be captured and, along with the consumer, all will suffer.

BOTH CUSTOMERS AND AMERICAN MOTORS GAIN

You have everything to gain and nothing to lose by joining this crusade. The same is true for us.

You can't lose because Ramblers are better than big cars and the best of the compacts. Ramblers are more trouble-free, more useful, lower priced.

You make your regular deal in the regular way for a new Rambler. You then may share proportionately in the economies and profits of higher Rambler volume in December, 1960, and the first three months of 1961.

We gain by acquiring more Rambler owners, which will make our growing market even larger in the future. That's because Rambler owners become Rambler salesmen and are the most loyal "repeat buyers" of any make.

Ask your neighbor all about his Rambler, then join the Rambler crusade. Join us in focusing the nation's attention on the essentiality of equitably sharing economic progress with ALL consumers if the WHOLE NATION is to prosper.

George Romney

P.S. Some may say one company can't do much about national problems as big and complex as those cited above. Well, that's what skeptics said about Rambler's first crusade. Let's remember, every great thing is born small. If this new Rambler crusade is right, it can succeed and spread, just as the compact car concept did.

Mr. Romney's recent New York Press Conference on "Customer Sharing and the Nation's Economy" attracted nationwide notice. For complete text of his statement, write American Motors, Box 29, Detroit 32, Mich.

ARTHUR A. MORRILL
and
PAUL R. MATEER Jr.
Assistant District Foresters

Garrett County has been allotted only 654,000 tree seedlings for 1961. This is only slightly more than half of the number of trees planted last year. In 1960 more than 1,000,000 trees were planted by private landowners in Garrett County Foresters Arthur A. Morrill and Paul R. Mateer, Jr., report that even now about ¼ of the trees allotted have been promised to local landowners. These trees are furnished free of charge by the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks on a strict first come first served basis. Late comers are certain to be disappointed.

Trees which for some years have been treated only casually in economic current resources in many parts of Western Maryland, are again coming to the fore in figuring out the local economy.

Trees are beginning to count again, say the local foresters. The economists back them up, as for instance here in Garrett County where tree planting and tree harvest, along with related activities, are rated at about a quarter million dollar annual factor in the local economy.

At a recent session of technical foresters of the Department of Forests and Parks for Western Maryland, District Forester Thomas Thayer was asked to give a breakdown of this new economic aspect of trees in that County.

After explaining the depleted forest conditions in many Allegany upland areas and the shifting market demands which have accounted for a worsening of the local forest economy since World War II, Thayer stated that a pick-up in tree planting interest in the county was first noted about 10 years ago.

The foresters do not claim the whole credit for this upsurge in interest, Thayer said. Business opportunities, he said, such as the new practice of growing trees, especially cultivated for the Christmas tree market have helped. Also public conservation programs help in defraying the costs of labor for clearing land and putting the trees in the ground.

After discussing these matters with local bankers and industrial leaders, Thayer said he thinks the economic value to the County area as a result of the past ten year effort could be summed up somewhat as follows:

Value of 6 million trees delivered, planted and growing on the hillsides of the County estimated at a worth cost cost of $25.00 per thousand at present rate of growth at $150,000.

Income to date, as far as known, from Christmas tree and like sales $17,000.

Income to County from Agricultural Conservation program and like sources by way of sharing landowner planting and other labor costs $23,000.

Incidental expenditures for gasoline, cartage, tools, equipment and incidentals for planting management operations and sales undetermined, but probably in excess of $20,000.

This, said Thayer adds up to a total economic value of around a quarter million dollars. And it is a continuing value he said. It is more apt to get better than worse as more products are harvested and more trees are planted to take their place from year to year.

Thousands Visit Holy Land

Jerusalem and the Holy Land at this time of the year attracts thousands of Christians from throughout the world. They come by every means of transportation to visit the shrines and Holy places so important to the Christian world.

In Bethlehem they find the Church of the Nativity, traditional scene of the birth of Christ, which is cared for by monks of many sects.

From the Mount of Olives, where Jesus prayed and wept over Jerusalem, visitors can see the great beauty of the Holy City and the great wall that Herod built. Beyond it is the Dome of the Rock which tradition says marks the place were Solomon built his temple and Jeremiah hid the Ark of the Covenant.

The Garden

Near Jerusalem is the Garden of Gethsemane where Jesus prayed the night before he was killed. Some of the olive trees are said to date from the time of Christ's entry into the Holy City. The garden is cared for today by Franciscan fathers.

The tomb of Mary, mother of Christ, is near here and attracts many pilgrims.

Visitors to Jerusalem today can not enter by the Golden Gate. It has been blocked and they must use the Dung Gate which leads into the North African Quarter.

The Holy Place

From inside this gate one can see the holiest places in Christiandom—the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, erected over the place where Christ was crucified and buried.

It was completed in the twelfth century by the Crusaders and many different Christian orders have shrines here.

One of the many traditions of the church is that the keys are kept by a Moslem of the family of Nusaibeh. This custom has been in practice since the time of Saladin who was Sultan of Egypt and Syria from 1174 to 1193.

Supposedly by letting the family of Nusaibeh keep the keys to the church it will keep peace among the many Christian factions.

These are but a few of the many shrines and Holy places that have attracted millions of pilgrims throughout the centuries and will continue to do so for centuries to come.

A FAMILY CHRISTMAS

We hear many complaints today about the modern generation's lack of that old-time Christmas spirit. Maybe this is because in times past, much of the pleasure was derived from preparing for the holiday. The whole family worked together in order to get ready.

In those days, there were no ready made Christmas trees. The men of the family went to the nearest hillside or wood plot and chopped one of their liking. Tinsel, angel's hair, ornaments, and electric lights could not be bought anywhere. All the tree decorations were homemade and it was custom for the entire family to take part in their preparation.

Old Spirit

It would be foolish indeed, not to take advantage of today's many beautiful ornaments and decorations made possible by modern industry. Yet, we can still recapture a little of that old time Christmas spirit by making some of the decorations as a family project.

A variety of ornaments are possible from such materials as plastic foam. A cookie cutter, for instance, can be used to outline such shapes as snowmen, Santa Clauses, gingerbread men, dolls, clowns, and stars on a one inch sheet of plastic foam. After the shapes are cut out with a sharp knife, each member of the family can decorate an ornament. They can glue sequins to the figures to form features. The foam can be tinted with food coloring or felt can be glued to the ornament to add extra details, such as hats, ties, and buttons. A pipe cleaner inserted and glued to the top of the ornament provides a hook.

Decorating the tree, is usually a family project, enjoyed by both young and old. Preparing the decorations for the tree can be equally enjoyable and memorable.

Gift Giver Has Different Names

The Christmas-time gift-giver has many different names in the various lands of the world, and even in Russia youngsters annually await the arrival of two legendary benefactors.

Kolya (Nicholas) is supposed to go about Russia on Holy Night, leaving tiny wheat cakes on the windowsills and in addition there is "Babushka" who also gives gifts to little boys and girls (in repentance, a legend says, for supposedly mis-directing the Magi on their trip to Bethlehem)

Italian Children await the arrival of "Lady Befana," a fairy queen who presents gifts. Some Spanish children believe the gifts come directly from the child Jesus—"el Nino Jesus."

Time To Reflect

In the midst of it all, with once-ornate decorations reduced to floor litter, with toys scattered all about the house, in the tumult and the din of it all, there should be one moment for quiet meditation, for reflection, and for thanksgiving; not for the gifts, nor the well-wishes of the givers; but instead for another Christmas—lest we forget the real purpose of it all.

State Supervisor, H. M. McDonald, was in attendance.

A discussion on the qualifications of an officer was held before the election of Regional One officers for the coming year. Students were nominated from the floor but had to be present to be nominated.

The closing ceremony was presented by the new officers. This was followed by lunch, basketball, and several other activities.

Sweetheart Dance

The Annual F. F. A. Sweetheart Dance was held in the Cafeteria on Friday evening, December 2.

June Evans, a junior, was crowned Sweetheart by Glen Green, president of the local chapter of The Future Farmers of America.

June's escort was Lyle Weimer. June Sweitzer was runner-up.

Those competing with June Evans for the queen honor were June Sweitzer and Melvin Gank; Mary Evans and Brooks Hamilton, Kathy Sweitzer and Wolford Perando; Raymai Weeks and Richard Rinker.

The winner was determined by the greatest number of penny votes placed in labled jars.

Final Official Vote Gives Kennedy 111,957 Over Nixon

Final official vote tabulation gave Kennedy a vote plurality of only 111,957 over Republican Richard M. Nixon in final official tabulations.

Total vote for president was 68,833,274, almost seven million more than the vote in 1956. Minor parties polled 336,293.

The official figures: Kennedy 34,214,355, Nixon, 34,102,398, others, 502,521. Percentage of major party vote was 50.1 for Kennedy to 49.9 for Nixon.

Toys, of course, are the first thing we think of when we start running down the list of young folks on our gift list. For the very young, that is. When we start deciding what to give to the pre-teen and early teen set, we have to use a bit of imagination as well as a bit of realistic thinking. Too often, we overlook the wonderful world of books.

To the impressionable youngster, good books open the door to adventure, travel, mystery, to endless hours of entertainment, recreation and education.

Books are easy to select and give. All one must know is the age, reading ability and capacity, and interests of the youngster for whom the gift is intended. While books are ageless, youngsters are not; they have their own individual likes and dislikes and a book on a subject in which they are not interested would be as useless to them as a shirt four sizes too big. The same is true if the subject matter of the book is "too old" or "too young." There is no such thing as a book for youngsters "6 to 16." The age span is too wide and the diversity of interests will be even wider.

Buy Wisely

Some well-intending persons buy books or book sets for the school-age as gifts for infants, thinking they are purchasing a "lasting" gift. Actually, they are wasting their money. If the books are not torn or misplaced by the time the child is old enough to read and appreciate them, most likely the information contained in the books is outdated.

Books for youngsters are written for a select age group not for a select age. At 15, two boys may have entirely different reading tastes as well as reading abilities.

Books make excellent gifts for persons of all ages. But, like a glove or a shoe, they must "fit" the recipient if they are to be fully appreciated.

That prized holly tree you have been wishing for years can probably stand heavier cuttings for holiday gifts than most home owners realize, horticulturists report.

Test show that broken holly branches can be cut rather severely over a period of years without resulting fatal void or disease. The Lee Appearance of the tree, rather than possible damage, can pretty well dictate the extent of pruning.

In addition to cutting holly for gifts, the home owner may often be approached by professional holly cutters willing to buy holly.

Properly done, this pruning can serve to improve the shape and maintain the size of the tree.

Caution should be exercised, however, to be sure the cutters are professionals.

Control of Alfalfa Weevil Outlined

Alfalfa growers are expected to find it easier to control alfalfa weevils next year following new recommendations from the University of Maryland entomologists. Their latest recommendations call for either a fall or winter application of dieldrin, or a spring treatment with lindane.

Dieldrin can be applied in three ways: as spray form, 2- fertilizer insecticide mixture, 3- granulated form. The application rate is one pound of actual dieldrin per acre regardless of the form in which it is applied. This insecticide must be applied after the last cutting before spring growth begins. It is very important that it be used only during the dormant season, and that treated fields not be grazed previous to the first cutting of hay.

Lindane may be applied in the spring when larvae are present on the alfalfa. It must be applied at least fourteen days before cutting or grazing the crop. Lindane should be applied at the rate of one-half pound actual lindane per acre in a spray form with 20-25 gallons of water per acre. It is cautioned that alfalfa should not be sprayed with lindane if a root crop such as potatoes, carrots or turnips will follow in less than one year. Lindane may cause an off flavor in root crops.

Further information on alfalfa weevil control may be obtained through the County Extension Office.

CHRISTMAS TREES

...one symbolizes good will
...one caps a reservoir of natural gas

CHRISTMAS TREES. The eternal symbol for . . . Peace on Earth, Good Will toward Men. Soon Christmas, 1960, will be here. But the arrival of the New Year will see the familiar evergreen Christmas trees removed from homes. For the most part, they will not reappear until the 1961 Yuletide season rolls around.

However, there's another Christmas tree that stands year 'round and serves as a reservoir of comfort and cheer. You don't often see it. Very rarely is it near town. It's normally located dozens, even hundreds, of miles away. Sometimes, as far as Texas or Louisiana.

This Christmas tree is the steel assembly that fits on top of a producing gas well. It is the only visual symbol of the thousands of dollars invested to locate the reserve of gas far below.

The gas well Christmas tree stands about as high as a man. Yet, it's a minute symbol of the lofty and bulky drilling rig that sat there for months . . . daily penetrating the earth's underground rock strata until the valuable natural fuel supply was reached.

The evergreen Christmas tree is bright . . . pretty . . . a symbol of today's hope for Peace and Good Will.

In contrast, the gas company's Christmas tree is mute . . . hard . . . cold to the touch. But, it works always to provide dependable natural gas to homes and industries. Comfort and Cheer in a different manner . . . from natural gas, the preferred fuel.

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to everyone.

Civil War

rative, the names of men from the two counties would be to know whether a suspected Garrett county veteran resided in either the Glades or Sandy Creek Hundreds district of Allegany county the two areas which subsequently included most of Garrett county.

About George Marley

At least a dozen persons have asked about the omission from last week's list of the name of George Marley, perhaps the best remembered of local Civil War veterans.

The reason, of course, is that Mr. Marley was not a member of the local G. A. R. post, and in fact did not serve as a Garrett county soldier at all!

He enlisted in Company C, 99th Regiment, New York Infantry, had a colorful career including action at Cape Hatteras, where he was wounded, and at Gettysburg and Antietam. He witnessed the historic battle between the Monitor and the Merrimac and later took a great deal of pleasure in describing the engagement.

As a young boy, the writer remembers Mr. Marley, with his black hat, white beard and cane, as a fixture in patriotic parades and rallies. Readers of The Republican may recall that Mr. Marley and other Civil War veterans were featured in one of the first "Picture Out of the Past" when that feature was started in this newspaper.

Mr. Marley died on March 23, 1941, just a week and a day before his 104th birthday.

However, it was only after the Civil War that he came to this section, where he became one of the first settlers of Deer Park. He recalled that Senator Gassaway Davis brought him there from Washington to dig a well. He then worked for Senator Davis for some forty years, acting at one time as police chief for the town.

Whether Mr. Marley's name will eventually be included in any future "complete" list of county Civil War veterans will depend on the requirements set up by the compiler.

Other Readers Comment

Miss Ruth McRobie has called attention to the omission of the name of her father, Thomas McRobie, who served with the Union army. Apparently he, like many others, was not a member of Cruck Post, but he should be recognized in any more expanded listing.

From Baltimore, Felix Robinson points out the work being done by Mr. Durst, and suggests that attention be called to his efforts. Mr. Robinson estimates that perhaps some 300 local men served during this war.

Alvin H. Terrant, of Lonaconing, has supplied additional information about Richard T. Browning, who was included among the names previously printed.

Interested in the Civil War, Mr. Terrant writes, "I have two volumes of all men who enlisted in the Army, Navy and Marines from Maryland, from 1861 to 1865. I also have Harper's Weekly for the year 1861, and a history of the various battles of the Civil War, published in 1866.

"Among the enlistments appear the names Broadwater Bittinger, Hershberger, and an Ashlord Warnock. These, I feel, are Garrett county names."

Mr. Terrant adds that according to records in his possession 62,959 Marylanders served in the Union army, 15% of the male population. Projecting this figure to the 1860 census of what is now Garrett county, the estimated figure of 300 veterans would appear to be nearly correct.

Last week, it was pointed out that an examination of "A Compilation of the Official Records of the Union and Confederate Armies" disclosed that Oakland is listed only twice in its index to over 100,000 pages.

Some 15 years ago a friend of the writer, now deceased, made a personal examination of these records. In 1947 he prepared a manuscript based on his findings, and supplemented it with some personal sidelights and recollections of his own.

A future article will be based on this manuscript.

Is Your Name WINTERS?

Winters, an old and honored surname, is principally of English and German origins. It admits of at least two derivations. According to some authorities on the origin of names, it signifies "descendant of Winter", the latter being the name given to one who was born during the winter months. It is said also that Winters was often assumed, when surnames first came into vogue, by those whose business was that of making or selling wine.

Jacob Winters (1760-1827) served as a private in the Pennsylvania troops during the Revolutionary War. He was born and died in Lancaster County.

The first census of the United States, taken in 1790, has eight listings of persons by the name of Winters who were residents of Maryland and heads of families at that time. Five of them lived in Frederick County.

There are sixteen references to persons by the name of Winters in the latest directory of Phi Beta Kappa, the honorary scholastic society.

John F. Winters (1883-1959) was known widely for his accomplishments as a scientist with the National Lead Company. He served also for a number of years as tax assessor of Cedar Grove, New Jersey, the community where he made his home.

Robert A. Winters (1886-1950), a native of Glasgow, Scotland and a graduate of the Royal Academy of Music of London, came to the United States in 1922 and was professor of music and bandmaster at Christian Brothers Academy, Albany, N. Y., for a number of years.

Robert Hubert Winters is executive vice-president and a member of the board of directors, National Can Corporation, Chicago.

Richard John Winters is professor and chairman of the department of economics, Seton Hill College, Greenburg, Pennsylvania.

Claude Ernest Winters, an authority on atomic energy, is assistant director, Oak Ridge National Laboratories, Union Carbide Nuclear Company, Oak Ridge, Tennessee.

Special Crosses Replace Dual Purpose Chicken

The day of the so-called "dual purpose" breeds of chickens of former years is about past. The distribution percentages of breeding chickens in the National Improvement Plan, 1959-60, totaling over 36 million chickens in the U. S., showed 65 percent as being crossmated; 15.5 percent were White Leghorns; 7.2 percent White Rocks; and 6.8 percent incross mated. The favorites of other bygone years, Barred Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, and New Hampshires only accounted for just over 3 percent of the total, reports Mr. Wade H. Rice, Extension poultryman, University of Maryland, College of Agriculture.

Emphasis on efficient production of meat or eggs has resulted in special crosses or incrosses which excel in only one of these products. As a result, Mr. Rice explains, little demand remains for stock designed to produce both meat and eggs. Specialization in either broiler production (meat) or egg production has resulted in a relatively few breeding farms virtually controlling the market demand for each type of stock, he adds.

Random sample test data on both the leading meat and egg type stock is of interest to producers in selecting their source of stock. However, Mr. Rice says, a rather critical review of the test data available, fail to show a distinct and consistent advantage of one breeding line over others in all desired characters. All show certain deficiencies which the breeders are still striving to improve. Among these qualities are: resistance to leucosis, body size, egg size, interior egg quality, rate of growth, and many others which breeders are still striving to develop in a more perfect combination.

So a change to a well known though untried line of breeding, may, or may not, prove an advantage to a producer. Any change, Mr. Rice warns, should be tried in a small way at first, to determine if the advantage outweigh the disadvantages involved in making the change.

The popularity of holly as a Christmas decoration is not merely because the plant retains its prickly green leaves and bright red berries after winter's cold has withered other forest greenery.

Before the Christmas, Romans sent gifts of holly to friends to mark the December festival of Saturn. The superstitious Druids kept holly in their dwellings, as an invitation to the "spirits" to enter and seek shelter from winter cold and winter winds. The early Germans used holly in an observance which marked the return of the sun from its southward pilgrimage.

In medieval times, holly was used as a remedy to treat a variety of aches and ailments. Some early American Indians even attached twigs of holly to their shields. In the belief that some special powers within the holly would make them more formidable in battle.

Holly, like mistletoe, is surrounded by legends and superstitions, dating back to pagan rites and rituals. We moderns attach no particular significance to our use of holly as a Christmas decoration—other than that it is "traditional" and "pretty." Yet, we use so much more holly than our ancestors used that today the plant has all but disappeared in some sections of the country.

Oat Losses From Yellow Dwarf Virus Cited

Last summer, barley yellow dwarf virus caused spring oat losses of 10 to 50 percent in infected fields in the Northeast, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Infections were low in the north-central and northwestern oat-producing States, where losses ranged up to more than one-third of the crop in 1959. Most heavily infected this year were Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, and Maryland. Losing more last year were Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Oregon, and Iowa.

Federal-State research to halt spread of the virus has been intensified. Maryland plant pathologist, agronists and county extension agents are aware of this disease. Breeding of oats with more tolerance to the virus appears to be the only practical control, they say.

Three different strains of barley yellow-dwarf visus, which cause a disease of oats, barley, and other grains—have been identified by a USDA scientist, W. F. Rochow of the U. S. D. A.'s Agricultural Research Service.

The strains are differentiated from each other by the fact that each is usually carried by a different aphid species. Aphids are the only means by which barley yellow dwarf virus (BYDV) is transmitted to plants.

What species of evergreen is best for use as a Christmas tree? Forestry experts and U.S. Department of Agriculture experts say that there is no "all-round" best species.

Here are some facts about the most common species which may be helpful in selecting the right tree for your home:

Balsam fir—once the most commonly used, is now relatively scarce. It has short, flat, dark green needles attached to opposite sides of the limbs in a feather-like arrangement.

Top Tree

Douglas fir—the top commercial tree. It has blue-green or dark yellow-green needles, soft and pliable, attached all the way around the limbs, giving it a bushy, full appearance.

Scotch pine—long needled variety. It has needles which are arranged in clusters on the branches. It holds its needles exceptionally well.

Black spruce—a hardy tree, but has a dark, un-Christmasy color. It is widely used for dyed and treated trees.

White spruce—another hardy, attractive tree, but unfortunately it gives off an unpleasant odor.

Some things to look for in selecting a tree: retention of needles; full symmetrical shape; limbs without sagging; fragrant odor, springy branches.

BUSINESS GIFTS

Modest Gifts In Good Taste

Formed last year by a group of sales managers interested in clearing the air relative to the subject of business gift buying, the Business Goodwill Advisory Council has taken the first significant step in this direction.

In a folder entitled "Business Gifts At Christmas—Good or Bad?", the organization set forth seven basic "Keys to Success" in the selection and distribution of business gifts. The rules developed by BGAC are:

1. Keep your gifts of modest value in relation to the importance of each recipient as an employee, prospect or customer. Extravagant gifts smack of bribery.
2. Choose your gifts individually, considering the tastes of each group of recipients, or preferably, of each individual recipient.
3. Choose only high quality gifts that are useful, durable and dependable.
4. Personalize each gift, if possible, with the recipient's name or initials.
5. Package each gift attractively and securely.
6. Accompany each package with a personal note, greeting card or at least a special gift label.
7. Deliver each gift with a flair, if possible—personally or by special messenger — and preferably to each recipient's home rather than to his office.

The organization makes a strong point of the fact that "as a result of occasional abuses . . . some businessmen have made the mistake of forbidding their employees to accept business remembrances before realizing that such a public statement bares basic mistrust of the employees and inevitably results in very poor employee and public relations."

On the other side, detailed surveys have shown that "business giving is generally on the upswing; that the practice is definitely worthwhile, but it does depend on how it is done."

"The giving of well-chosen remembrances can be a highly rewarding practice," the survey concludes. "Goodwill generates easily and it generates best when the remembrance is presented in a truly thoughtful manner as an honest token of appreciation."

Scouts Present Sister And Brother Outfits

Girl Scout Troop 98 has collected over 32 little sister and little brother kits and given them to children in Center Street and Dennett Road Schools. Each girl brings in one good out-grown complete outfit of her own and one from her brother if she has one. These outfits are packaged along with a small toy and handed down to a needy smaller brother or sister as a Christmas present from the Troop.

Busy mother keeps tab on phone calls
Diary shows phone saved days of time, 156 miles of travel and $11.70 in two weeks

Mrs. Harris of La Vale, Maryland, talks over Choral Society plans with a friend—while 4-year-old Carolyn keeps tabs on Mother.

Mrs. Harris is the mother of two small boys, ages 6 and 8, and a pre-school daughter. Her husband is a teacher. With youngsters this age, and a husband whose profession calls for continual contact with parents, a phone often seems like a necessity.

Mrs. Harris decided she'd find out for sure, so for two weeks she kept tabs on her phone calls with a telephone diary. The diary spelled out the value of phone service in hours saved—fewer miles of errand running—and resultant savings in dollars and cents that virtually cut the cost of phone service to nothing.

Probably you don't keep a telephone diary. But if you did, we think you'd be pleasantly surprised at the many ways your telephone pays for itself.

MARRIED

Hutchison-Spear — A quiet double ring ceremony was performed on Friday, December 2nd, at 7 o'clock at Elkton, uniting in marriage Miss Donna Spear, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Raymond Spear, of McHenry, and Ronald Lee Hutchison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hutchison, Sr., of New Castle, Delaware.

The bride was attired in a white street length gown of Chantilly Lace over net fashioned with a fitted bodice, high collar and long fitted sleeves. Her veil of bridal illusion fell from a crown of pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with white and pink carnations and long white satin streamers tipped with lily of the valley.

Mrs. Eugene Sheats, sister of the groom, was matron of honor, and wore a pink ballerina length gown with pink and white carnation corsage.

Eugene Sheats, brother-in-law of the groom, served as best man and little Cynthia Sheats, niece of the groom, was flower girl.

Mothers of the bride and groom wore beige with matching accessories and wore pink carnation corsages.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the carpenter's union hall in Wilmington, Delaware, with an attendance of about 75 friends and relatives. The bridal table was centered with a five tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom figurine.

Music for the occasion was furnished by recording artist Bob Cox and the Town and Country Boys.

Northern Hi Tops Salisbury 82 to 57

George Patton racked up a total of 41 points and grabbed 33 rebounds in sparking the Northern High school Huskies to an 82-57 victory over Salisbury High school in a game played last Thursday night at Cove.

Patton sank 16 shots from the field and converted 9 of 19 fouls. Larry Yommer scored 19 points for Northern with McCurdy getting 8, Thomas 3, Spiker 4, Finzel 6 and Frazee 1.

It was the second victory for the Huskies against as many losses.

Maust and Yoder with 22 and 15 tallies led the Salisbury attack. Salisbury lost four players via the personal four route.

Northern held an advantage of 15 to 11 at the quarter, but was one point behind at the half 33 to 32. A rally in the third period put them ahead by eight points at 55-47, and then hit for 27 points in the final period while holding Salisbury to 10.

Northern hit on 22 of 48 foul attempts while Salisbury got 13 for 29.

The Huskies will wind up their pre - Christmas schedule with a game with Bruce High of Westernport on the home court this evening, December 22.

Maryland public school enrollment was placed at 599,363.

RAISED IN SONG . . . Young voices, raised to a chorus of Christmas hymns—this is one of the memorable moments of every Christmas. And when the sounds of "Silent Night" fill the silence of a mighty church, there comes within every heart the urge to sing out with happiness and joy.

SEEING SANTA . . . Visiting Santa to inform him in advance of the things to put under the tree is a yearly tradition just about everywhere. Santa is a kingly, big man—sometimes, it seems, too big for the very young, especially if mommy happens to get more than a couple of feet away. Santa, stout-hearted fellow that he is, seems to take it all in stride. Just part of a day's work, you know.

Mistletoe Legends

There's more to mistletoe than just its reputation as "the kissing plant." Everyone knows, of course, that, for some reason no one is quite sure about, it's permissable for a boy to kiss the young lady so unlucky (?) as to be caught standing beneath one of these sprigs of green with white berries (a plant, someone has placed on a chandelier for some young girl to stand under, to be kissed by some young lad . . . unexpectedly, of course).

All this notwithstanding, it is supposedly an all-healing plant that will ward off poisons and keep animals healthy. At least, this is what the superstitious believed, in earlier days. Some considered it a present from the sun, others a gift from Jupiter. In voodoo rituals, it's the accepted antidote for palsy, apoplexy, epilepsy, and what-have-you.

Druid priests sought mistletoe, preferably growing on an oak tree, "on the sixth night of the moon", so that it might be cut with a golden scythe and caught in the flowing robes of the priests. Thus gathered, and following the sacrifice of two white bulls to show gratitude for the gift, mistletoe was supposed to possess all sorts of magical powers.

The Greeks are generally credited with associating mistletoe with love, as it was used in their marriage rites and the ceremonies of hymen are reputed to be the forerunners of present usage as a kissing plant.

No Birthday Party Without Christmas

Were it not for the observance of Christmas, the greatest of all birthdays, there would probably be no birthday parties throughout the rest of the year. In ancient times, only pagans took part in birthday festivities. Early Christians associated birth with the assumption of original sin and therefore did not look upon the birth date as a time for celebration.

The Pharaohs of Egypt celebrated their own birthdays, and we are told that King Herod did, too. But it was not until the 300's that the birth date of Christ was even noted. In the year 354 the Bishop of Rome declared December 25 to be the anniversary of the birth of Christ and from that date until now, Christians have observed this most wonderful of all birthdays.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 84 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY MD., DECEMBER 29, 1960 | PER COPY, 8c | NUMBER 11.

We Recommend . . .

We heartily recommend to our readers in this final issue of 1960, the copy of the letter which Frank Peters, local business man, has sent to the planners of socialistic schemes concerning the aging. We commend the letter as being filled to overflowing with wisdom and sound thinking. We feel the writer has a sense of deep patriotism, and a feeling that such schemes have gone as far as they ought to go without a deep study of all the angles.

A person who criticized welfare programs opens himself to severe criticism for being a tight and hard hearted person, one without any form of compassion, one who doesn't care about his fellow men.

It's because he cares about a person's constitutional freedom and his ultimate self respect that Mr. Peters sounds off about this problem of the aging. It's just one more step in the path toward pure socialism and communism, and it's a subject that has a lot of support—mostly because people are unwilling to think.

Ever since the Franklin Roosevelt administration, the trend in people has been definitely away from responsibility. Roosevelt instituted this cradle to the grave security, welfare programs, boondoggling projects and other schemes that have given people a false sense of security, a feeling that it isn't necessary to work to live, a feeling that the federal government owes every person an adequate living.

Little by little an individual's personal freedoms, those guaranteed by the constitution, have dwindled away, under laws passed by a supposedly benevolent state.

Everybody agrees there is a problem but another handout by the federal government is certainly not the answer.

So we commend the letter to our readers. Brief comments on their reactions would be welcomed. A number of them could be published. Let your congressmen and senators know how you feel, too. The letter is printed in today's issue.

Resume of County Events During Past Year Is Given

By Wilbur W. Close

International events are, of course, ultimately important to every person. One may read of bickering in the United Nations, violence in the Congo, tragedy in the air and on the sea. But withal, there is a feeling of impersonality about these subjects which fill the air waves, television screens and pages of daily newspapers.

The course of history during the past twelve months has touched Garrett county, too. These are the events which affect directly and personally our lives as we live them from day to day.

As Father Time prepares to make another departure from the local scene, a brief resume of the effects of 1960 on the lives of Garrett county residents might include some of these highlights:

January

The first big news story of the year was one not likely to be celebrated. The County Commissioners announced that the tax rate previously set at $2.00, would have to be raised due to increases in appropriations sought by nearly all departments of the county government. It finally was set at $2.35.

Three damage suits were filed in court here on behalf of victims of the train-school bus accident at Mt. Lake Park in 1959. Each totaled $125,000 and were placed against the B. and O. Railroad and Leroy Campbell, bus driver.

Final figures on the 1959 deer kill showed that 619 of the animals had been slain in Garrett county during the season.

Gas production for the fourth quarter of 1959 showed an increase over the previous report.

Also before the court during the month was a suit to determine the legal widow of Richard Browning. Two different persons had claimed his estate, both claiming to have been his legal wife.

The month ended with a small hint of things yet to come. Four inches of snow were recorded, the first during the year.

February

The Town of Oakland totaled up its assets and liabilities and declared 1959 to have been a good one financially. At the end of the fiscal year, the city fathers still had over $10,000 in current funds.

And there was good news too, in the announcement that plans were in the offing for locating a half million dollar lumber processing plant in the Oakland area. A preliminary movement to raise funds for this project was being discussed.

The Groundhog made his annual weather prediction, and pulled one of the biggest bloopers of the year. Misled by the comparative mildness up to February, he confidently predicted an early spring.

Hardly were these "prophetic" words printed when a raging blizzard swept through the county, creating drifts up to seven feet and closing the schools for a day. Before this mess could be cleaned up, another series of wind and snow storms, with a 30 inch fall,

Youngster Is Killed In Auto Accident

The five and one-half year old son of a former resident of Bloomington was killed Christmas day when he was struck by a car in San Angelo Texas.

He was Kevin Clark, son of S Sgt Clifton Thomas Clark, formerly of Bloomington, and Betty Clark, native of England.

The child was born in England. Besides his parents he is survived by a sister, Sharon, and a brother, Charles E. Clark, both at home.

The body was scheduled to be taken to the Beal funeral home in Westernport this morning where funeral services won't be held.

Fined By Magistrate

Sheridan Simms of the Pleasant Valley area was found guilty of a charge of being drunk and disorderly at a hearing before Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney on Tuesday December 27. Simms had entered a plea of not guilty.

The charge of being drunk and disorderly had been sworn out on Saturday, December 24.

Maroney assessed a fine of $20 and cost of 10 days in jail in default of payment of the fine and cost were paid.

Train Derailments Delay Holiday Mail

Two Baltimore and Ohio railroad freight trains derailed in Montgomery county within five hours last Thursday, delaying holiday mail to the Oakland area by several hours for both train No 11, on Thursday, and train 23 and No 11, on Friday. No one was injured.

The first derailment occurred about 7:30 a. m. one mile west of Boyds. Thirty cars of an 86-car train jumped the tracks.

The second took place about 12:25 p m just west of the Rockville station at the Westmore crossing. This one involved four diesel locomotives and 20 freight cars. Both were westbound trains.

The Boyds derailment disrupted through train traffic between Washington and the west.

Conservation Group To Meet Tuesday, January 3

The Garrett County Conservation association will hold its regular meeting on Tuesday, January 3rd, at 8:00 p. m. at the Oakland Fire Hall. This is the Association's annual get together night for all members and potential new members. Both guests will be welcomed and a door prize will be given.

Stores Report Holiday Trade Generally Good

Christmas business among the stores of Oakland was considered very good this year, most of them declaring that the month of December would show either as good as last year or better.

Most of the merchants said that business was on a par with the last two years. The stormy weather of the past two weeks had its effect in cutting down on the volume, but this was made in the last few days before the holiday.

Grocery stores also in the main were as good as the previous year or better.

There was some unusual sales angles in a number of the stores. Some merchants stocked up on certain items which they felt would sell and they didn't. Other items which had not sold particularly in other years, sold extensively this year. Some merchants had a difficult time keeping certain items in stock, they went out so fast.

Wheeled goods, as a general rule, moved sparingly, while sleds, skis and ski equipment sold well.

Some merchants were unsure whether the over-all pattern for the year would show much of an increase. Some said the business this week-end would be the difference. If there was a good business this week-end it would be enough to put them "over the hump." Otherwise the year-round business would show a slight decline.

Some felt that the difference in the year-round pattern was because of generally poor business in the summer months. Tourist business in general was less than previous years. People who came to spend several days at the lake while on vacations, apparently brought most of their supplies with them and spent little time in Oakland at the various stores.

One store proprietor said that people were looking for quality this year as well as price, and that quality toys sold well. American made toys also had the advantage over Japanese or German made articles, became of quality he said.

One merchant, who said he was very happy over the Christmas business, said his December business had come within a few dollars of being the same it had been for the previous two years.

Another one, who also said he was happy over the Christmas business, said that he had increased his stock quite a bit and had increased his business accordingly, but also had more merchandise left over which would mean a bigger inventory.

There were some disappointments. A few merchants complained that prominent items had not moved well. But the overall pattern was one of satisfaction that business had been as good as it was.

One pointed out that it was always necessary to go out after business by newspaper and other types of advertising, and that merchants never should feel complacent but be constantly on their toes, in search of additional sales.

Normal Wheat Yields Same As Last Year

County normal wheat yields for 1961 will be identical with those for 1960, it was announced by William L. Dudley, chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

The law provides that normal yield for any county shall be average yield for the ten years preceding the year in which the normal yield is determined. Since 1961 yields are being established in calendar 1960, the 1950-59 base period will be used again. Mr. Dudley states that the committee may recommend an adjustment in cases where it believes the 1960 county normal yield does not reflect the proper relationship with adjacent similar counties. The 1960 county normal yields were reviewed by the committee for Maryland and no change for 1961 was recommended.

The 6.6 normal yield established for Garrett County was 35.8

Bill Would Propose Idle Pay Law Change

A major bill to be considered shortly after the General Assembly opens next Wednesday will be one which proposes seven revisions of Maryland's unemployment compensation laws.

The bill is recommended by the Legislative Council. The first change would affect the second round of benefits and is designed to prevent a claimant who has drawn 26 weeks of benefits from one employment from drawing another round of 26 weeks from this same employment as can now occur.

The second affects the waiting period for benefits. The proposal would add a section to provide that all claimants must wait one week before drawing any benefits. At present, the Legislative council reports, benefits are payable at once, without any waiting period.

The third deals with pension payments and workmen's compensation benefits. It is designed to disqualify or reduce benefits to eligible claimants who also receive pension payments, workmen's compensation or certain other payments.

A fourth proposal would increase the present maximum payment of $35 to $38.

A fifth proposal would limit payments to claimants for dependents to those dependents for whom the claimant furnishes their chief support.

The sixth would affect disqualifications for voluntary quits, misconduct and failure to accept work. The proposed amendment provides that claimants in these cases must become re-employed and earn 10 times their weekly benefit amount before any benefits are payable. At present such claimants are penalized from one to 10 weeks after which time benefits are payable.

The last would prevent payment of benefits to pregnant women from the date of diagnosis of pregnancy until two months after birth. The present disqualification extends from two months before birth to two months after birth.

Most People of Area Careful in Driving

Most people in this area showed they were safe drivers over the Christmas holiday week-end.

Only one accident was reported and this was a minor one with no serious injuries.

Corporal Robert Henline, of the State Police, said he investigated one accident Saturday morning, December 24 along U. S. route 50, in front of the John Bachtel home. Henline said Dennis Gilbert O'Conner, of Maidsville, W. Va., had struck the parked automobile owned by Patricia Ann Bachtel, causing considerable damage to the 1958 Chevrolet.

Henline said O'Conner told him he went to sleep at the wheel. He had several teeth knocked loose by the impact and was shaken by the blow. He was driving a Corvair which was only slightly damaged.

Henline said he had charged the man with reckless driving.

Gets Appointment To Naval Academy

Congressman John R. Foley announced this morning that he had appointed Leo Martin, of Mt. Lake Park, to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. This appointment is effective next September.

Martin was named by Congressman Foley last year as a third alternate. Because of complications of those above him who could not qualify for one reason or another, he became first alternate. Now for some reason the one selected last fall has been unable to fill the appointment, leaving it open for Martin.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Britten Martin and is a student at Potomac State college of West Virginia university.

It is the 1st Naval Academy appointment for a Garrett countian since Wilbur W. Grant was named a number of years ago.

March Of Dimes Set For January

A bowling tournament and various other activities are being planned for the March of Dimes campaign this year, scheduled to get under way here January 1, and continuing throughout the month of January.

March of Dimes mailers are being sent to rural families and all are expected to be distributed by the first of January, and Charles L. Briner, campaign director for this county, is urging that these mailers be sent back to the Community director as soon as possible with their contributions.

Briner said contributions were desperately needed to finance the national foundation programs to prevent crippling diseases of birth defects, arthritis and polio.

He explained that the county had obligations totalling over $5,000 for patient aid alone. One case is now in a clinic in Cleveland, O., resulting from an attack of polio this summer. He said that the county had twelve cases of polio in 1960 and that the patients must be aided back to normal living.

The annual Mothers' March in Oakland will be held on January 31. Briner said that volunteers were needed to help in this two-hour event. Those desiring to help may contact Mrs. Eugene Taylor, the Oakland chairman.

Boy Scouts are to deliver January calendars to each home in Oakland by January 1. These calendars have a space for a dime each day. They are to be collected by Mothers' March helpers on January 31. Containers also will be placed in stores.

The bowling tournament will be held at the Oak Lanes recreation during the month. Teen-agers of Southern and Northern high also are planning a number of special events. Dick Stuck heads the group at Southern High while Vonda McKenzie heads the group at Northern High.

J. B. Emory Dies In Local Hospital

Jerome B. Emory, aged 85, of Bittinger, died Wednesday, December 28, in Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland, where he had been a patient nearly two months. He had been in ill health for several years.

A native of Virginia, Mr. Emory was a son of the late George and Anne Brunelle Emory. Mr. Emory operated an insurance business in that town for many years and was a justice of the peace until a few years ago when he retired. He had served as a correspondent for The Republican for many years.

Mr. Emory suffered an eye injury while playing ball when he was quite young and lost his sight when about thirty years of age.

Survivors include a son, Leroy Emory, Bittinger, a daughter, Miss Ruth Emory, also of Bittinger; three sisters, Mrs. Charles Bradley, Grantsville; Mrs. Lillian Hinston Lansdowne, Pa.; and Mrs. Marie Hinebaugh, Oklahoma; five grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Newman Funeral home in Grantsville where funeral services will be conducted Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. Emory McGraw, pastor of the Grantsville Methodist church. Burial will be in the Bittinger cemetery.

Pennsylvania Woman Dies In Car Crash

A 61-year-old Markleysburg, Pa., woman was one of two women killed Monday night in a two-car collision on U. S. route 40, about 11 miles east of Uniontown, Pa., bringing the Christmas holiday death toll on Pennsylvania roads to at least eight. Three men were injured in the crash.

The woman was Mrs. Ida Conneway, who was riding in a car being operated by her husband, Paul D. Conneway, 61, who was injured.

Also killed was Tattie Sue Morton, Washington who was traveling in a car operated by Martin V. Hughes, 23, of Washington. He was injured. Also injured in a Cecil Lewis, 17, Markleysburg.

142,500 Cancellations At Oakland Post Office

This is some four thousand less than for December last year, but the Christmas season cancellations were considered some larger.

The Christmas mailing period usually is considered from the 11th through the 24th. Last year during those dates 104,507 pieces had been cancelled. Biggest day last year was the 18th with 14,690. Biggest day this year was the 14th with 13,583. The 20th was almost as large with 13,350 cancellations. Last year the 21st was almost as big as the 18th with 14,574.

Browning said parcel post was very heavy, and about the same as last year. There is no way of checking the number of pieces of incoming mail handled but Browning said it was extremely heavy also. He felt that the postal staff had handled the Christmas rush in an efficient manner and more satisfactorily than last year.

"Ford Times" Shows Marsh Mt. Ski Area

A picture of the Marsh Mountain ski area is pictured among those shown accompanying an article this month in "Ford Times," titled "What Cars did for Skiing," written by Nancy Kennedy.

The writer feels that skiing and automobiles have grown up together. Some three million Americans slide down the slopes these days, it has been estimated compared to only a few hundred in the early thirties.

The story today is one of booming economics, according to the writer, saying that "skiing has entered the big time."

The photos accompanying the article include the El Pocono Ranch resort, south of Scranton, Pa., Cannon mountain ski area New Hampshire; Ski lodge on Marsh mountain overlooking Deep Creek; Mount Shasta Ski bowl in northern California; Big Mountain Chalet, northwestern Montana; and Sky Tavern, south of Reno, Nevada.

The caption accompanying the local photo says: "The Ski Lodge on Marsh Mountain overlooking Deep Creek Lake is sixty-six miles south of the Somerset exit of the Pennsylvania turnpike on U. S. 219, near Oakland, Maryland. Thousands flock into this newly developed winter recreation area south of the Mason-Dixon line which has been famous as a summer resort for half a century. There are ski trails for beginners and experts as well as ice skating, ice boating and ice fishing." The photograph was by C. H. Echols, Jr.

Doe Season May Be Extended Next Year

A special three-day antlerless deer hunting season opens today on the Eastern Shore and the Maryland Game and Inland Fish commission is hoping for a kill of 1,000.

Complaints of crop damage are continually increasing, according to Ernest Vaughn, director. He said many does and button bucks must be harvested to keep the deer population in line.

The doe season was originated three seasons ago and the commission admits the results have been disappointing.

Vaughn has said that he hopes that by next year the commission will be empowered to declare a doe season in the Western counties where it is needed. It was the commission's belief that a thinning of the does from Frederick to Garrett county would result in a strain of bigger deer sporting bigger racks.

The Federated Sportsmen's clubs of Western Maryland has opposed the antlerless doe season contending it would be unsafe to hunter and would endanger the deer herd.

Vaughn said orchardists would get a law permitting them to kill all deer on their "croplands," if something was not done. He said deer damage was serious in orchard areas.

Bloodmobile to Be In Oakland Jan. 11

The next visit of the Johnstown Bloodmobile unit will be made in Oakland on Wednesday, January 11, it was announced this week by Mrs. Grover C. Stemple, blood recruitment chairman for the American Red Cross.

The unit will be set up at the Oakland fire hall and the hours will be from 12 o'clock noon until 6 p. m.

Mrs. Stemple said she hoped the response would be enthusiastic. She pointed out that one of the officials had said recently, that "to be allowed to make a contribution toward saving a life is one of the highest privileges that can come to a human being."

Residents Shiver In Below Zero Weather

The plunging temperatures took the thermometers down as far as 23 degrees below zero and on two days of the week the mercury did not rise above ten degrees above zero. Skiing for the most part was excellent, except for Monday when rain began falling about 1 o'clock and continued until after dark.

The possibility of light snow in the area on Wednesday did not materialize and the day was moderate with the temperature getting to the freezing or rather the melting mark.

The drop in temperature last Thursday night and Friday night occurred in a peculiar way. Prior to 11 o'clock Thursday night the mercury had dropped to about 16 below. At 11:30 however, the skies had clouded and the temperature got up to 4 above. During the night the skies cleared and there was another drop, this time the official reading at Weber's was 23 degrees below zero. Snow began to fall on Friday but skies cleared later in the morning. Temperature remained from four to eight above all day.

That night it was 16 below zero at 9 p. m., only to have it again cloud and produce a reading of 8 to 10 above zero Saturday morning. There were further snow flurries Saturday.

Sunday was moderate with sun melting the ice and snow. Monday was cloudy with rain beginning to fall about noon. This continued until evening when there was a sudden drop in temperature. It dropped rapidly to the early 20's and Tuesday morning dawned with a 20 degree above zero reading. There was some slight snow. Wednesday was clear most of the day after a reading of 6 to 10 above early in the day.

A new fall of snow last night and this morning added about two inches to the total. Cloudiness continued and there were indications that more snow would fall over the week-end.

PE Power Service Disrupted in Area

The Accident, Friendsville and Cove area of the county was plunged into darkness for about 55 minutes last Thursday night when equipment at the Potomac Edison company sub-station at Carlos developed trouble.

The Carlos sub-station is located about two miles south of Frostburg. When the trouble developed, protective equipment immediately grounded out the 133,000 volt line, according to Olin Savage, assistant district manager at Frostburg.

Other automatic equipment tied in with other lines feeding Georges Creek and Frostburg. But at the sub-station at Hoyes where there is no automatic equipment, service was disrupted and had to be restored by manual means. This caused the delay.

The basketball game at Northern High was in its final 4½ minutes when the failure occurred.

Change In Road Markings Advised To Aid In Safety

Recommendations Made By State Roads Bureau Of Traffic

Improvements in road markings at three highway points in this county to alleviate apparent potential hazards, have been recommended to the State Roads commission through a study made by the Bureau of Traffic.

Requests for these improvements were made by the Circuit Court for Garrett County in a recent grand jury report, by State Senator Bernard I. Gonder, and by the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland. The requests followed a series of automobile accidents at two points, the one point being the intersection of U. S. 219, with state route 135, at the east edge of town, and the other point being the intersection of U. S. route 50 with U. S. 219, at Red House. Another study also was made of the hazards at a dangerous curve on state route 135, just east of Bloomington.

The bureau recommended that "stop ahead" signs be replaced with larger ones and that "reduce speed" signs be placed in advance of the "stop ahead" signs. A large "slow" sign was recommended for the Bloomington area hazard.

A copy of the letter sent to John B. Funk, chairman of the State Boads commission, by George N. Lewis, Jr., chief of the bureau of traffic for the commission, was received here this week by Senator Gonder, and was released for publication.

A copy of the letter was also sent to John D. Bushby, district engineer, with the request that he put into effect the recommendations for increasing the safety factor at the three locations.

US 219 and US 50 (Red House)

For a number of years we have had in operation at this intersection a flashing signal, giving a red indication on US 219 and an amber indication on US 50. In studying the accident pattern at the intersection which, incidentally, is not very heavy, there being only four accidents reported as having occurred at the inter-section since January 1, 1959; all four of the accidents involved a southbound motorist on US 219. We feel that

Sons Will Testify in Woman's Death

The two sons of John Sherlock, 38, of Angola, Ind., who is being held for the alleged murder of his mother, will be witnesses in the trial scheduled early next year in the Circuit court here.

W. Dwight Stover, state's attorney, said the boys 11 and 13 are expected to tell what happened in the motel along route 40, east of Grantsville, when Mrs. Brigette Sherlock received fatal injuries.

Stover said the time of the arraignment is not definite due to the fact that Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley has gone to the west coast on a 17-day trip.

The state's attorney reported that the arraignment would be held upon the return of Judge Fraley and following his attendance at a Maryland judges' conference in Baltimore on January 16.

The two sons of the accused man are being kept in foster homes in the county pending the trial.

Mrs. Sherlock died of liver and internal wounds on Friday, December 9, in a Brownsville, Pa., hospital.

On Wednesday, December 11, after being extradited from Fayette County, Pa., the son was given a preliminary hearing before Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney in Oakland and ordered held for the grand jury.

Sherlock was ordered held in jail when he was unable to post $10,000 bond. He denied that he inflicted the wounds that caused his mother's death, alleging that she fell in a bathroom at the motel during an epileptic seizure.

An autopsy lawyer in Fayette county disclosed that the death resulted from [illegible] suffered by blows.

IMPORTANT NEWS ABOUT U. S. SAVINGS BONDS

Now you can turn E Bond savings into a current income investment... without decreasing the principal

New privilege of conversion into H Bonds allows you to postpone paying taxes on your accumulated E Bond interest; the tax money continues to earn interest for you.

Effective now, owners of Series E Savings Bonds can trade them in for current-income H Bonds without having to include the accumulated E Bond interest in their taxable income for the year in which the conversion is made.

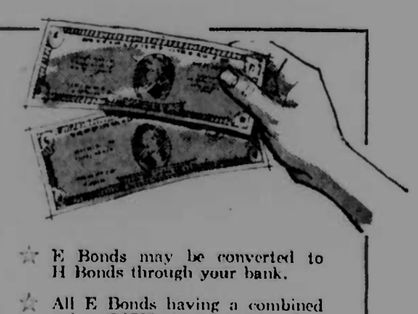
This new conversion privilege has special benefits for people near retirement, or who, for other reasons, want the cash interest which H Bonds pay twice a year. But study your own situation carefully. Current income may not be needed just now—and, of course, the cash interest on H Bonds is taxable. Or perhaps your E Bonds—depending on their dates of issue—are yielding more currently than you would get on H Bonds. Your banker has tables which can help you decide what's best for you.

Here's a simple example of how it works:

Let's say you put $3,750 into E Bonds back in the spring of 1943. By this spring they would have earned $2,402 interest and their cash-in value would be $6,152.

Until this year, if you cashed your E Bonds to buy H Bonds you would have to pay the tax on the E Bond interest with your next return. If you happened to be in the 30% tax bracket, this would amount to $721. The remaining $5,431 it put into H Bonds, would pay an average of $205.56 interest per year for 10 years.

Under the new rule, you can put off paying the tax on your E Bond interest until you redeem your H Bonds. You can put the entire $6,152 to work and earn over the 10 years an average of $232.85 interest per year. This gives you an extra $272.90 over the 10-year life of your H Bonds.



To match the extra interest you would have to get about 4¼% on the after tax cash-in value of your E Bonds.

Your tax money earns interest currently and you may pay less tax later

Of course, tax on your E Bond interest will have to be paid when you redeem or otherwise dispose of your H Bonds. But by the time you pay the tax, you may be in a substantially lower bracket—due to retirement, for example. In the meantime, the tax money is earning interest for you.

You save more than money

You help save the peace by buying Bonds and holding on to them. The money you save helps keep our country's economy strong.

- E Bonds may be converted to H Bonds through your bank.
- All E Bonds having a combined value of $500 or more, matured or unmatured, are convertible.
- H Bonds are issued in denominations of $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000.

YOU SAVE MORE THAN MONEY WITH U.S. SAVINGS BONDS

The U. S. Government does not pay for this advertising. The Treasury Department thanks The Advertising Council and this newspaper for their patriotic donation.

Opposes Trend of Planners on Aging

The following is a letter from Frank Peters, local business man, stating his view on the problem of the aging, and opposing the present 'trend' toward a super-state.

Maryland State Commission on the Aging
408 State Office Building
301 West Preston Street
Baltimore 1, Maryland
Attention: Honorable Margaret C. Schweinhaut, Chairman

Gentlemen:

I have attended the Conference on Aging held in Garrett County and also the State Conference at College Park. The reports of other Conference Proceedings on Aging have been available. I am deeply concerned.

The White House Conference on Aging, which is to be the capstone for future planning here and elsewhere, promulgates for its platform the following.

1. The most cherished desire of older persons is to remain as independent as possible for as long as possible;
2. Older persons have the right to free choice, and the obligations of self help in planning their own future;
3. Older persons are entitled to preservation of individual identity, and to freedom from discrimination, arising from arbitrary categorization.

Let us consider these concepts.

First. It is or should be the most cherished political desire of every person to remain as independent as possible for as long as possible. The threat to this independence is not from old age, but from the all powerful State. Plank one of the Commission, the plan of the Commission, the work of the Commission will not promote but will destroy individual independence. The Commission ignores this threat to our free society and seeks not independence but a super state to which all are beholden. I do not question the sincerity of the humane motives of the Commission. I question the wisdom if not the Constitutionality of legislation evidently under favorable consideration.

The Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution—the heart and soul of our Bill of Rights — deny power to the Federal and State Governments respectively of taking from the citizen his God-given right to life, to liberty and to pursuit of happiness. Our Constitution also guarantees the equal protection of the laws to each citizen. This guarantee extends to rich and poor alike, to black and white, to those who are well and those who are sick, to young and to old. Unlike the Soviet Constitution, which claims State dispensation of rights, our own philosophy maintains these rights to be inalienable. The function of our State is to protect and guard these rights.

In maintaining this equal protection for each citizen, the State cannot deny or subvert by taxation or other arbitrary device the rights of one person in favor of another or use the general welfare clause of the Constitution as a sledge hammer to destroy rights guaranteed in the Bill of Rights.

This may be old-fashioned thinking. I believe it is right thinking. I believe it is right unless we are prepared to scrap the Constitution, discard individual freedom, and proclaim the State as the master. The Commission, therefore, in conscience, cannot ignore the plain meaning of the Constitution and sponsor special legislation to favor a citizen because the citizen is fortunate in reaching some arbitrary chronological age that bureaucracy defines as that of a "senior citizen." This is also a device for creation of a class that can be treated specially for votes.

Second. The announced basic concept that "older persons have the right to free choice" is not merely a concept to which the planners in Washington claim discovery. Free choice is an inviolable Constitutional right. Every court in the land is bound to protect this freedom within the framework of established due process of law. If any person, regardless of age, is not being afforded the equal protection of the laws, I salute the Commission for its efforts in behalf of such person. The planner who drafted these concepts, manifests his ignorance or his contempt for the Constitution. It is possibly the latter for there appears a deliberate attempt to use the words of the Constitution as a screen for depriving the individual of his freedom by pretending that some other person is being deprived of freedom. I should like to ask the bureaucrat who wrote these concepts if he can show me one state or federal court in the United States that closes its doors to "senior" citizens.

Third. The announced concept that older persons are entitled to "preservation of individual identity" is a confusing expression. Unless the State controls the lives of older persons, as well as younger persons, individual identity is automatic. Our government does not grant individual identity. This comes from God. The only internal or external threat to this identity is an all-powerful State. Only a bureaucratic thief would dare pretend that his bureaucracy was necessary to preserve "individual identity." This thief would assume that our Constitutional safeguards are inoperable or non-existent and undertake special class legislation based on separation rooted only to a birth date.

It took a war and a Constitutional Amendment to establish the equality of black with white before the law. It took a Constitutional Amendment to eliminate sex as a basis for voting rights. And in 1960 we have in our midst advocates of legislation who proclaim that a birth date defines classes of citizenship. Color could not define the class of citizenship. Sex could not define the class of citizenship. But the planners to whom you will repair in January want a class society rooted to birthdays.

Has anyone undertaken to define an "older" person? Is a man of forty-five on his death bed with a coronary a younger man than one sixty-five who enjoys abundant health? Is a mother dying in child birth younger than a dowager of seventy who is robust? Does older mean in years past or years left? Who is a "senior citizen"? I charge these expressions to the special bureaucratic dictionary determined to confuse our citizenry. I charge these terms to be bureaucratic double-talk. It is double-talk to deceive, double-talk to enlarge the bureaucratic function, double-talk to deprive the citizen of his liberty, double-talk to make the State the Master and not the servant of the people. Why not have a Commission on Infants? A Commission on Adolescents? A Commission on Housewives? Each Commission could suggest problems which it says are so large only the State can handle them.

The bureaucrat who deplores "arbitrary categorization" as an excuse to foster class legislation for one group, is in truth the disciple of arbitrary categorization. Liberty is individual. It is not for one group at the expense of another. I urge each member of the Commission to reflect on this term "arbitrary categorization."

I do not believe that the State of Maryland, or any other State, or the United States Government is as interested or as fit to care for my mother as I am. Therefore I ask that I not be deprived of my property or the fruit of my labor to support some bureaucrat who will pre-empt this privilege from me. I ask that this not be done. I ask that the Commission discourage and fight any legislation that will make it impossible for me, or any other citizen, to have my own savings to provide for my own old age. I ask that the Commission recognize that my mother cared for me when I was unable to care for myself. It was not the State. I do not believe the State should now take from me property so that the State can take my job. Nor do I think the State should take my property to pay for doing the same thing for some one else.

To look at this problem in another light, to what end do State and Federal bureaucracies dare to guarantee the economic support of one group of citizens at the expense of another? Does not Communist China exercise a precisely parallel power when it removes an infant from the breast of his mother? Infants are placed in compounds so that mothers can work to support the State. The State then nobly proclaims that it is caring for the infant. Is not this the same power? Not only does Red China separate wife from husband and infant from mother, it undertakes to separate a man from his God by proclaiming the State as his God. Soviet Russia employed the same approach to place its farmers under the yoke of slavery.

I respectfully submit that to support such legislation is not enlightened. It is darkness. It is not charity. It is tyranny. It is not Godly. It is atheism—however shocking this may sound to the do-gooder. Special class legislation ignores the Magna Charta, repudiates the Declaration of Independence and offers the Marxist Revolution as a substitute for the American Revolution.

The Commission knows that some countries, like Free China, venerate age as a family custom. It is considered a blessing by the family. It is not a curse to be dealt with by legislative prescription.

Some of the problems the Commission is dabbling with are questions dealing with where older persons should live. The socialistic mumbo-jumbo phrase — "Housing reservoir" — appears. I do not believe this is or ever was a proper business of the State or Federal Government. I do not believe that it is any of the business of the State whether I live with my grown children or whether I live alone. I do not believe it is any of the business of the State to tell me what I should do with my free time — whether I am young or old. Does the Commission want to get the State into these things? I should like to ask each member of the Commission to make a statement in writing on this point so that the people of Maryland will know.

The most significant single statement at the College Park Conference is that the State "should meet the needs of all citizens regardless of age." If the Governor meant by this statement that the State must preserve and defend Constitutional safeguards to each citizen — regardless of age — it is the statement of elementary patriotism. If the bureaucrat is permitted to twist this statement as a call for the State to meet and include spiritual, emotional, intellectual and economic needs, it would be the call for a Constitutional Convention to abandon individual liberty for the Super State. I call to your attention that under the socialism of Adolph Hitler even an attempt was made to meet the sex need of the citizen by the State. I know in my heart that Governor Tawes was not inviting this conclusion. It was most significant also that the Governor, in removing an arbitrary retirement date for State employes, did so with the express purpose of affording equal opportunity. It was not done in order to put a yoke on one group to support a special group.

The political issues present a challenge to Maryland unequalled since the Toleration Act. It is the question of slavery versus freedom. The question is not old age.

The Legislative Act creating the Commission is accepted as an expression of the citizens of Maryland to study special problems arising from increasing longevity. It was not a license to foster class legislation. If industry is creating a special problem, industry should be brought before the bar of public opinion.

I recommend that the Commission go to the White House Conference with following resolutions:

First. To support the Constitution of the United States of America and swear not to subvert the equal protection guaranteed everyone. This should include a resolution to reject the "concepts" suggested for the White House Conference as irrelevant. This should also include an open statement that socialism is not acceptable as a solution to old age problems in a free society. The Commission must recognize that Social Security in a free society determined to remain free must not go beyond actuarial insurance. It is not as a device for creation of a Super State. If the Commission is unwilling to adopt this resolution, then I ask of you in honesty that you so state publicity and bring this thing out for the public on the question of Constitutional amendment.

Second. To undertake the solution of special economic problems arising from industrial severance at a chronological age by first approaching the source of the problem—big industry. I respectfully recommend that you carry to the White House Conference a proposal for inviting the chiefs of all the great industries and the chiefs of the great labor unions to meet in a congress to determine what they can and should do to meet this problem. This problem is actually a creature of big industry. Big industry should be given a formal opportunity — and a deadline—to work it out. If industry is unable or unwilling to contribute to the solution of the economic ills of its older employes, then it would be proper for the Commissions and the various Governments to see what additional legislation is needed to keep the concentration of capital from imposing on rights of the individual within the framework of due process of law. I believe industry should be made aware of Governor Tawes' commendable action in this respect. Private industry must recognize its public obligation by not creating public problems. Legislation indicated may be in a form to help industry meet its private obligation.

Third. I recommended that the statement in the Report of the Legislative Council Committee be submitted to the citizen of Maryland by referendum:

"that the problems of the aged in large measure are beyond the capabilities of individuals, their families or private philanthropy to solve, it has now become the responsibility of the State to give leadership in solving them."

I say this is communism for one segment of our society, the rest to follow in short order. I believe the people of Maryland should not make a fundamental change in Government through representatives but should pass on it individually.

NOTE—Copies of this letter were sent to president elect Kennedy, Gov. Tawes, U. S. Senator Glenn Beall and U. S. Senator John Marshall Butler.

The number of federal prisoners increased in 1960 for 11th consecutive year. The total was 23,160 first week of December.

Listen Americans!

...by Dr. George S. Benson
PRESIDENT — NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

With his inauguration next January the New President of the United States faces the greatest challenge that has come to any man in all history. This is the challenge of international Communism which moves relentlessly forward on its mission to conquer the world. To accept the challenge our new President must rise to the stature of world leadership, and must mobilize all free men into a mammoth offensive for victory. It is the duty of every American citizen who agrees with this proposition to write to the President-elect and urge such action.

Up to this date, in the 27 years that Soviet Communism has openly made known its objectives on the world scene, the United States has been outsmarted at nearly every turn. Yet Khrushchev, and Stalin before him, and the other bosses in the Soviet hierarchy today are not supermen. We have the intellect and the moral foundations and the material resources in America to lead a crushing victorious offensive against world Communism. But we are on the defensive, in retreat. The true facts of our peril have not been recognized by our leaders, and they have been largely withheld from our people due to subversive influences, political expediency, and traitorous activities.

Our own political leadership, I'm afraid, will not move into action even now on the scale required for victory over world Communism unless 50 million Americans speak out and demand it. Two of America's truly great friends among the diplomats of the world are Dr. Charles Malik of Lebanon, former President of the United Nations General Assembly; and General Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine Ambassador to the United States and himself a former President of the U. N. General Assembly.

In the September issue of the Reader's Digest, universally respected magazine, Dr. Malik sounds a grave warning to the United States and the so-called "free world." His article is entitled: "Is It Too Late to Win Against Communism?"

The subheading on the article by Dr. Malik says: "A challenge to the West: To win the war against Communism, the democracies must abandon 'containment,' reject the idea of 'peaceful coexistence,' adopt an active policy of liberation. Most of all, the West must have faith in the values that made it great — and assert them throughout the world." The entire article is devoted to a summation of the grave peril of freedom and an appeal to the United States to take aggressive leadership in an "active policy of liberation."

General Romulo's article in the November Reader's Digest has the shattering impact of a clear-throated bugle calling citizens of America to action. Its title: "America, Wake Up!" The Digest editors, in an introductory note, say: "A wise and loyal friend of the United States warns us: The cold war is real war.... It is far later than we know.... The Communists can win without changing their tactics.... We cannot without changing ours.... We must assume the offensive.... We dare not stand still.... To do so is to continue to lose ground. This is a stern and urgent appeal. It is one that no American can afford to ignore."

Either the American people will now awaken and begin to bring their fear and courage to bear on our leaders, or as General Romulo says, "a dark age of Communist totalitarianism is certain to engulf the human race."

Other sources said the group has agreed tentatively to recommend emergency help including doubling of the allotment of free surplus food to the needy in these areas and special unemployment compensation benefits.

The recommendations were not expected to go to Kennedy before New Year's day.

There were reports the program might propose a speeded up start on jobs-creating public works projects, federal aid to train chronically unemployed persons and to retrain those, like some miners, whose regular jobs have dwindled away.

Informants said a program of stepped up research in developing markets in the United States and abroad for coal and other products of depression-plagued regions was a likely recommendation.

There seemed to be no controversy about a proposal for improved job placement and counseling services. The group was reportedly planning to consider also whether to recommend that more work creating government contracts be awarded to areas where unemployment is high.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

Better Health Through Knowledge

Blood Pressure

- T.B. And Marriage
- Menarche
- Snakebite

Q. If high blood pressure is lowered will a person live longer?

A. There are a number of measures, (some involving new and effective drugs) by which blood pressure can be lowered. It can now be said that patients in the middle-age group and younger who have moderately elevated pressure can anticipate a somewhat longer life if they respond to these pressure-lowering measures. In older people the lowering of blood pressure alone, unless it is extremely high, would not be the chief or only consideration in prolonging life.

Q. I have arrested tuberculosis. Is it safe for me to marry?

A. It would probably be safe for you to marry provided your doctor agreed and informed you of the necessary considerations to prevent flare up of the disease. Both parties should also be thoroughly acquainted with the hazards of reactivation of the disease as well as exposure of possible children.

Q. At what age will the menopause occur in a woman who started menstruating at 12½?

A. The age at which menstruation starts (menarche) is not related to the age at which the menopause will occur. It is rare for a woman to experience menopausal symptoms before 42 or 43. The majority have ceased menstruation sometime between 45 and 50.

Q. First aid manuals recommend that in poisonous snakebites the flesh be cut at the site of the bite and suction applied. Is this the thing to do?

A. It is often recommended, but [illegible] experimenting with animals, proved that suction not only failed to remove enough venom to do much good but that the procedure may even hasten the spread of the poison. The pros and cons can be cleared up by further experiments.

Road Markings

this condition is possibly brought about by a vertical curve the summit of which is about 150 feet north of the intersection. This condition possibly presents an element of surprise for southbound traffic approaching the stop condition at US 50

To more forcibly bring to motorists' attention the impending stop, we are recommending to the District Engineer that the existing "Stop Ahead" signs be replaced, both on the east and west side of the highway, with the large 36"x 36" signs and to place them on the summit of the vertical curve, together with two "Reduce Speed" signs 500 feet in advance of the pair of "Stop Ahead" signs After these signs have been erected we are requesting the District Engineer to keep a close watch on the accident experience and if accidents do continue to occur that he give consideration to placing a "rumbler stop" on US 219 for southbound traffic approaching US 50.

US 219 and Md. 135
East of Oakland

At this location, there have been four accidents reported as occurring at or near the intersection since January 1 1959 One occurred in 1959 and three have occurred this far in 1960 Of the four accidents, three involved motorists on US 219 turning into Md. 135 and being struck by vehicles on that route, and all were northbound on US 219.

Since the south approach of the intersection US 219 is a modern highway conducive to high speeds and approaches on a curve we feel that additional warnings are necessary to advise northbound motorists of the impending stop to be encountered at Md 135

We are, therefore, recommending to the District Engineer that the present "Stop Ahead" sign be repeated on the left side of the road with another set of large "Stop Ahead" signs, 36" x 36", be placed approximately 500 feet in advance of the "Stop Ahead" sign now existing, also that a "Reduce Speed" sign be placed on the shoulder side of the highway 500 feet in advance of the pair of "Stop Ahead" signs that are to be erected approximately 1000 feet from the intersection.

The design of the intersection makes it a little difficult to properly place a STOP sign at the intersection. We are, therefore recommending that the District Engineer give consideration to placing a large STOP sign at a point approximately three feet off the east edge of US 219 and about five feet south of the triangular island in the channelization, with the STOP sign to be protected by posts and possibly by stones. This will give a much better target value to the STOP sign A sketch will be sent to the District Engineer outlining our suggestions for the location of the STOP sign.

Md. 135 at Bloomington

An inspection of this location indicates the difficulty to be that of involving eastbound motorists when approaching the road to Lake which has a right-angle turn just after crossing the Savage River The approach is on a 10% grade To increase the safety factor at this location, we are recommending to the District Engineer that the existing curve symbol signs on both approaches of Md 135 be replaced with large size turn symbol signs which would be more appropriate in designating the right angle turn in the highway at this location.

To further accentuate the turn in Md 135 at this location, we are recommending that the District Engineer also place a large, right-headed arrow panel along the north or east side of Md 135 in front of the concrete wall at the intersection to the private road leading into the paper mill. This sign will be placed so as to give motorists on Md 135 a straight ahead target indicating the right-angle turn in the highway We are also recommending that the District Engineer erect large 36" X 36" "SLOW" signs at a distance of 500 feet in advance of the turn symbol sign for northbound traffic approaching the right-angle turn when heading toward Lake.

The symbol of Father Time is considerably older than the popular conception of Santa Claus. The Santa that we recognize today is of somewhat recent vintage when compared with Father Time, who is traced to Greek legend.

Father Time, complete with scythe and time-worn brow, comes to us as a descendant of the Greek god Cronus, lord of the universe. But, whereas Father Time is considered somewhat venerable, Cronus, like many of mythology's earthy gods, was not altogether an admirable fellow.

Bad Habit

According to legend, Cronus was warned that one of his children would dispose of him. To prevent such a happening, he developed a habit of swallowing them at birth. His wife, Rhea, upon the birth of their child, Zeus, hid the infant and presented Cronus with a stone wrapped in swaddling clothes.

Everything ended happily. Cronus disgorged the stone —as well as the previous children he had swallowed. Zeus later, as prophesized, dethroned his father and settled on Mount Olympus where he ruled as chief god of the Greek pantheon.

Symbol Emerges

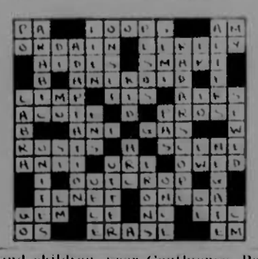
Through the years, Cronus' name became confused with the word "cronos" which means time. Eventually, someone placed an hour glass in his empty hand and, together with the scythe, the popular image of Father Time was presented to the world.

The New Year Babe is not quite so easy to date, although it is known that a baby was paraded as a symbol of rebirth during the ancient Greek festival of Dionysus, which would make the Babe symbol almost as old as that of Father Time, A chief ceremony in the Eleusinian Mysteries also featured the image of a child.

More recently, a 14th century German folk song depicts the New Year Babe as we know it today— the symbol of a fresh, New Year.

With the beginning of the year, 1961 we are well into this "new" decade—a decade which will undoubtedly bring mankind to achievements that were unthought of by our ancestors.

The probing fingers and the electric brains of satellites are unraveling mysteries of the "far beyond" and today man stands, literally, with one foot poised for a jump into outer space.



There could be no better time than the beginning of a New Year to ponder the question of whether or not we might be much better off if we considerably lowered our sights—and concentrated upon the sorely aching pains of the world at our doorstep before we take on any additional responsibilities.

It is somewhat ironic that we gaze longingly upon a distant star and yet have no eyes for the desperate needs of our earthly environment.

We live in troubled times. The nations of the world are scattered, isolated islands and groups of islands, united and dis-united by treaties, alliances, differing political philosophies and economic conditions.

We would certainly fare better in the years ahead if some of the energy being consumed in the search for propellants and materials with which to conquer space were devoted to a concerted effort to build a more cohesive family of nations on earth.

It is not enough to shrug it off by saying "one cannot live in the same house with enemies." We can, this great nation of ours—and each of us as individuals—begin to build a better world. We can do it simply by setting our sights on a much higher goal than the moon. We can work for peace, for Christianity, for humanity with such zeal that we might set an example for the rest of the world to emulate.

Early Bayard Fire In Old Photo Today

The town of Bayard, W. Va., has suffered several major fires during the past 75 years, but this is probably the earliest one recorded. The unknown photographer was right on the job, for smoke still obscures the ruins of what must have been several large buildings.

The incident occurred on October 9, 1895, when Bayard was primarily a lumbering community. Piles of timber are shown piled to the left of the picture, and in the center is a locomotive used to haul logs from the woods. Undoubtedly it was pressed into service to help fight the fire.

The articles in the foreground have been salvaged from one of the buildings. On the original photograph can be identified several mattresses, a bolt of cloth, various boxes and articles of furniture and trunks. The man in the center is leaning against a wood heating stove. At the edges of the smoke-obscured area are two tall objects, apparently chimneys remaining after the buildings were destroyed.

The picture is one of several interesting views of scenes in nearby West Virginia submitted by Mrs. Wayne Harvey. Mrs. Harvey was unable to supply any information about the fire, and a request in this column several weeks ago brought no response. Several persons, however, did remember later fires but were unable to recall this particular one.

Low Temperatures Recalls Readings Of Former Years

Is Oakland in for another super-duper low temperature winter, such as was experienced in 1812?

There are tendencies that way with readings of 23 below zero, the night after winter actually began, December 23; and temperatures of 16 below, 14 below and 26 below at other times this year.

Or it could be like the winter of 1932 when on January 13 the thermometer stood at 63 degrees above zero, a difference of 103 degrees in the reading of January 13, 1912, when the government thermometer at Weber's registered 40 degrees below zero.

William Nazelrod, of Sand Flat brought in a newspaper clipping last week, which he had found recently, recounting the occasion in The Republican.

"Was a Cold Day"

The clipping of January 18 1912, carried the following story:

"When Oakland awoke last Saturday morning her citizens were made keenly aware that it was not a summer day by a whole lot, but the surprise did not come until the thermometers had been read which showed the mercury standing at 16 degrees below zero —emphatically the coldest day ever experienced by our oldest citizens. This record was made at 7:15 at Weber's.

"Much suffering was experienced by railroad and other men who were compelled to be out of doors. Trains on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad ran from two to ten hours late and in some cases freight trains in the mountain section were brought to a standstill owing to the fact that the locomotives froze to the rails."

That same day it was 18 degrees below zero at Cumberland and 30 below at Frostburg. The cold followed a terrific blizzard which centered in Chicago and the middle west. It was declared the worst in many years.

Action Is Deferred On Credit Buying

A legislative committee Tuesday deferred action on a proposal to regulate all installment buying in Maryland.

The committee approved several changes in the laws governing small loans and retail installment sales but delayed a recommendation on the most sweeping proposal pending a public hearing. The hearing was set for January 10. Leslie F. Savage, Friendsville Garrett County House of Delegates member, is one of the members of this committee.

The proposed bill would bring all merchants operating on an installment basis—including revolving credit plans—under regulatory authority of the State Administrator of Loan Laws.

John Dallam, deputy administrator of loan laws, contends revolving credit plans are illegal under Maryland law. Joseph Kaufman, assistant attorney general, said they are not illegal but do not meet the qualifications for licensing under existing small loan or finance company laws.

Yesterday is gone. We tear its page from our calendar, for we live in the present.

But often we look back with nostalgia to the many yesterdays which make up the past. In a different mood we plan for the uncertain days ahead, sometimes filling them with happy expectations, sometimes with anxious forebodings.

Where is God in this time pattern of our lives?

Is He in the past alone, incarnate two thousand years ago in the great Teacher of Nazareth? Or does He walk with us through the present, our Companion each day? Does He remove all fear from the future with His promise, the promise of the living Christ, "And lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world?"

Come to Church and learn to know this Christ who is "the same yesterday, today, and forever."

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

God Down Here

Lesson for January 1, 1961

WHEN a man writes a new book on a well-known subject he should have a good reason for breaking into print. The Gospel of John, which is going to be the object of study in the church and in this column for 14 weeks now, was such a late-coming book. By the time it was written, not only had our three Gospels of Matthew, Mark and Luke been circulating for some time, but as we learn from Luke, there were others besides these three. Now a new book is justified if it brings out new facts, it is also justified if it bring out a new point of view . . . provided, of course, that the author can show some solid reasons for his special point of view. John has both reasons. He has stories about Jesus to tell which had never been told—that is, told in a book, before; and he has a viewpoint which does not contradict the first three Gospels yet is strikingly different from theirs.

Dr. Foreman

The Word Became Flesh

Readers of the other Gospels may surmise that more is here than meets the eye. They read the story of a great man, a teacher, a prophet, one endowed with strange powers. Strangest of all was his power over death. Not only could he wrestle death to a fall when that dread visitor came to others, he threw off death's chains when they had been wrapped about his own life. You might say that the first three Gospels give us wonder-stories but very little explanation. John's Gospel flashes the explanation in the reader's eye with his very first page. Mark gives no background for Jesus at all. Matthew really begins his story of Jesus with Abraham. Luke begins his story with the first man in the world. But John—He goes back before. Here was a human race, before Ur, before world began, before all worlds, back to THE BEGINNING, the beginning of which we hear in the Bible's first line—out of time into Eternity's far shores. And there he finds not a Carpenter waiting to be born, but one whom he mysteriously calls the Word of God, the Word that "was with God and was God." What explains Jesus? His Jewish race, his family, you might think from reading Matthew. His membership in the human race, you might think from reading Luke. No, these are part of the story but not yet the heart and the height of it. What explains Jesus? "The Word became flesh," John writes. Is there a more important sentence in the Bible? This is God-with-us. This is God on two feet. This is the heavenly Glory walking the streets of earth.

Stories and Signs

"Flesh is a Bible expression for "man." "The Word became flesh" means, at the least of it, the Divine became human. John does not say that the Word looked like flesh, or the Word dressed up in flesh, but that the word "became" flesh. He says here "We have beheld his glory." Now all religions know something about the glory of God. But what would the glory of God be like if it came to earth as a human being? John's whole gospel is devoted to answering that question. He just proceeds to tell stories about Jesus—just a few, only seven before the story of his death. The amazing thing about those stories is how simple they are. You (if you were inventing the stories) would surely have thought up something spectacular; but these were not made-up stories. When God comes down to earth, he comes all the way down, to where we live.

That You May Believe

Every book in the Bible was with some purpose in mind, but John's Gospel is one of the few that tell exactly what the writer intended his book to do. "These things are written," he says at the end, "that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing you may have life in his name." With that short sentence John brings out some of the great truths that become more clear to those who give themselves to study of this book.

Resume Of Year

hit again, this time virtually isolating the area for more than a day and closing schools from Friday of one week until Wednesday of the next. Most folks were glad February was a short month.

March

But as it turned out, March wasn't much better. The snow and winds continued until, early in the month, 75 inches of snow had been recorded for the winter. The schools were closed again off and on.

Two county banks made plans during March to merge. The First National Bank of Oakland and the First National Bank of Friendsville announced a pending consolidation.

The State appropriated funds for an airport in this county, to be located on the White Face farm at McHenry. The March Grand Jury indicted four persons on various charges, and two weeks later the regular court session got underway, completing its activity in about one hour.

R. Thomis Thayer, who had been assistant state forester for Garrett county, was named to succeed William H. Johnson as district forester with headquarters in Cumberland.

The month went out much as it had come in, with more snow. By now, over 100 inches had fallen and the Board of Education announced plans to hold classes on Saturdays in an effort to make up some of the days which had been lost. Due to the storms, a head-on collision between two [illegible] was reported in the Pleasant Valley section. Total damage amounted to twenty-five cents.

Other news stories during the month included the election of Russell L. Smith to another term as mayor of Oakland and W. E. Naylor, Emory W. Adams and Harold Harned as new members of council.

The court handed down an opinion declaring the first wife of Richard Browning to be his legal heir. They had been married in 1912.

April

The Sheriff's office made announcement of the appointment of Wayne Wilt as deputy, to succeed Bruce Close, resigned. Winter made another closing try, but it was weak and resulted in from one to three inches of snow.

A mine disaster at the Pangh mine near Kitzmiller resulted in the death of three workers who were trapped in a cave-in.

The resignation of Paul Muha as principal at Northern High school was submitted to the Board of Education. A group of county taxpayers threatened another suit over the payment of a drilling fee to John Brenneman, a controversy which had been going on for some months past.

As the month ended, plans were being made for major improvements to state park areas in the county. An appropriation of $35,000 was approved for the public facility at Deep Creek Lake.

May

Primary election results in Garrett county showed that local Republicans had selected Charles McC. Mathias as their candidate for Congress, to oppose John Foley, Democratic incumbent. Maryland Democrats chose Kennedy for President.

The Mayor and Council of Oakland, following a public meeting, declared they would proceed with plans to secure a new water supply from the Youghiogheny river. Gas production for the first quarter of the year showed another increase, the third in succession.

There was plenty of activity in the schools during the month, too. Two hundred and fifty were preparing for graduation, 131 at Northern and 124 at Southern. The Board of Education reported success in securing teachers for the coming year and announced the appointment of Lewis W. [illegible] of Bel Air, to succeed Paul Muha at Northern. A contract for an addition to the Red House school was awarded.

June

The Industrial Development fund, to finance the location here of the Harco lumbering operations, reached its goal of $40,000, and negotiations were underway for the purchase of land near Oakland.

Things were busy in Deer Park, with preparations being made for a three-day convention of the Allegany-Garrett Counties Firemen's association. The Town Council opened bids on its water project during the month, but delayed awarding of contracts until they could be studied.

At Deep Creek Lake, a seven year-old girl drowned in an unusual accident when the automobile in which she was a passenger ran away into the lake.

E. Ray Jones retired in June as superintendent of the Sunday School of St. Paul's Methodist church, a post he had held for 37 years. He was succeeded by Harold Harned.

The teaching staff for the coming school year was completed, with 187 instructors. This was one less than the previous year.

Six taxpayers entered a suit over payment of the Brenneman drilling fee.

July

The water contracts were awarded by the Town of Oakland, which borrowed $450,000 to finance the project. Lights were ordered for the football field at Southern, even though the fund drive to pay for them was still $2,000 short of its $6,400 goal.

The County Commissioners filed a reply to the taxpayers' suit and awaited a court verdict in the drawn-out matter. The quarterly gas report this time reflected a seasonal trend, and showed a decrease for the second listing period.

August

Things were really going at the Garrett county fair. Five hundred and thirty-four exhibitors had displayed 2,196 articles, a new record. Georgia Ann Glotfelty, of near Oakland, was named Farm Queen, and Stewart Stanton, of Grantsville, was judged the outstanding farm youth.

Another bank merger involved the First State Bank of Grantsville and The Liberty Trust Co., of Cumberland.

A runaway coal truck killed two persons near Bloomington when it struck a parked prop truck at the foot of Backbone mountain.

A strike at the Sterling Processing company here closed all plant operations.

Candidates for various state offices began getting around in August, preparing for the big push to November 8.

Another accident at Red House claimed the life of one woman and injured six other persons when two cars collided at the intersection of Routes 50 and 219.

John Yurchak, of Baltimore, was charged with murder in the death of his wife at New Germany. He was later found guilty and sentenced to eight years.

September

The Sterling plant resumed operations early in the month after a 12-day labor dispute. Oakland and Mt. Lake Park were having water difficulties, but all because of distribution problems.

The taxpayers' suit against the County Commissioners in the Brenneman drilling case was decided in favor of the commissioners by Judge Kenneth McLaughlin.

Schools of the county opened for the new term, with an enrollment of 4729, which later grew to 4778. Thirteen persons were indicted by the September Grand Jury and three young men escaped from the county jail. Two were later picked up in Fairmont, W. Va. Clifford A. Phillips was named assistant postmaster at Oakland, to succeed T. J. Stanton, who retired.

The Republicans announced plans for a large county-wide rally at Accident to hear from candidates and party workers. Plans were being made, too, for the Autumn Glory excursion.

And remembering the past winter, the County Roads department began overhauling its equipment and sharpening its snow plows.

October

Mountain Lake Park began use of its new post office building across the road from the old structure. A farm census showed 99% [illegible] acres in production in the county, consisting of 1,537 individual farm units, 85 less than five years before.

Final registration figures showed 9,484 eligible to vote in the November election. There were 5,776 Republicans and 3,670 Democrats.

The Democrats announced their own rally plans, and called on most of the state's party leaders to attend the gathering at Southern High school.

November

The P. O. Glotfelty family was named winner of the county Farming for Better Living campaign during the year.

Four county men lost their lives in the capsizing of a small boat on the Cheat river near Parsons.

Election results showed Mathias had defeated Democrat Foley for Congress, and John F. Kennedy had been elected President of the United States by a small margin. Richard Nixon carried this county.

The first snow of the winter fell early in November, amounting only to an inch or two.

Negotiations were underway for the installation of a radio station in Oakland. The Board of Education said it had spent $1,618,324.48 during the past fiscal year. The Board of Directors of the Fair Association announced a good year, financially and otherwise.

December

With the annual deer season concluded, a new record had been set with 801 bucks slain. This was 103 more than in 1958, the previous high.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wagner took top honors in Region II, Farming For Better Living program. John Sherlock was being held for murder in connection with the death of his mother at a Route 40 motel. The Promotion Council announced the appointment of John O'Brien, of Michigan, as full-time director.

The eagle atop the court house began to show its age, and plans for a replacement were being made.

At the end of the year the Episcopal Mission released plans for the construction of a $50,000 parish house and vicarage near Deer Park.

A week before Christmas, one of the worst early winter storms on record hit, causing schools to be closed briefly. Although little or no new snow fell on Christmas day, those who prefer the traditional "White Christmas" found plenty still on hand. The weather moderated considerably following the holiday.

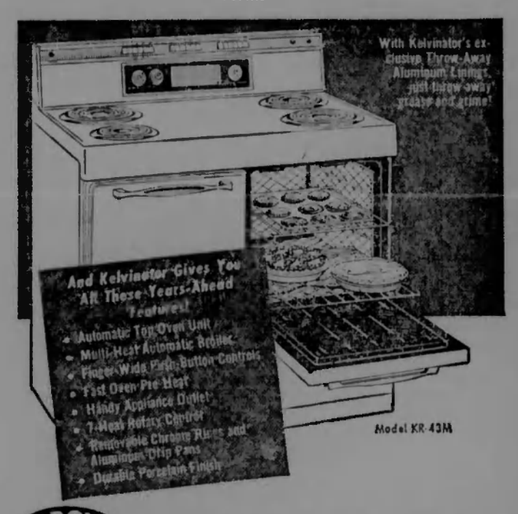
SHE RESTED UNSATISFIED



On a bed of money! When relatives asked Mrs. Mary Jane Drummond of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who had been injured, if there was any money to pay the doctor, she said all her money was in her bed. Among canvas pieces between the mattress and pillows was discovered $20,321.00 in gold bills. When told the amount, Mrs. Drumond who later died replyed, "Is that all? I thought there would be $25,000.00. That isn't much for fifty years of saving." Does not this incident reveal the fact that even if one were wealthy enough to lie on a money stuffed mattress, it would be an unsatisfactory resting place? The only perfect resting place is on the finished work of Christ. He said, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." (Matt. 11:28) This rest cost Him His all but it costs you nothing. Those who have experienced what it means to be wealthy give testimony that their wealth never gave them rest and peace. And so it is with all earthly ambitions, whether it be desire for position, pleasure, houses, or land; it will never give you satisfaction and rest. Come to Him for the rest of your lives.

For many years this bread has brought great joy to the Holidays and all the rest of the 365 days of the year.

Do not compare Schmidt's Delicatessen Rye Bread with any other rye bread available for there is none other like it!

The proof of the goodness of Schmidt's Delicatessen Rye Bread is the popularity of Schmidt's Delicatessen Rye Bread.

At Your Friendly Grocers .....

There's something basic about bread. Particularly Italian bread. With all our streamlining we Americans have never made a bread with the earthy goodness of a real Italian loaf. To do it, you have to slow down the clock. And that's what we did with 'taliano—a bread that's actually aged a bit, after mixing, like a fine wine . . . then slow-baked in a hearth. Try it toasted. Ah, she is so good. So very, very good.

By Jean Reedy

JIM ADAMS threw another log on the fire, from a small pile in a corner of the room. He eased his tall, lanky body into a wicker easy chair. He drew the chair closer to the fire and ran a hand through his thick, black hair that showed a few silver threads. Leaning back he stretched his feet toward the blaze and turning his head he surveyed the lamp lighted room. A few wicker chairs, a small wooden table, a battered desk and the couch with its dark cushions and a folded blanket. The clock on the table told him the New Year was not far away.

Jim smiled contentedly as he heard the wind bowling and the rain beating against the windows of the bungalow in spiteful fury, as though it had rushed through the night to settle a grudge.

Quiet Spot

This bungalow was the last of a row that were situated on the bank of a wide creek and they fronted on a narrow dirt road. In the summer they were occupied by families on vacation. But now it was winter and they were all deserted except this one on the end.

The burning log sputtered, throwing up sparks like fourth of July fireworks. A tree branch scraped the roof with a rasping sound. The wind whistled and howled and someone was knocking on the door.

Jim sprang up, frightened. Who could that be? Opening the door just far enough to peep out he saw the glistening puddles in the narrow, dirt road and a stocky man with a fringe of grey hair around the edge of a peaked cap from which the rain was dripping and over his shoulder he carried a draw-stringed bag.

"I saw a light under your window shade, 'Mister,'" he said. "I locked in and your fire's so tempting I thought I'd take a chance on asking you to let me dry out."

Hesitation

Jim hesitated. He didn't want company, but the old man was so bedraggled. And, after all, it was New Year's Eve. "We-l-l, come in," he said, opening the door wide.

The older man stepped quickly into the room and he dropped the draw-stringed bag just inside the door. "I'm Carl Simms," he said, "A gentleman of the road, as you can see."

Jim smiled. "How-dee," he said.

Soon Carl was on another wicker chair and his stocking feet were stretched toward the blaze while his shoes were drying. "You have a nice place here," he said. "I had a summer bungalow many years ago. I had a home and a wife, but she died. Some men drink to forget. I took to the road. And I learned to like it. Sometimes I work in the fields, or towns. Odd jobs. But I soon hike out again. I usually travel South, but this autumn stayed warm so long."

"It sure did," Jim said. Now he was glad that he had let the other in. He was in good company. And, who wants to be alone as a New Year is born?

After a while Jim went to the kitchen and brought back a large coffee pot and he set it in the fire place. "We'll have some coffee," he said. "We'll have to drink it black. I don't have—"

"Black suits me," Carl said.

Soon the coffee was boiling and it was sending out a delicious aroma.

The next morning was bright and clear and when Jim arose the old man had gone.

Jim made the bed, drank the cold coffee that remained, washed the mugs and the coffee pot. Before leaving he found some paper and a pencil in the desk and the note he left on its top read: "Mean another bum stayed in your place last night. We didn't spoil nuthin.' We used the coffee you left here and burned a few logs. One of your back windows was unlocked. I locked it now. Happy New Year, whoever you are!"

Counting Time Man's Problem For Centuries

Time is, as no one can deny, very valuable, so it is not surprising man learned how to count it accurately, down to the minute, even to the second. But, man is not yet, the complete master of time.

The Gregorian Calendar, presented to the world in 1582, brought about the first achievement of any unity on the world time front. But, it took a long time to catch on. England didn't adopt the Gregorian system until 1752, after most other European countries had done so.

Egyptians

The ancient Egyptians devised a fairly accurate calendar, similar to the Gregorian in that it was divided into 12 periods and consisted of 365 days. The difference between the Egyptian method and our present time counting system, however, was that the 12 periods used in Egypt consisted of 30 days each, with the remaining 5 days of the year "tacked on" to the last period, or month, without any provision for leap years.

The purpose of our Leap Years, then, is not to give every girl the chance to catch herself a man. Instead, Leap Years help us keep the calendar and the solar equinoxes congruent. An adjustment is necessary because of the fact that the solar year consists of 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes and 46 seconds. Without Leap Years, we would have to do something with the extra hours.

How To Tell

How are Leap Years determined? Years divisible by four are Leap Years—except the years numbering the centuries. They are Leap Years only if divisible by four after the ciphers have been removed.

The use of this system guarantees the accuracy of the Gregorian calendar until 2500 A.D. Perhaps before that time arrives, someone will come up with the "perfect" method of marking time—forever.

About New Years, Past and Present

The Egyptians were first to develop an "exact" system for measuring time. They developed a calendar about 4,000 B.C. The "beginning," which they estimated according to the Mundane era of Alexander, was set at 5502 B.C.

The Jewish calendar reads 5722, in relation to 1961 A.D. The Jews adopted their calendar in the 15th century.

Use of the notation A.D. was inaugurated by Germany's Charles III, who affixed the symbolism to the years of his reign beginning in 879.

The month of January takes its name from Janus, a two-faced Roman god supposedly possessed of the power to look back over the past and tell what the future held. He was depicted with key in hand, denoting the ability to open all doors and gateways.

Christopher Columbus is generally considered to have been the first white man to celebrate New Year's day in the western hemisphere. Columbus enjoyed a sumptuous meal with two monarchs on the island of Haili, January 1, 1493, when his ships pulled in for repairs.

In earlier times, the "dipping" custom was believed to offer a glimpse into the future. The head of the family, eyes closed, opened the family Bible and indicated a passage with his finger; the text, solemnly read and interpreted, was supposed to indicate the luck—good or bad—that was in store for them.

By W. L. Roper

IT was nearing midnight, New Year's eve and the Macambo in Hollywood was alive with gay, stylishly dressed celebrants.

Suddenly the smile faded from Myra Walton's face. She held out a card toward Bob Batcroft, her publicity man, who was seated at the table with her. "Is this another of your fool publicity stunts?" she demanded.

Bob smiled. "Why, it looks like the deuce of spades. Where'd you get it?"

"A little dark man in a black suit laid it beside my plate when your back was turned. I thought for a minute he was a waiter. But if this is one of your—"

"Cut it, Myra." Bob's voice was a bit edgy. "I didn't have a thing to do with it. Here let me see it."

Inscription

She handed him the card and he studied it closely. "Hey, look," he exclaimed "There's something scribbled on the face of the card."

Slowly he read: "Chopper Joe, a jungle buzzard, is after your junk. Be careful, Benny."

Bob continued to study the card thoughtfully. "It sounds like some underworld lingo," he said. "I've a notion to step into the office and show it to Detective O'Riley."

Myra's eyes flashed fire. "No,

Bob studied the card. "It looks like some kind of underworld lingo."

you don't. I've had enough embarrassment from publicity. I don't want anything to do with the police."

Mistaken Idea

Bob sighed. "Yeah, I guess you're right. Since I was sitting here at the table with you when a mysterious little dark man handed you this cryptic message, both the cops and the press boys would jump at the conclusion that it was some kind of a screwy stunt to get your name in the papers."

Myra smiled, but her hand trembled slightly as she lifted her glass. "Here's to a happy, prosperous New Year," she said.

Bob's roadster was purring along Sunset toward downtown Hollywood, when the big black sedan swung alongside and crowded him to the curb. From the rear window of the sedan protruded the nose of a submachine gun.

"Where's the junk, Sadie?" a deep voice growled. "Talk up. We're in a hurry."

"My name's not Sadie and I don't know what you're talking about," Myra said.

Rescue

On the road behind them sounded a siren. A police car with red lights flashing was approaching. Quickly letting go of her wrist, the man sprang back in the black sedan. It roared away as the police car stopped behind Bob's roadster.

Bob pointed excitedly at the fleeing sedan. "Get that car," he shouted. "They're gangsters. Got a Tommy gun and—"

"Sure, we know," Captain O'Riley replied. "We've just radioed ahead. Did they hurt you? That deuce of spades we found on your table with a warning message scribbled on it sent us out looking for you."

Later at Central police headquarters downtown, O'Riley and the officers on the narcotic detail explained the rest of the mystery.

"Those gorillas in the sedan were after Sadie McCabe Gomez, the dope queen who's been running the stuff between Tia Juana and Hollywood." O'Riley explained. "She tried to make-up to look like you, Miss Walton, and that caused the confusion. Government agents captured Sadie early this evening. She won't be masquerading as you any more for awhile. Why, even that dark guy, Benny, one of her pigeons, who left the warning card at your table, was fooled by the resemblance."

As Myra's dark eyes flashed angrily, O'Riley added: "Neither he nor the gorillas who were after Sadie's stuff had noticed that her eyes are a pale green, not a beautiful brown like yours." He smiled at Myra. She smiled back at him.

CLARA LUCILLE SANDERS
Address Unknown
No. 5036 Equity In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland

Order of Publication

The object of this suit is to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the plaintiff from the defendant.

The bill recites that the marriage of the parties was performed on the 13th day of June, 1954, at Terra Alta, West Virginia; that the plaintiff is and has been a resident of Garrett County, Maryland, for more than one year; that the defendant's whereabouts is unknown; that one child was born of said marriage, to-wit: Stephen Allen Sanders; that the defendant without just cause or reason abandoned and deserted the plaintiff during the month of December, 1956, prior to which time the said defendant committed the act of adultery with a man whose name is to be disclosed at the hearing of this cause, and said separation is deliberate and final and beyond reasonable expectation of reconciliation.

It is thereupon this 22nd day of December, 1960, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, ORDERED that the plaintiff, by having a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks before the 29th day of January, 1961, giving notice to the said absent defendant, Clara Lucille Sanders, of the object and substance of the Bill of Complaint, and warning her to be and appear in this Court, either in person or by a solicitor, on or before the 4th day of February, 1961, to show cause, if any she has, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

HERBERT C. LEIGHTON t/a LEIGHTON FUNERAL HOME
vs.
THE UNKNOWN HEIRS, devisees or personal representatives of MANSFIELD HINEBAUGH

No. 5638 Equity in the Circuit Court For Garrett County, Maryland

Order of Publication

The purpose of this suit is to obtain a decree for the sale of the real estate of which Mansfield Hinebaugh, late of Garrett County, Maryland, died seized and possessed, for payment of claims against his estate.

The Bill states:

That the said Mansfield Hinebaugh, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased, was during his lifetime and at the time of his death seized and possessed of certain parcel of land situate, the Town of Friendsville, Election District No. 2, Garrett County, Maryland, on Morris Street, which said property measures approximately 32 feet x 58 feet and is improved with a small store building, and being the same property conveyed to the said Mansfield Hinebaugh by deed from Edna Fike, et vir, dated February 24, 1944, and recorded in Liber A.G.R. No. 132, folio 512, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, a certified copy of said deed being filed with said Bill marked "Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1" and prayed to be taken as a part thereof; that while so seized and possessed of said property, the said Mansfield Hinebaugh departed this life intestate on July 11, 1960, not having ever married. That he left neither parents nor brothers or sisters surviving him. That the plaintiff is advised that there are living nieces and nephews of the said Mansfield Hinebaugh; that the said Mansfield Hinebaugh was receiving old-age assistance from the Garrett County Welfare Board at the time of his death. That the records of said Welfare Board do not disclose who the heirs of said decedent are. At the time of his death, inquiry was made by people in the Town of Friendsville, as to the whereabouts of his relatives, but these efforts were unsuccessful. Also the attorney for the plaintiff has inquired from people in the Town of Friendsville, concerning the whereabouts of said nieces and nephews that the said Mansfield Hinebaugh left no personal estate and there has accordingly been no administration, but the estate of the said Mansfield Hinebaugh is indebted unto the plaintiff in the amount of $445.35, which indebtedness represents the funeral expenses for said decedent; that said parcel of land has an assessed value of $96.00 and said store building an assessed value of $450.00 or a total assessment of $546.00. That the plaintiff feels that if the trustee appointed by this court files a surety bond in a penalty of $1,000.00, that same would be adequate to cover any possible purchase price received for said property.

The bill then prays that the real estate as aforesaid may be sold for payment of all unsatisfied claims against said decedent, and for general relief.

It is thereupon, this 23rd day of December, 1960, ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiff, by having a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 20th day of January, 1961, give notice to the unknown heirs, devisees or personal representatives of Mansfield Hinebaugh, warning them to be and appear in this Court, either in person or by solicitor, on or before the 4th day of February, 1961, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

HENRY K. WATERFORD seanned the sample invitation his wife had handed him. "So we're having a New Year get-together? I think It's a wonderful idea, Mary. It'll give me a chance to show those three brothers of mine how well THEY might have done. They never would listen to me in business matters."

"Tom and James haven't fared too badly," said Mary. "But poor Edward has had a hard time of it. It rather makes me proud of you, dear. You're so far ahead of the rest of the clan."

Henry bowed. He felt that he had earned his wife's praise. "Spare no expense on this party, honey," he said. "I want my younger brothers and their families to remember this New Year's Eve as long as they live. Do you think we should send Edward the train fare? He's got four kids, you know."

Correction

"Five," Mary corrected him. "But you're forgetting that Edward also has the Waterford pride. He wouldn't accept the money if we sent it. Remember the fuss he made about that lot you gave him?"

"Do I? And he insisted on giving me the twenty-five shares of stock that dad had left him. When I wanted to set him up in business he wouldn't hear of it. Sometimes I wonder if Edward's pride isn't holding him back. What do you think?"

"I'm sure I don't know, dear," said Mary. "But please don't embarrass any of your brothers."

They all showed up New Year's Eve. Henry glowed with pride while his three brothers and their families oohed' and 'aahed' their way through the richly furnished house

"You've done real well, Henry," said Tom approvingly as he reached for his second cocktail.

Henry shrugged. "And how are you boys doing?"

Reports

"James has been made sales manager of his company," said plump Mrs. James Waterford proudly.

"And Tom got himself a promotion only last week," said that brother's wife, not to be outdone.

"And Edward?" asked Henry. "How have you been getting along?"

"Oh—we're managing," said Edward quietly. "Our assets are here with us—five healthy children."

Mrs. Tom Waterford coughed. Henry could see that his brothers were amused by Edward's statement. He noticed a glint of scorn in their silent appraisal of Edward's 'best' suit.

Suddenly Henry felt guilty. "I think our Edward has outsmarted us all," he said.

"How's that?" asked James in surprise.

"Well—just look at him. He's surrounded by those who think he's a great guy. He's the picture of health. I'll bet you don't have some doctor restricting your diet, do you, Edward?"

Edward smiled. "No. Do you?"

Wisest

"We all do," said Henry, nodding toward James and Tom. Neither denied it. "Yes sir, Edward, you're pretty foxy. I think your wisest move was in giving me that stock to keep for you."

Edward held out his hand. "Thanks Henry! You always were a better business man than I."

"That's your fault," said Henry. "But I can still teach you—if you'll come into business with me."

Edward studied his little flock. Then his eyes sought Helen's. She nodded happily.

"Dinner's ready!" announced Mary Waterford. When the others had filed into the dining room she caught Henry's sleeve. "I heard that story about the stock," she said softly. "That was sweet of you, dear."

Henry grinned. "That's what big brothers are for, isn't it?" he asked.
